BALFOUR'S MINISTRY GOES ON THE ROCKS.

"Imperial Joey," Lord Hamilton and Ritchie Resign.

Retirement of Chamberlain Means Wiping Out of All Existing Party Lines—Birth of a New Organization, and Appeal to the Country and Probable Victory of Liberals at the Polls.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The simile of a bombshell was never more applicable to a political event in Great Britain than the resignation of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain. All sorts of rumors regarding the remodeling of the Cabinet which Mr. Balfour will have to undertake, and the imminence of a general election find currency in this morning's papers, one of which, the conservative Morning Post, summarizes this phase of the situation as follows:

"In spite of discordant views, two impressions come clearly out of the search for light at the clubs. One is that a general election is held to be close at hand; the other is that the Unionists are likely to be out of office for at least a little space."

The Daily Chronicle, the principal Liberal organ, says it can't understand why there were not more resignations from the Cabinet. It warns the public that Chamberlain has only retired because he can thereby best promote his scheme.

The Radical Daily News, which is not only bitterly opposed to Chamberlain politically, but habitually treats him as a personal incarnation of Satan, says the wrong and injustice of the past eight years have brought retribution to the government more swift and more desolating than brain could have conceived, and they have brought it through the agency of the man who has been the evil influence at the back of all.

Chamberlain, it says, has wrecked the Tory party and pulled the whole fabric of unionism to the dust. The present generation will not see it rehabilitated. "But," says the paper in conclusion, "Chamberlain has also wrecked himself. His career, whose memorial is shameful war and the wreck of two historic parties, is closed. His letter to Balfour is the letter of a gambler who has thrown his last coin and lost."

The Times eulogises Chamberlain as the greatest of imperial patroits Great Britain has yet produced, because he has faith in the empire. It expresses the belief that, paradoxical as it may seem, the policy and position of the government may in some respects be strengthened rather than weakened by the course adopted by the Colonial Secretary.

Existing party lines are practically wiped out, and Chamberlain, in order to triumph, must construct a new party out of the old ones.

DRAMATIC CRISIS.

GREAT STRUGGLE AHEAD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Sept. 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The retirement of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, which precipitates the most dramatic crisis and the bitterest party struggle since his secession from Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule Cabinet, and which was announced by the Associated Press yesterday afternoon, was unknown and unsuspected in London until the official announcement was issued late at night, too late for the evening papers. It will only become known to the general public from this morning's papers. There had been much exchanging of political visits early in the day, but as Premier Balfour and his brother Gerald left for their home at Whittingham early in the afternoon, it was thought that nothing would happen for a day or so. Late in the evening, however, the King's acceptance of the resignations of Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Ritchie and Lord George Hamilton arrived from Balmoral, enabling the Premier's secretary to make the official announcement.

It is understood that the resignations of some other members of the Cabinet are imminent, and that Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Secretary for Scotland, has actually resigned, although the fact has not yet been formally given out. Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary, left last night for Balmoral, whither Premier Balfour and his brother are also expected to proceed immediately.

In the Conservative clubs last night the manner in which the crisis was projected was almost as great a surprise as in the Liberal quarters. Curiosity centers on the attitude of the Duke of Devonshire, whose resignation has been fully expected. It was supposed by some that he would take the present opportunity of retiring from politics on the ground of his advanced years. As to the reconstruction of the Cabinet, no great interest is excited, although the political prophets are already busy appointing Austen Chamberlain Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Earl of Selbourne Secretary for the Colonies, etc., because it is recognised as impossible that an appeal to the country can be much longer delayed and the general opinion is that in the present shattered condition of the Unionist party the Liberals will be returned to power.

VICTORY IN DEFEAT.

The editorials in the government organs this morning practically recognise the certainty of the Liberals coming into power, while admitting that Mr. Chamberlain had gained a brilliant triumph by winning Mr. Balfour over to his opinions. Mr. Balfour's letter in this sense is considered vastly more important than his recent pamphlet, because in it he unhesitatingly admits the principle of Mr. Chamberlain's project, only contending that the country is not yet ripe for it. It is clear, however, that he regards retaliation as a stepping-stone to a preferential tariff and the taxation of food. That the Unionist party as a whole does not agree with this view is equally self-evident.

The conservative papers, while congratulating Chamberlain on his courage and devotion to his principles, regret his action, because it is their belief that the country will never consent to the taxation of food.

The Standard declares that the raising of preferential issue was perfectly gratuitous. There was never the smallest evidence that either the mother country or the colonies was pressing for it. To throw his apple of discord into the arena of party politics, th eStandard thinks was an unfortunate error, all the more regrettable because the statesman who did so much to create a solid unionist column has been the one to shake its foundation.

It is this element of doubt regarding the wisdom of Mr. Chamberlain's course in spite of his tremendous personality which leads the Unionists to count more upon the weakness of the Liberal party, due to its internal divisions, than to the strength of their own party in the coming contest. The Liberals, on the other hand, are jubilant. With the discredit attaching to the government as the result of the report of the South African War Commission, and the strong free trade tendency in the country, as revealed by the recent bye elections, they look forward to an appeal to the country with the utmost confidence.

RADICALS REJOICE.

The Radical Daily News, in its joy declares: "Mr. Chamberlain has met his Waterloo, and in his heart he knows it. His campaign will be invested with deep personal interest, but it will be the campaign of a lost cause."

Earl Spencer, Liberal leader in the House of Lords, in an interview last night, admitted that the news came as a complete surprise to him, and though it was satisfactory from a party point of view, it would mean a very stiff election fight with such a powerful opponent as Chamberlain.

According to the Daily Telegraph, which is supposed to be closely connected with Mr. Chamberlain, the contents of his letter to Mr. Balfour announcing his intention to resign were unknown to his colleagues at Monday's Cabinet council, and much comment is made on the successful manner in which the secret was kept. As the Premier has known for so long that Mr. Chamberlain would resign, it is supposed that all the details of the reconstruction of the ministry were practically arranged this week, and that he will be able almost immediately to submit a new Cabinet to the King. Strong demands are made in the papers for the elimination of Lord Lansdowne and the others concerned in the report of the South African War Commission. Rumors are current that Viscount Milner, the High Commissioner in South Africa, may be invited to become Minister for the Colonies, that Mr. Broderick will take the India office, and Arnold Forster will take the war portfolio. Beyond the evident fact that the ministry must be reconstructed on a purely protectionist basis, however, all is speculation.

Mr Chamberlain is at Birmingham where, strangely enough, his resignation was a greater surprise even than in London. He is apparently busily engaged in preparing his campaign, but declined last night to make any public statement.

STRAAW SHOWING THE WIND.

The bye election in the constituency of St. Andrews, Scotland, to replace a Liberal-Unionist, Henry Torrens Anstruther, who has been appointed to a government directorship in the Suez Canal Company, which was held today, resulted in a Liberal victory, Capt. Ellice being elected with 1324 votes against 1288 given to Maj. Anstruther Thompson, Unionist.

The election was fought with unparalleled keenness on the fiscal and educational question and the report of the South African Commission.

FOR IMPERIAL UNITY.

CHAMBERLAIN'S REASON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Sept. 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The official announcement of the resignations of Mr. Chamberlain and two other members of the Cabinet, which were announced by the Associated Press earlier in the day, was made tonight at Downing street in the following communication:

"The following ministers have tendered their resignations, which have been accepted by the King.

"Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary for the Colonies; Rt. Hon. C. T. Ritchie, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Lord George Hamilton, Secretary for India.

CHAMBERLAIN'S LETTER.

"The accompanying correspondence passed between the Premier, Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, and Mr. Chamberlain:"

Then follows Mr. Chamberlain's letter, dated Birmingham, Sept 9, commencing:

"My Dear Balfour," in which he sets forth his reason for resignation. An extremely interesting feature of the letter is the following statement concerning a preferential tariff:

"For the present, at any rate, a preferential tariff agreement with our colonies involving any new duty, however small, on articles of food hitherto untaxed, even if accompanied by a reduction of taxation on other articles of food equally universal in their consumption, would be unacceptable to the majority of the constituencies. However much we may regret the decision, however mistaken we may think it, no good government in a Democratic country can ignore it. I feel, therefore, that as an immediate practical policy the question of preference to the colonies cannot be pressed with any hope of success at the present time, although there is a very strong feeling in favor of the other branch of fiscal reform which would give fuller discretion to the government in negotiating with foreign countries for a freer exchange of commodities, and which would enable our representatives to retaliate if no concession was made to our just demands.

"If, as I believe, you share these views, it seems to me that you will be absolutely justified in adopting them as the policy of your government, although it will necessarily involve some changes in its constitution. As Secretary for the Colonies during the last eight years, I have been in a special sense the representative of the policy of a closer union, which I firmly believe to be equally necessary in the interests of the colonies and ourselves.

"I believe it is possible today, and may be impossible tomorrow, to make arrangements for such a union. I have had unexampled opportunities of watching events and appreciating the feelings of our kinsmen beyond the seas. I stand therefore, in a different position to any of my colleagues, and I think that I should justly be blamed if I remained in office and thus formally accepted the exclusion from my political programme of so important a part thereof.

"I think that with absolute loyalty to your government, and with no fear of embarassing it in any way, I can best promote the cause I have laid aside, and I cannot but hope that in a perfectly independent position my arguments may be received with less prejudice, than when they attach to those of a party leader. Accordingly I would suggest that you limit the present policy of the government to an assertion of our freedom in the case of all commercial relations with foreign countries, and that you should agree to my tendering my resignation of my present office to His Majesty and devoting myself to the work of explaining and popularising these principles of imperial union which experience has convinced me are essential to our future welfare and prosperity.

"Yours Very Sincerely,

"JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN."

The first portion of this letter refers to Mr. Chamberlain's first speech on the subject at Birmingham and Balfour's reply to the corn deputation. Mr Chamberlain says that neither of them was intended to provoke a purely party controversy. He points out the unyielding opposition of the Liberal Party, which scouted the idea that a system generally accepted in 1846 could possibly require modification in 1903.

Meanwhile the advocates of the reconsideration were at a great disadvantage owing to the admitted difference of opinion inside the party. The political organization of the party was paralyzed. Mr. Chamberlain declares that an unscrupulous use has been made of the old cry of the "dear loaf," and that serious prejudice has been created In the rest of the letter he goes briefly over the same ground regarding protection as did Mr. Balfour in his recent statement.

BALFOUR'S REPLY.

Mr. Balfour, in a letter to Mr. Chamberlain, dated September 16, explains that he did not reply earlier because he knew he would soon have an opportunity of talking over the important issues with which the letter deals. "Therefore, this reply," he says, "rather embidies the result of our conversations than adds anything new to them."

Mr. Balfour continues:

"Agreeing, as I do, with you that the time has come when a change should be made in the fiscal canons by which we bound ourselves in our commercial dealings with other governments, it seems paradoxical indeed, that you should leave the Cabinet at the time that others of my colleagues are leaving it, who disagree on the very point with us both. Yet I cannot but admit that there is some force in your argument in support of that course, based as they are upon your special and personal relations with that portion of the controversy which deals with Colonial preference. You have done more than any man living or dead to bring home to the citizens of the empire the consciousness of imperial obligation and interdependence between the various fragments into which the empire is geographically divided.

"I believe you to be right in holding that this interdependence should find expression in our commercial as well as our political and military relations. I believe with you that a closer fiscal union between the mother country and the colonies would benefit the trade of both, and if such closer union could be established on fitting terms, advantages to both parties would increase with years as the colonies grew in wealth and population.

"If there has ever been any difference between us in connection with this matter it has only been with regard to the practicability of the proposal which would seem to require on the part of the colonies a limitation in the all-

MASSACRE THOUSANDS

Climax of Turkish Atrocities.

Turkey on War Footing—Occupation of Macedonia by Russia and Austria Suggested.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SOFIA (Bulgaria) Sept. 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Foreign Office here has received reliable information that the Turks have destroyed the town of Kastoria, thirty-six miles south of Monastir, and have massacred the population.

The report of a massacre at Kastoria comes from sources admitting of little doubt, though the details are lacking. It was received with the gravest concern by the officials here. The population of Kastoria numbers about 10,000, and the massacre of such a number in one place, if the report be true, exceeds anything which has yet occurred in Macedonia. At the present critical moment, when popular feeling is intense, the effect of the report of such stupendous slaughter may be most serious.

The press is assuming a bellicose tone. The Dnevnik tonight complains that the government's partial mobilization of three divisions is utterly inadequate and urges the immediate mobilization of the whole Bulgarian army, pointing out that the experience of other nations, France, the United States and Austria, has proved that it is always necessary to display strength when dealing with Turkey.

The paper advises the government to act now, "at a favorable moment, when the people of Europe are evidencing encouragement of Bulgaria."

The government, while steadily proceeding with the partial mobilization plans, is endeavoring to avoid unnecessarily exciting the people, and consequently has resolved not to mobilize any of the Boda garrison.

The War Office has recalled the Bulgarian officers who were studying in the military schools of Russia, France, Austria and Italy.

The Autonomye publishes the names of thirteen villages in the vilayet of Monastir which were recently destroyed by regular troops and bashi bazouks and also announces that the monastery of the Holy of Holies, near Okhrida, has been destroyed. At the monastery Turkish soldiers killed an entire family, the Bulgarian priest, his children and his grandchildren, thirty-five persons in all.

A letter from Adrianople says 1300 refugees, mostly women and children, have arrived in that city, having escaped from the general burning and massacre in the villages of Edina, Karadare and Mokuacheve by the Turkish troops. Many of the children were horribly mutilated. The insurgents have cut the telegraphic line between Voden and Ber, in Albania.

TURKEY ON WAR FOOTING.

BIG ORDER OF CARTRIDGES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] With the calling out of the reserves of the Fourth and Sixth Corps, Turkey is now on a war footing, only two Arabian corps remaining at peace strength. The fresh mobilization according to German military opinion, will take three weeks, but if the troops are to be employed in European Turkey, it will take considerably longer. A month from now, however, Turkey will have all the reserves available.

The Ludwin-Lowe Company of Berlin has completed an order for a hundred million cartridges for Turkey. The last of them it is understood are in transit. This company is also delivering to Turkey more of the single shot Mausers formerly used by the German army.

POWERS'S ONLY WAY OUT.

OCCUPATION OF MACEDONIA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The military occupation of Macedonia by Russia and Austria is thought here to be the only expedient sufficient to prevent war between Turkey and Bulgaria. This suggestion does not originate in Berlin. It reached here some days ago as an inquiry from Vienna to the Foreign Office as to what Germany thought of the two powers intervening, such intervention to be barely long enough to restore order and reorganize the Turkish constabulary properly. The inquiry, it has assumed, rested upon a Russian-Austrian agreement. The identical question will probably be put to all the signatories of the Berlin treaty.

The German reply appears to have been considerably affirmative. Since the territory to be occupied was Turkish, Turkey's consent ought to be secured. Germany then would have no objection. But Turkey has not agreed to this, the reason put forward being that Turkey's prestige is endangered, the insurrection having gone too far for Turkey to withdraw. She has been told she must put down the uprising promptly, and was doing so. It was now nearly stamped out, and the Porte entirely able to finish the work, and

EXISTING LAND LAWS.

Majority Sentiment Favors Radical Changes.

Two Reports to be Presented to Irrigation Congress.

Secretary Wilson Tells of Work of Agricultural Department. Newland's Address.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OGDEN (Utah.) Sept. 17.—That there will be a determined fight in the National Irrigation Congress favoring the repeal or modification of the existing land laws was made evident today. The Committee on Resolutions, after practically an all-day session, found itself hopelessly divided on two of three great questions before it—the desert land act, and the commutation clause of the homestead act—and tomorrow majority and minority reports will be presented on the action recommended by the committee. The vote on these two questions was 12 for and 9 against.

The sentiment in favor of the repeal of the timber and stone act, under which, the opinion was expressed, great frauds were being perpetrated against the government, was almost unanimous. Nevertheless, on this, as well as other recommendations, a sharp fight will be waged with the outcome in doubt. The Idaho delegation held a caucus this afternoon and instructed Congressman French to lead the fight against action in favor of the repeal of the existing laws, and members of other Northwestern delegations are also preparing to oppose to the last any such action. An attempt, it is stated, will be made to bring the subject before the congress tomorrow and a protracted debate is looked for.

The fight for the honor of entertaining the congress in 1904, is quite bitter. Tonight the situation seems to be El Paso against a field of unknown strength.

The Oregon delegation caucused this morning and decided to favor the repeal of all existing land laws and the reenactment of the old five-year homestead law, and it is probable that a brisk fight for this action will be made. Nearly all the delegates took advantage of the trip up the beautiful Ogden Cañon to the experimental farm this afternoon.

OFFICIAL SLATE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OGDEN (Utah.) Sept. 17.—The Committee on Resolutions of the National Irrigation Congress tomorrow will recommend the election of the following officers for the ensuing year:

President, W. A. Clark, Montana.

First vice-president, L. W. Shuttliff, Utah.

Second vice-president, W. C. Johnston, Denver, Colo.

Third vice-president, John Hall, Texas.

Secretary, H. B. Maxson, Reno, Nev.

There is no opposition to the reelection of Senator Clark as president of the congress, and it is expected that the list of officers as presented will be elected by the congress by a unanimous vote.

The codlin moth ruined the chances of Utah to win the Clark cup for the fruit exhibit of the arid States' display. Although the exhibit was by far the most elaborate, the examining board promptly turned it down on discovering the moth, and the beautiful trophy was awarded to Idaho.

The Anheuser-Busch cup for the best display of hops was awarded to McNeff Bros. of North Yakima, Wash., and the Pabst cup for the best barley exhibit from the arid States was given to the Manhattan Malting Company of Manhattan, Mont. The sugar-beet award may not be made until Saturday, as an elaborate system of testing is being made.

When the congress convened at 10 o'clock scarcely half the delegates were in their seats. Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada was the first speaker. He spoke on "State Cooperation with National Irrigation."

LESSON FROM NEVADA.

Mr. Newlands remarked that one of the difficulties in framing the National Irrigation Act was the unwillingness of certain of the arid States, which had already placed their systems of irrigation under the direction of State boards of control and State engineers, to yield to any legislation which gave the Federal authorities any right to interfere with State control. He then described the working of the Nevada laws, which secured the amplest cooperation of the irrigation system of the State, and which placed the streams in entire control of the government, while the work of construction was going on. The State administration moves along the same grooves and in harmony with the national, and so, when the government turns control over to the State, as provided in the irrigation act, the State bureau will be thoroughly organized, possessed of all the data, information and plans necessary to go on with the work of administration, and even of construction, if any is necessary.

Mr. Newlands urged that similar legislation on the part of other States would bring about the spirit of cooperation so necessary to inaugurate great projects within their boundaries.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson was then introduced amid a great outburst of applause to speak on the work of the Department of Agriculture regarding irrigation.

WILSON'S TEXT.

Secretary Wilson took as his subject, "Irrigation Investigations Made by the United States Department of Agriculture." He said in part:

"The husbanding of our waters that go to waste when the snow melts in the mountains, through government agencies, is a new departure for which we may thank President Roosevelt. All other influences combined would have failed to secure the legislation. It was a wise movement. It will result in making homes for millions more people. It will make markets for manufactures and business for commerce. It will help to balance off the growth of our cities. It will result in producing the hundred million dollars worth of sugar we now buy abroad. It will do all this and much more, and still leave large areas that cannot be irrigated.

"The principal object of this congress in the past has been the securing of government aid in the building of irrigation works so that the greatest possible area of the arid lands of the West might be brought under cultivation. That object has been attained, but the most optimistic friend of irrigation admits that when all the available sources of water shall have been put to use, either by public or private works, only a small fraction of the arid lands can be reclaimed. In such a situation there are two things which may be done to increase the area which can be reclaimed; one is to increase the water supply; the other is to make better use of what we have. The work of the Agricultural Department as authorized by Congress, is along the latter line. Some of the possibilities along this line which have been suggested by our work up to the present time will be here presented, together with a general statement of what we are doing to realise them.

FIELD WORK.

"Up to the present time a large part of the field work of the department has been measuring the quantities of water used in irrigation. Measurements have been made at the heads of canals, at the heads of laterals, and at the margins of fields. The great differences between the quantities diverted by some canals and the quantities delivered to farmers by them, led to a series of measurements to find out where the water taken from the streams, but not delivered to farmers, went. Such measurements made up to and including the season of 1901, show that canals on an average lose 6.75 per cent. of the water entering them in each mile of their length, some small canals losing in a single mile as high as 6.4 per cent. of the water diverted by them. The general average of the volume lost by canals in their entire length is usually given as one-third of the volume diverted, although our measurements will indicate that it is even greater. The saving of these losses from canals means an increase of at least a third in the area which can ultimately be reclaimed. The measurements made show that in many canals the larger part of the losses occur in short sections of the canals, and the measurements locate these sections. Where this is the case, the losses can be stopped by lining the canals or putting in flumes for these short distances where the losses are greatest. The measurements show another fact: The percentage of losses from small canals is much greater than those from large canals. Averages of our measurements show that:

"Canals carrying 100 cubic feet per second or more lose .98 per cent. per mile.

"Canals carrying from 50 to 100 cubic feet per second lose 2.67 per cent. per mile.

"Canals carrying from 25 to 50 cubic feet per second lose 5.22 per cent. per mile.

"Canals carrying less than 25 cubic feet per second lose 7.48 per cent. per mile.

"These figures show that the percentage of loss from small canals is more than seven times that from large canals. Great saving can, therefore, be made by running water in large canals rather than in a larger number of small ones.

GREAT POSSIBILITIES.

"Various experiments have been made in lining ditches to prevent loss, and the department is collecting all available information on this subject.

"The losses from laterals have been shown to be nearly if not quite as great as those from ditches. We are studying methods of constructing laterals and of making them more economical carriers of water.

"Great as are the possibilities of saving by stopping the losses from canals and laterals, they are not so great as the possibilities of saving in use. Our measurements of the quantities actually used by farmers show that some use from five to ten times as much water as others who are raising the same crops under similar conditions and who secure equally good if not better returns.

SUMS UP THE WORK.

"To sum up what the Department of Agriculture is doing to further the prime object of this congress—the greatest possible extension of the area irrigated.

"Our measurements show losses from main canals and laterals of more than half the water diverted from streams. We are studying ways of stopping these losses, which means a doubling of the area which can be reclaimed.

"Our measurements of the quantities of water used indicate that the duty of water can be doubled even under present methods. We are demonstrating to farmers that this is true, and studying means of inducing them to practice the economy which will make possible another doubling of the area which can be reclaimed.

"We are experimenting with improved methods and new plants in the hope that the water requirements may be still further reduced, permitting a still wider extension of the area which can ultimately be reclaimed.

"This great increase in area is possible through the saving of what is now wasted. But the damage resulting from losses of water from canals and from use of too much water is not limited to a reduction in the area reclaimed. The surplus water is actually reducing the area now farmed by swamping fertile lands and bringing to the surface such quantities of alkali as to kill all useful vegetation. We are studying means of relieving these conditions both in this country and in the older countries where the damage has been of long standing, and are making experiments along the same line in a number of places throughout the West.

STUDYING ALKALI SOILS.

"It is estimated that about 600,000 acres of land at present under irrigation in the Western United States are lying idle solely because they contain too much alkali to permit paying crops being produced. Whenever practicable, it is advisable to reclaim land of this character by washing and drainage. Nevertheless, in much of this land and that which may be irrigated in the future, the establishment of a proper drainage system would not be profitably undertaken under existing conditions. The question is, can anything else be done with such land?

"To answer this query the Bureau of Plant Industry is endeavoring to secure crops suitable for cultivation in alkali soils. Other parts of the world, where the alkali problem is a serious one, are being explored with a view to importing such of their useful plants as endure a large amount of these harmful salts. As a result, seed of resistant alfalfa has been obtained from Algeria and Turkestan, cotton from Egypt, for trial in the warmer parts of the Southwest, and promising varieties of wheat and barley from various countries of the Old World. Resistant fruit trees, such as the date palm, and the pistache, have also been imported.

"It is not proposed merely to distribute these things as they are received by the department. Plant-breeding methods are being resorted to in order to fix and, if possible, by careful selection, increase their alkali resistant qualities. Small tracts of alkali land are being planted with the imported seed, and from the best individuals that survive, seed is taken for continuing the experiment. Similar breeding and selection work is in progress to secure greater alkali resistance in our native crops as sugar beets, alfalfa, etc. In this way we expect to breed in a few years alkali-retsistant strains of some of the most important field crops grown in the semi-arid parts of the West.

"In the United States alfalfa does not generally stand more than one-half per cent. of 'white alkali' in the upper six feet of soil. In the oases in the Sahara Desert, a kind has been found which thrives in soil containing as much as 1 per cent. of these salts in the surface foot. If this alfalfa can be adapted to American conditions and retains here its high degree of resistance, a large per cent. of the entire 660,000 acres of alkali land already mentioned could be put into this crop. In the great increase in irrigated area which is bound to come in the near future, this work will become still greater in importance, when alkali has to be contended with and drainage is not practicable."

SMYTHE'S ADDRESS.

William E. Smythe of California, one of the originators of the National Irrigation Congress, from which the present movement has grown, delivered an address entitled "The Influence of Irrigation on the American Ideal." He paid a tribute to the Utah pioneers as the fathers of the American industry among English-speaking men, and then sketched the influence of irrigation and the environment of the arid region on social life and industrial organization. He predicted a very high development of coöperation as the outcome of natural conditions in the West. This is already seen in the management of the water supply and will extend in all directions.

The six great landmarks in irrigation history, as described by the speaker, were the report of Maj. John W. Powell, on "Lands of the Arid Region," 1879; the birth of the national irrigation movement through the Salt Lake convention, 1891; the report of Capt. Hiram M. Chittenden on "Reservoirs of the Arid Region," 1897; the organization of the progressive propaganda among commercial interests, 1898; the President's message, 1901; and the passage of the Hansbörough-Newlands bill, 1902. He proceeded as follows:

"What of the future? Have we completed our work? By no means—it is only well begun. The present policy of national irrigation represents only an experimental stage of the work. The reclamation fund contains today merely a bagatelle—ten to fifteen million dollars. With that, we can make a few samples, but we cannot begin to supply the demand for irrigated homesteads which already presses upon us, to say nothing of the incalculable demands of the future.

"We must spend as much in building homes as we cheerfully spend in building navies—as much in organizing the armies of peace as we spend in maintaining the armies of war—as much in averting the menace of foes at home (the foes of want, of land-hunger, of craving for economic independence,) as we would spend in repelling the invasion of foreign foes.

"In order to carry out this epoch-making project to the full measure of noblest achievement, we must have something beside the crumbs from the table of the land office. We must have the rich, invigorating and satisfying roast beef from the Appropriation Bill, served hot from the Treasury of the United States.

"How much money we must ultimately have we do not pretend to say, but this we will promise: that for every dollar we receive for national irrigation we will return many dollars in taxes, direct and indirect, to county, State and nation, and many more dollars in social and economic gains which no actuary can figure and no imagination exaggerate.

"But in order to do this there is one thing which we must first accomplish. We have outgrown our present land laws. They are archaic and hopelessly out of style. We got them at a time when the West was looked upon as a sort of stepchild of the republic, when these young States were compelled to wear the cast-off garments of their elder sisters, regardless of fit and regardless of appearance. We want a new twentieth-century suit of land laws, made to fit small farms and real home seekers and home builders. And we must have this new design before all the material is exhausted, and our beautiful arid America left naked to her enemies.

"This assertion of national power in the creation and management of public utilities—this expenditure of national capital for the direct and lasting benefit of the masses—is the most momentous step in our social history since the abolition of negro slavery. We are applying new principles to the problems of our new birth of institutions built on the recognition of the nation's right and the nation's duty to do for its people whatever shall be necessary to their greatest happiness and their truest welfare. In the hour of peril, it will be the derided desert which shall save the republic by keeping it true to its primitive ideals, set to the music of a new time."

Chief Engineer Walcott, head of the United States Geological Survey, has received a letter from the Peruvian government, asking that he appoint two engineers to take charge of the reclamation work in Peru. The positions are permanent, and carry a large salary. He will probably suggest the names of two members of the party of twenty-nine engineers now holding sessions in this city.

THAT LOST CUP.

WHY CALIFORNIA LOST IT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—California, like Utah, lost the $500 Senator Clark loving cup prize today in the Irrigation Congress contest at Ogden for the best display of fruits raised by means of irrigation. Both of the losing States were close competitors, and the general belief was that Utah would be the victor, but its collection, like that of the Golden State is said to have been somewhat marred by fruit pests. The trophy is a magnificent one, and will be taken to the World's Fair at St. Louis next year to be exhibited with Idaho's general display. The judges were Prof. Frederick W. Taylor, chief of the Department of Horticulture of the St. Louis Exposition, Col. Henry E. Dosch, Fair Commissioner for Ogden and Mrs. Shields of California.

The contest for the big silver cup for the best display of sugar beets has apparently narrowed down to California and Colorado, with chances, it is thought, in favor of the former. The award will be made tomorrow.

FIELD AGAINST EL PASO.

CALIFORNIANS FOR RENO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A good many of the California delegates to the National Irrigation Congress at Ogden are in Salt Lake tonight, having come down on the evening train to see the city and attend the theaters. They have also done some caucusing with local delegates on the question of the next meeting place for the congress, which has been made the special order of business for two meetings at 10 o'clock. A great deal of interest has been aroused over the matter on account of the heavy attendance, the big success of the present meeting and the growing interest in irrigation. Portland, Reno, Boise, St. Louis and El Paso, each has its supporters, one of the objections urged against St. Louis is the fact of the World's Fair, which, it is said, might distract the congress from its important work.

Today saw a change in the sentiment on the part of the Utah delegation. El Paso stock soared high, swayed by the eloquence of Gus Holmes and the promise of a bull fight at Juarez, Mex., just across the border, and other attractions, El Paso looked good to everybody. Members of the delegation provided badges for all who would accept them and plastered the town with placards bearing the legend: "Ho! for El Paso." Sombreros and canes were distributed, the famous Mexican band played, and things were whooped up in genuine Lone Star style.

On second thought, however, the Western States delegates seemed to arrive at the conclusion that the congress should be held out West instead of in the South next time. Reno has the support of the California delegation solid, while Boise had a strong following. Spokane was also brought into the field. A caucus was held between the delegates from California, Nevada, Idaho and North Dakota to agree, if possible, on one of these States. The sentiment seemed to be anything to beat El Paso.

ON FIELD OF ANTIETAM.

Monument to New Jersey's Heroes Dedicated.

President Speaks for the Nation for Which They Died.

Splendid Lesson for Posterity Written by the Grand Army of the Republic.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SHARPSBURG (Md.) Sept. 17.—Under lowering skies the magnificent monument erected on the historic battlefield of Antietam by the State of New Jersey to its men who fell in the great engagement was dedicated today. The occasion was rendered particularly notable by the presence at and participation in the ceremonies of the President of the United States and of Gov. Murphy, the executive of the State which was honoring her heroes. The special train bearing the President, Gov. Murphy and their parties, arrived here at 9:10 o'clock. Gov. Murphy was accompanied by Senators Kean and Dryden, by several prominent State officials and by his entire military staff. Special trains bearing nearly a thousand New Jersey survivors of the Civil War arrived just after the arrival of the Presidential train. The trip of the President from Jersey City was devoid of special incident. Many stops were made, and secret-service officers were on guard throughout the night. After daylight crowds assembled at every station to greet the President. He appeared on the rear platform of his private car at Chambersburg, Pa., shortly after 7 o'clock. He simply greeted the crowd cordially.

AFTER-BREAKFAST ADDRESS.

At Hagerstown, Md., the President left his breakfast table and his breakfast guests Gov. Murphy and Senators Kean and Dryden, to address a throng of several hundred people. He said:

"I am on my way to accept on behalf of the United States government the monument erected to the New Jersey troops who fought at Antietam, but in a larger sense I go to commemorate the valor of every man who, in the days that tried men's souls, proved their truth by their endeavors in the service of the national government. [Cheers.]

"It is a peculiar pleasure to me today or any other day to see in the audience the men who wear the button which shows that they fought in the Grand Army of the Republic. They left to us not only a reunited country, but the memory of the great deeds by which it was made united. The times are easy now, compared to what they were in the days from '61 to '65, but we need to display just exactly the same qualities that made you win out under the leadership of Abraham Lincoln.

"I want to say how glad I am to see the Grand Army of the Republic and next to the Grand Army I want to greet the future; I want to say how glad I am to have seen the children.

"Just one word in closing. As I said, we need to display the same qualities now that you needed in '61. A man was not worth anything if he was not patriotic and decent. That was first and that was not enough. No matter how patriotic he was if he ran away he was no good. In addition to decency he had to have the qualities that would make the decency effective.

"It is just the same way now in civil life. A man must be decent, honest, upright as a good citizen, and if he has not the qualities of honesty and decency in him, then the abler he is the worse he is. I do not care how able a man is, if he has not the root of clean living in him, if he is not a decent and honest man, if he is a bribe-giver or a bribe-taker, if he is a man who defrauds in public or private life, if he is a bad husband, bad father, bad son, then he is poor stuff out of which to make a citizen. You of the Grand Army of the Republic left us what the victory in no other war left us. You left the right of comradeship with the vanquished; you left us the right of brotherhood with the men who wore the gray and nothing pleases me more than the fact that to an audience composed of Union veterans one can always make the appeal for the men who fought against you and whose sons are now as loyal as we are to the flag of our common country." [Applause.]

At 10 o'clock the President and Gov. Murphy, accompanied by Senators Kean and Dryden, the entire party and hundreds of citizens, left Sharpsburg station for the famous Dunkard church on the battlefield of Antietam. There the the brigades of veterans in columns of fours escorted the President, Gov. Murphy and distinguished guests to the monument. The monument is in the form of a Corinthian column of granite, forty feet high, surmounted by a heroic figure in bronze of an officer with upraised sword leading his men in charge. The figure is intended as a representation of Capt. Irish, of the Thirteenth New Jersey Volunteers, who was the only New Jersey officer killed at Antietam.

ORATION AT ANTIETAM.

After the assembly was called to order by James O. Smith of the New Jersey Monument Committee, and an invocation had been pronounced by Rev. Dr. Frazer of Newark, Mr. Smith reported to Gov. Murphy the final work of the committee. On behalf of the State of New Jersey, Gov. Murphy accepted the monument in a brief address. President Roosevelt, as he arose to accept the monument on behalf of the Federal government, was accorded an ovation. He spoke as follows:

Gov. Murphy, and you, veterans of New Jersey; and you, men of the Grand Army, and all others here, I greet you:

I thank you of New Jersey for the monument to the troops of New Jersey who fought at Antitam, and on behalf of the nation I accept the gift. We meet today upon one of the great battlefields of the Civil War. No other battle of the Civil War lasting but one day shows as great a percentage of loss as that which occurred here upon the day on which Antietam was fought. Moreover, in its ultimate effects this battle was of momentous and even decisive importance, for when it had ended and Lee had retreated south of the Potomac, Lincoln forthwith published that immortal paper, the preliminary declaration of emancipation; the paper which decided that the Civil War, besides being a war for the preservation of the Union, should be a war for the emancipation of the slave, so that from time onward the causes of union and freedom, of national greatness and individual liberty, were one and the same.

NEW JERSEY'S SHARE.

Men of New Jersey, I congratulate your State because she has the right to claim her full share in the honor and glory of that memorable day, and I congratulate you, Gov. Murphy, because on that day you had the high good fortune to serve as a lad with credit and honor in one of the five regiments which your State sent to the battle. Four of those regiments, by the way, served in the division commanded by that gallant soldier, Henry W. Slocum, whom we of New York claim as our own. The other regiment, that in which Gov Murphy served, although practically an entirely new regiment, did work as good as that of any veteran organization upon the field, and suffered a proportional loss. This regiment was at one time ordered to the support of a division commanded by another New York soldier, the gallant Gen. Greene, whose son himself served as a major-general in the war with Spain, and who is now, as Police Commissioner of New York, rendering as signal service in civil life as he had already rendered in military life.

IMPORTANCE OF VICTORY.

If the issue of Antietam had been other than it was, it is probable that at least two great European powers would have recognized the independence of the Confederacy; so that you who fought here forty-one years ago have the profound satisfaction of feeling that you played well your part in one o those crises big with the fate of all mankind.

DEBT OF HUMANITY.

"You men of the Grand Army by your victory not only rendered all Americans your debtors forevermore, but you rendered all humanity your debtors. If the Union had been dissolved, if the great edifice built with blood and sweat and tears by mighty Washington and his compeers had gone down in wreck and ruin, the result would have been an incalculable calamity, not only for our people—and most of all for those who, in such event would have seemingly triumphed—but for all mankind. The great American republic would have become a memory of derision; and the failure of the experiment of self-government by a great people on a great scale would have delighted the heart of every foe of republican institutions. Our country, now so great and so wonderful, would have been split into little jangling rival nationalities, each with a history both bloody and contemptible. It was because you, the men who wear the button of the Grand Army, triumphed in those dark years that every American now holds his head high, proud in the knowledge that he belongs to a nation whose glorious past and great present will be exceeded by an even mightier future; whereas had you failed we would all of us, North and South, East and West, be now treated by other nations at the best with contemptuous tolerance; at the worst with overbearing insolence.

NO OTHER WAR SO VITAL.

"Moreover, every friend of liberty, every believer in self-government, every idealist who wished to see his ideals take practical shape, wherever he might be in the world, knew that the success of all in which he most believed was bound up with the success of the Union armies in this great struggle. I confidently predict that when the final judgment of history is recorded it will be said that in no other war of which we have written record was it more vitally essential for the welfare of mankind that victory should rest where it finally rested.

"There have been other wars for individual freedom. There have been other wars for national greatness. But there has never been another war in which the issues at stake were so large, looked at from either standpoint. We take just pride in the great deeds of the men of 1776, but we must keep in mind that the Revolutionary War would have been shorn of well nigh all its results had the side of union and liberty been defeated in the Civil War. In such case we should merely have added another to the lamentably long list of cases in which peoples have shown that after winning their liberty they are wholly unable to make good use of it.

DUTY OF THE LIVING.

"It now rests with us in civil life to make good by our deeds the deeds which you who were the blue did in the great years from '61 to '65. The patriotism, the courage, the unflinching resolution and steadfast endurance of the soldiers whose triumph was crowned at Appomattox must be supplemented on our part by civic courage, civic honesty, cool sanity, and steadfast adherence to the immutable laws of righteousness. You left us a reunited country; reunited in fact as well as in name. You left us the right of brotherhood with your gallant foes who wore the gray; the right to feel pride in their courage and their high fealty to an ideal, even though they warred against the stars in their courses. You left us also the most splendid example of what brotherhood really means; for in your careers you showed in practical fashion that our only safety in our American life lies in spurning the accidental distinctions which sunder one man from another, and in paying homage to each man only because of what he essentially is; in stripping off the husks of occupation, of position, of accident, until the soul stands forth revealed, and we know the man only because of his worth as a man.

NO PATENT DEVICE.

"There was no patent device for securing victory by force of arms forty years ago; and there is no patent device for securing victory for the forces of righteousness in civil life now. In each case the all-important factor was and is the character of the individual man. Good laws in the state, like a good organization in an army, are the expressions of national character. Leaders will be developed in military and in civil life alike; and weapons and tactics change from generation to generation, as methods of achieving good government change in civic affairs; but the fundamental qualities which make for good citizenship do not change any more than the fundamental qualities which make good soldiers. In the long run in the Civil War the thing that counted for more than aught else was the fact that the average American had the fighting edge; had within him the spirit which spurred him on through toil and danger, fatigue and hardship, to the goal of the splendid ultimate triumph. So in achieving good government the fundamental factor must be the character of the average citizen; that average citizen's power of hatred for what is mean and base and unlovely; his fearless scorn of cowardice and his determination to war unyieldingly against the dark and sordid forces of evil.

SPIRIT IS THE SAME.

"The continental troops who followed Washington were clad in blue and buff, and were armed with clumsy, flintlock muskets. You, who followed Grant, wore the famous old blue uniform, and your weapons had changed as had your uniform; and now the men of the American army who uphold the honor of the flag in the far tropic lands are yet differently armed and differently clad and differently trained; but the spirit that has driven you all to victory has remained forever unchanged. So it is in civil life. As you did not win in a month or a year, but only after long years of hard and dangerous work, so the fight for governmental honesty and efficiency can be won only by the display of similar patience and similar resolution and power of endurance. We need the same type of character now that was needed by the men who with Washington first inaugurated the system of free popular government, the system of combined liberty and order here on this continent; that was needed by the men who under Lincoln perpetuated the government which had thus been inaugurated in the days of Washington. The qualities essential to good citizenship and to good public service now are in all their essentials exactly the same as in the days when the first Congresses met to provide for the establishment of the Union; as in the days, seventy years later, when the Congresses met which had to provide for its salvation.

"There are many qualities which we need alike in private citizen and in public man, but three above all—three for the lack of which no brilliancy and no genius can atone—and those three are courage, honesty and common sense."

RAIN FALLS IN TORRENTS.

When the President was speaking, rain began to fall in torrents. The stand had a canvas cover, but the water went through it as if it were a sieve. When a bystander offered to hold over him an umbrella, the President waved it aside, remarking: "I don't care for it. If (indicating the assemblage) they can stand it I can."

Turning to the crowd, he said, laughingly: "I don't feel sorry for you old veterans. You will not melt. I do feel sorry for the ladies."

When he had nearly concluded his address, the President, who showed concern at the drenching his auditors was getting, said:

"I'll not keep you longer now."

"Oh, go on," cried a voice. "Keep it up until tomorrow."

After the benediction had been pronounced the President held an informal reception in the rain, shaking hands with several hundred ex-soldiers. A drive over parts of the battlefield on account of the storm had to be abandoned. The President, Gov. Murphy and their party returned to their train immediately after the ceremonies.

PRESIDENT ON HIS TRAIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SHARPSBURG (Md.) Sept. 17.—During the afternoon the rain ceased and the sun came out brilliantly. The President with Gov. Murphy, Senators Kean and Dryden and accompanied by Gen. Carmen, who commanded the Thirteenth New Jersey Volunteers in the battle, visited the various points of interest on the historic field.

The President passed the evening quietly on his train at this station. He dined tonight as the guest of Gov. Murphy in the Governor's dining car, the guests being Senators Dryden and Kean, the New Jersey members of Congress, and the members of the Governor's staff.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the train pulled out of Sharpsburg. It is due to arrive at Jersey City tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock. The President and party will go aboard the naval yacht Sylph at 7 o'clock, and expects to arrive at Oyster Bay about 10 o'clock.

Preacher Spoke Vows Going Forty Miles an Hour.

Political Forces Fires—Rebuttal in Marriott Case—Martin Estate Trial.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
FRESNO, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] J. C. Woodward, a traveling man of Los Angeles, and Mrs. A. [illegible], also of Los Angeles, were married in an automobile touring car [illegible], going at the rate of forty miles an hour. As the touring car was filled by sweet-scented magnolias from bushes bordering Kearney avenue, Duncan Wallace, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, stood in the car, braced his feet, [illegible] the seat backs, and spoke the words that made the couple man and wife. Parker Lyon, in whose car the novel wedding took place, and [illegible], another ardent local automobilist, were the witnesses. Everybody [illegible] the bride, entered into the spirit of the occasion, and altogether it was a most jolly wedding.

The automobile wedding was brought about in an interesting way. The couple called upon Mr. Lyon and explained he was to be married, and asked Mr. Lyon to procure a license and a minister. Lyon agreed to both, and as he had just purchased a prize-winning automobile, he suggested that the couple be married in it while on a ride. Woodward took up with the idea, and said he would propose it to the bride-elect. It met a like favorable reception, and at 8 o'clock the wedding took place. The bridal party went for a short spin, returning to the city at the hour.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]
SANTA ROSA, Sept. 17.—Another big forest fire has broken out in the northern part of Sonoma county between Mount Jackson and Freeze-Out Gulch on the Geyser Peak road. Men are being hurried from different sections to fight the flames.

Word reached this city tonight that the largest forest fire ever known in this section is now raging close to the main Redwood line between Black Point and Cloverdale. Five hundred men are fighting the flames and it was said that the greatest difficulty that was being met was in the bridge spanning the Gualala River, connecting the two counties mentioned. Thousands of acres of timber are burned over.

SONOMA DEVASTATION.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]
SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 17.—The fire on the Big Basin has traveled twenty miles in timber land, mostly owned by J. Hihn & Co. It started back of the Peixtas mills country, went up [illegible] Hinkley Gulch and has caused great devastation and waste up [illegible] the Valencia Gulch, which has been made bare for many miles. Thousands of feet of fine timber have been burned and a couple of cabins belonging to the Hihn Company. The home of Mr. Remey, near Valencia, was razed to the ground and the fire surrounded the Hihn vineyard.

For over a week a force of men has been battling and back firing, but have not yet been able to gain control of the fire. Reinforcements were sent from here today. The fire is also burning on the border timber claims in the Corralitos district.

George H. Robinson stated that Thomas H. Williams was certainly mistaken in testifying that when he entered Marriott's house he saw the hat-rack ahead of him and went to hang his hat upon it. Robinson testified that the hat-rack is under the stairs, and may not be seen from the door.

Tomorrow the case goes to argument.

AFTER MARTIN ESTATE.

CHILDREN OF DESERTED WIFE.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]
SAN JOSE, Sept. 17.—Trial of a sensational suit was commenced in the Superior Court here today, affecting the estate of John Julius Martin, which includes 1200 acres of fine land at Gilroy and personal property worth about $30,000. Martin settled in Gilroy in 1813, and lived there until his death in January, 1901. He left a widow and nine children. His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Martin, died soon afterward, bequeathing the entire estate to the nine children. In January, 1902, the suit now on trial was begun.

The plaintiffs are Emma R. Moore and Susan Sprague, who represent themselves to be the surviving children of Martin and his first wife, whom they charge that he deserted in North Carolina in 1840, when he took $3500 and left with a negro blacksmith. The first Mrs. Martin obtained a divorce in 1853, but no order was given as to the division of property in California, which they assert was acquired with community funds. The defendants to the action are A. J. Lewis, J. F. Hornbeck, Charles Hornbeck, Martha M. Oldham, George A. Johnson, Mary Tully, Susan M. Philbrook, A. Philbrook, children of the second marriage, and W. R. Fyle, as administrator of the estate of Elizabeth H. Martin, deceased.

The contest bids fair to be a bitter one.

"DOG SOCIETY NEWS."

Young Woman Reporter Makes a Newspaper "Hit" With a Department Devoted to Canine Doings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
BENTON HARBOR (Mich.) Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Dog Society News" is the heading under which a department in a Benton Harbor paper is conducted.

The reading matter is collected and edited by a bright young woman who has made the newspaper "hit" of Michigan's chief fruit shipping port. The reporter in making her rounds about the city was told so much about pet dogs, cats and horses that she was provided with an item of two each day, and on publishing them, she found that they made friends and subscribers for the paper, so she is keeping it up.

The doings of dogs of all degrees are accurately chronicled. The city has a larger number of blooded dogs than any other city in proportion to its size in Michigan, and when an item gets into print it creates more talk than does a paragraph about a human being.

PLANNING WORK ON SALT LAKE ROUTE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Clark and J. Ross Clark arrived in this city today from Ogden, and have been in session the whole of the afternoon and evening with their associates in the construction of the Salt Lake route. Important matters regarding building operations are under consideration, among other questions discussed being that of building a branch road to Pioche.

A report has just been received from William McDermott, a mining expert, who had been sent to the district to investigate the question of tonnage. McDermott's work was made easier by the fact that C. E. Palmer, another expert, had conducted a preliminary examination for the Raymond-Ely mines, which are held under option by the Pioche Mines Syndicate, a company composed of Senator Clark and friends. Should the expert's report to the company justify the building of a branch road, the work will soon be undertaken, and if the examination is satisfactory to the promoters a further and fuller investigation will be made. Twenty-five thousand dollars have been set apart for this purpose.

C. O. Whittemore, who secured the option for the Pioche syndicate, has just returned from that section, and says that the mining industry has been greatly stimulated along the entire course of the San Pedro through Southern Utah and Nevada.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT TEN MILLIONS RICHER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the biggest coups in Wall street during the recent bear raid, it was learned today, was made by young Cornelius Vanderbilt. He cleaned up $10,000,000, it is said, using a margin of $2,000,000. His fortune is said now to exceed $20,000,000 in all.

Most of his Wall street profits were made in Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Southern Pacific. He did not touch United States Steel, avoiding the temptation that the possibility of a twenty-point turn might have given him. Nor did he sell short on New York Central, though it dropped steadily from 154 to 130.

The slump in Chicago and Northwestern gave him several millions. It gave him a margin that sent up his profits on other stocks in which he was dealing.

John D. Rockefeller is said to have engineered many of young Vanderbilt's short sales, and enabled him to make money in every stock handled around development of a protective policy and on the part of this country the establishment of a preference in favor of important colonial products. On the first of these requirements I say nothing but if the second involves, as it most certainly does, a taxation, however light, upon foodstuffs, I am convinced with you that public opinion is not yet ripe for such an arrangement. The reasons may easily be found in past political battles, and present political misrepresentations. If, then, this branch of fiscal reform is not at present within the limits of practical politics, you are surely right in your advice not to treat it as indissolubly connected with that other branch of fiscal reform to which we both attach importance and which we believe the country is prepared to consider without prejudice. I feel, however, deeply concerned that you should regard this conclusion, however well founded, as one making it difficult in your very special circumstances for you to remain a member of the government. Yet I do not venture in a matter so strictly personal to raise any objection if you think you can best serve the interests of imperial unity for which you have done so much by pressing your views on colonial preference with the freedom which is possible in an independent position, but hardly compatible with office.

"How can I criticise your determination? The loss to the government is great indeed but the gain to the cause you have at heart may be greater still. If so what can I do but acquisce?

"Yours very sincerely,

"A. J. BALFOUR."

"P. S.—May I say with what gratification both on personal and public grounds, I learn that Austen Chamberlain is ready to remain a member of the government? There could be no more conclusive evidence that in your judgment as in mine, the exclusion of the taxation of food from the party programme is in the existing circumstances a course best fitted practically to further the cause of fiscal reform."

BIG OIL PRODUCERS.

Drills in Parker City Field, Trenton Rock District, Bring a Number of Large Wells Into Action.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
LIMA (O.) Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Hoosier field has been getting more than its share of big wells in the Trenton Rock district during the past week or two, and if the present record is continued this month bids fair to be still better than the previous periods of the summer. The Parker City field has the latest additions to the list of good sized producers, and the St. Louis Oil Company gets the cream of the output.

The Ephriam Cecil farm, the best money-maker of the past year in Hooserdom, has earned a splendid reputation. Its development has been a complete surprise to the talent in general. Wells Nos. 14 and 15 have just been completed by the St. Louis Company, and they start off at a rate which makes them look very similar to former good producers on the farm. In No. 14 there was a production of 200 barrels natural the first twenty-four hours, and No. 15 made 125 barrels without the aid of a shot. No. 10 was the big well of the lease, making 400 barrels per day for more than a month, and then decreasing slowly to the 300-barrel mark, until it has fallen to about one-half of its original output.

The platform indorses the administration of President Roosevelt, and favors his nomination in 1904.

LABOR.

ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT.

Unions Demand Discrimination in Their Favor.

Petition Will Be Followed by Threats of Defeat.

False Representation of Miller Case—Public Printery Rottenness Must Go.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The expected attack has begun upon President Roosevelt by the labor unions on account of his American policy of non-discrimination in government employment.

The Washington Central Labor Union has adopted resolutions giving a false account of the Miller case, and winding up by asking labor unions all over the country to petition the President to "modify" his order prohibiting discrimination in favor of union men, and also asking him to discharge Miller.

It is said these resolutions are being sent out with the knowledge and consent of President Gompers, and his coadjutors of the American Federation of Labor, but neither Gompers nor his friends will admit it. They are trying to work up a labor fight against the President, while remaining in the background themselves.

"Whereas, the principle of trades unionism is intended to raise the standard of living among the working classes; to instill into their hearts the blessings of free government; to educate them so that they might uphold the law and its representatives; to make them good citizens in time of peace and zealous patriots in time of war; and, whereas, the bookbinders' union's charges against W. A. Miller prove that he has outrageously violated every moral and in two instances criminal law; tha the has broken every obligation to his union, and that he was tried and found guilty of flagrant non-unionism; and, whereas, the union of the thirteen original States formed themselves into what has developed into the greatest country on earth, notwithstanding the scorns and scoffs of those that would not swear allegiance, and,

"Whereas, the trades union movement is like unto the thirteen original States in that it has its enemies who scoff and refuse to be brought to see the many benefits that accrue to all classes of labor through union and organization of their interests and forces, and, whereas, the President of the United States has seen fit to reinstate W. A. Miller, who is an expelled member of his trades organization, notwithstanding the overwhelming evidence of his moral turpitude, and has also committed himself to a policy of 'open shop,' as shown by his letter, and, whereas, the Bookbinders' Union of Washington, D. C., has conservatively recognized the authority of the President in acceding to W. A. Miller's reinstatement, working with Miller, pending final settlement of the case, and, whereas, charges have again been preferred in strict conformity to Federal law, and reasonable time has been given W. A. Miller to answer them, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the order of the President cannot be regarded in any but as unfriendly light, and be it

"Resolved, further, that organized labor throughout the country be urged to petition the President of the United States to modify his order of 'no discrimination,' and order W. A. Miller's dismissal from the government service, to promote the efficiency of that service."

Union labor leaders say they will follow this up with a threat to defeat the President at the polls unless he accedes to their demands.

PRESIDENT TO CLEAN OUT UNION ROTTENNESS.

CONGRESS TO CONSIDER AFFAIRS OF PUBLIC PRINTERY.

Effort Will be Made to Place Office Under Direct Control of Department of Commerce—Investigation Proves Existence of Rank Conditions.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, September 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The blight of union-labor tactics lies heavy on the Government Printing Office, as revealed by the investigation being made by Secretary Cortelyou under the direction of the President. So rotten is the state of affairs that the President has told friends he will make a strong effort to induce Congress to place the printing office under the Department of Commerce and Labor, where a member of the Cabinet will have direct control over it.

Though the investigation is not yet concluded, it has been found that the principal allegations made by the former foreman, W. A. Miller, are true. He declared that the cost of binding was excessive; that antiquated methods were maintained through the coercive methods of unions; that the cost of printing was much greater than in private shops; that the output of individual workers and divisions was restricted in order to retain a larger force than otherwise was required, and that employés not members of unions were systematically "knocked" until their discharge was accomplished.

All these things are true.

Col. Clarence Edwards, chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, recently had occasion to ask the Government Printing Office for an estimate of the cost of printing and binding the civil service manual of the Philippine government. The figures given were so palpably exorbitant that he obtained bids from private firms, which turned out to be from 15 to 40 per cent. lower than the Government Printing Office estimate. He accordingly awarded the contract to a Baltimore firm.

Unfortunately the law prevents heads of departments from getting printing done at outside offices. The best that can be done is to argue with the public printer and show him, by actual comparison, that his estimates are grossly out of proportion to those furnished by outside printers. But the public printer is an old man, a member of the union, and apparently unable to cope with the aggressions of the allied unions. He recently discharged a young woman for "incompetency." She was not a member of the Typographical Union. A hint was conveyed to her to join the union, which she did, and she was then "reinstated" after a mock examination.

These matters are coming up all the time, and so rotten are the inside workings of the office that the President is determined to clean it out by calling the direct attention of Congress to the evil and urging that it be placed under the direction of the head of an executive department.

DISCHARGE OF ONE MAN. CAUSED RAILWAY STRIKE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—A strike of laborers, employés of the California Northwestern Railway, was inaugurated by the calling out of the crew of the steamer Tiburon on its arrival at Tiburon at 9:30 o'clock. Simultaneously employés in the shops at that point ceased work. The immediate cause of the strike was the discharge of Night Watchman A. D. McDonald by Master Mechanic Brassill on Saturday last because, it is alleged by the strikers, of his membership in the United Brotherhood of Railway Employés.

President Foster of the California Northwestern denies the strike is a serious one. He says that the number of strikers does not exceed 140 men, and includes but few of the skilled employés of the road. "The strike was inaugurated," said Foster, "because one of our employés was discharged for cause. The man made no representations to us to uphold his position, but took the matter before his union, with the result that a strike was declared."

FEUD MURDER SECRETS ARE LEAKING OUT.

SENSATIONAL EXPOSURES ON THE TAPIS IN KENTUCKY.

Confession Offered by Curtis Jett Refused by Commonwealth Attorney Byrd Because the Murderer Spared His Uncles—On Trial for Old Killing.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CYNTHIANA (Ky.) Sept. 17.—Taking of testimony was begun today in the case against Curtis Jett for killing Town Marshal Cockrill at Jackson, Ky., over a year ago. In the case against Jett and White here last month Capt. B. J. Ewen was the only witness that Commonwealth Attorney Byrd was able to introduce, but today he introduced four eye-witnesses, whose testimony created so much comment as to make the situation sensational tonight.

The feature of the afternoon was the testimony of John Patrick, who was compelled to leave Breathitt county because, from his law office across the street from the Courthouse at Jackson, he had witnessed the shooting of Cockrill, and saw what happened after the shooting of Marcum.

But the most sensational developments today were outside of the courtroom. Curtis Jett offered through his mother to make a confession implicating others in the feud murders in Breathitt county, but he insists on saving his uncles, and for this reason the commonwealth would not accept his overtures. It is stated that the commonwealth's attorneys would not accept anything except a clean breast of the whole affair, and they seem to be confident that such a confession will be forthcoming before this trial is concluded, as the prisoner thinks he has been deserted by those who were expected to stand by him.

CONQUEST OF MOROCCO.

Great Shift in International Relations Revealed by British Assurances to France.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Mail and Express says: "If, as is asserted, President Loubet brought back from London British assurance that no opposition would be offered to the conquest of Morocco, there has been a shift of international relations that has further bearing than the British attempt to win France away from a dual alliance. Spain must have been placated, and last December's rumors of an alliance with France must have been well founded, for Spain has ambitions, settlements at Ceuta and elsewhere, and reversionary claims in Northwest Africa that were supposed to be stronger than those of any European state. Great Britain itself has a claim on Tangiers, dating back to the Stuart marriage with the house of Portugal, and it has been suggested that it might yet deed Gibraltar, no longer impregnable or strategically indispensable, back to Spain, and itself occupy Tangiers. Sooner or later Morocco is bound to go the way of the Corsair states, and the south shore of the Mediterranean as far the frontier of Egypt, will be reduced to Latin rule as it was in the days of the Romans.

"Algeria has been French since 1830. Tunis is a French protectorate, and recently France has acknowledged the reversionary claims of Italy to Tripoli and Marca, whenever the Ottoman has to let go his hold there."

EMPEROR REBELS.

Silent Monarch of Austria Has Reached Limit of Acquiescence in the Hungarian Nationalist Demands.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Emperor Francis Joseph, who today returned from the army maneuvers, has issued an important army order, emphatically declaring he will never consent to the demands of the Hungarian party, who insist on the use of their own language by officers in giving commands to the Hungarian section of the forces. The Emperor's army order caused an immense sensation in Austria and in Hungary.

The pathetic assurance that he will never give up his rights and prerogatives as chief commander sounds like a war proclamation against the Hungarian national army demands.

The impression caused by the imperial order is almost indescribable. Hitherto the Emperor has been regarded as the most silent monarch in Europe. Never before, even in the gravest constitutional conflicts, has he used such language as contained in today's order. It is taken elsewhere as being the beginning of a conflict between the throne and the Hungarian Parliament.

NEW BUILDING COLLAPSES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—A five-story brick building under course of construction at the corner of Madison and Rutger streets collapsed today, injuring eight workmen. Carmelo Lacroppey was internally hurt, and Joseph Levine's skull was fractured. Their condition is serious. Benjamin Rubenstein, the contractor who was erecting the building; Frank Bacher, his general foreman, and two subforemen were arrested, charged with criminal negligence.

UNION LABOR MOB MURDERED CHINAMAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TONOPAH, Sept. 17.—All of the Chinamen, driven out of town by a union labor mob, returned later and notified the officers. The Chinese stated that Ping Ling, an old man 73 years old and the proprietor of a washhouse, was one of the victims, and they believed he had perished on the road. Searching parties were sent out this morning and they found his body horribly mutilated, a short distance from the road, three miles west of town. The Chinese were also robbed of several hundred dollars before being sent out of town.

Eighteen men, mostly cooks and waiters, have been arrested and are now in jail. Among them is F. A. Randall, president of a labor union.

A meeting of the citizens of Tonopah was held today at which one thousand or more were present and a committee was appointed to adopt resolutions denunciatory of the action of the mob.

The following was adopted as the sentiment of the 5000 residents of the district:

"Resolved, that the citizens of Tonopah view with horror, and denounce in unmeasured terms the outrages and brutal acts which, according to all the present evidence have been committed; that the citizens of Tonopah regard this act as not alone an atrocious violation of the law, but also a heinous crime against inoffensive people, against humanity and civilization; that the people of Tonopah will support the officers of the law in all possible ways in their efforts to bring the criminals to justice."

STATE DEPARTMENT NOTIFIED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Chinese Minister called at the State Department today and laid before Acting Secretary Adee a dispatch which he had received from the Chinese Consul-General at San Francisco, detailing an attack made last night on a number of Chinese at Tonopah. PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The cold wave is declared to have spent its force in the Middle West by the Weather Bureau, which predicts that from tomorrow there will be a steady rise in temperature. There were heavy frosts last night in South Dakota, western Minnesota, northern Kansas, and over the greater part of Nebraska. In Iowa clouds kept it away. Light frosts are predicted tonight for Illinois, Minnesota and portions of Kansas. Clouds will again save Iowa, and also Michigan. In Chicago today the maximum temperature was 52 degrees at 4 p. m., and the minimum was 45 degrees at 5 a. m. Snow was reported at Kalamazoo, Mich., and in the James River Valley in North Dakota.

Can You Cut Out the "Yellow" Streak?

All got one, you know. Some small, some large. The more "yellow" in your makeup, the less yellow gold in your character and pocket-book.

Is your yellow streak the coffee habit? Does it reduce your working force, kill your energy, push you into the big crowd of mongrels, deaden what thoroughbred blood you may have, and neutralize all your efforts to make money and fame.

It does that very thing for thousands who don't suspect it. Languid, half sick, stomach and bowel troubles, heart weak and hardly half alive, you cannot succeed under such fearful handicaps nowadays, when the world only yields the crown for the best efforts of keen people.

Try leaving off coffee for 10 days. Build back to a clean, clear-cut mind and healthy body by Postum Coffee. That's the true route to health, and with bounding exuberant health you acquire "Energy plus."

Then, to "do things" is easy.

There's a Reason.

Have a try.

NOTE—Postum is only good to the taste when well boiled. Then it is prime and toothsome.

RUSSIA.

WORSE THAN BASTILE IS SCHLUSSELBURG.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A terrible indictment of the treatment meted out to political offenders by the Russian government is found in an open letter written by one Peter S. Polivanoff to the Russian Minister of Justice and reprinted in the London Times.

Polivanoff escaped from Siberia a little over a year ago, after twenty years imprisonemntnt in that most mysterious and dreaded of Russia's state prisons, the Fortress of Schlusselburg.

There have been fifty-nine prisoners in Schlusselburg since it started. Eight (including Lieut. Rogachoff and Baron Stomberg, lieutenant, in the navy) were executed at once. Two more were shot for striking persons in authority. Three were transferred to lunatic asylums as hopelessly insane, and three committed suicide.

One of these was perhaps the most thrilling tragedy of Russian revolutionary movements. Grachovsky, in October 1887, burned himself to death by deliberately soaking his bedclothes with kerosene, and allowing the flames to consume him. Of the remainder of the fifty-nine who entered Schlusselburg two were sent to Saghalient Island, the icy penal settlement on the Siberian coast; fifteen died, twelve were exiled to Siberia and fourteen are still in prison. "It is not worth hanging people," says Polivanoff, "since the government had at its command so successful a means of killing them by inches as the Schlusselburg Fortress."

RIOT IN GOMELA.

JEWS AND CHRISTIANS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 17.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Fierce fights between Jews and Christians in which four Christians and two Jews were killed, and many persons seriously injured are reported from Gomela, in the government of Moghileff.

The disturbances occurred on September 11 from a dispute between a peasant and a Jewish dealer. The police intervened, and, according to the version published here, the Jews threw stones and fired on the police, several of whom were injured. The disturbances were renewed three days later, some Jewish booths being demolished. The Jews attempted to prevent the destruction of the booths and twenty persons were injured. Troops then arrived and were received with shots from the Jews. The military restored and ultimately restored

More Curl, and Higher.

It's the "Fall Derby" we're talking about

Not all derbys—but the correct ones, and such as have "Silverwood" stamped in them.

Higher crowns. Heavier brims and more curl.

Either brown or black.

Both proper.

Less flashy than other season's styles, yet smart and dressy.

Decidedly gentlemanly.

Wonder what some fellows mean by offering "not-right" styles and saying "$3.00 hats for $3.00."

Silverwood $3.00 hats never became so popular by that method.

TIME FOR MRS. HODGE.

Young Woman Charged With Murder at Salt Lake Gets Date of Trial Deferred.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Aurora Hodge, the remarkable young woman, who while a fugitive from justice without solicitation, confessed to the murder of William X. Ryan, and then denied her guilt, and who was to have been tried on Monday next for the crime, has succeeded through her attorneys in securing a postponement till the first Monday in November. The victory for the defense is a big one and may mean much to the accused, as the intervening time will permit her, she says, to secure necessary evidence that it would have been impossible to get by next week. The case will be a protracted and hard-fought one, and will require the examination of over forty witnesses.

Mrs. Hodge was arraigned in the District Court yesterday, and entered a plea of not guilty. At that time the judge set her trial for Monday in spite of the vigorous protests of her attorneys. The State's counsel declined to allow the alleged murdress to plead guilty to a minor offense.

APPEAL FOR VAN WORMERS.

ALBANY (N. Y.) Sept. 17.—Unique in the criminal history of this State was the hearing just held before Gov. Odell on the application for commutation of the death sentence in the case of the three brothers, Van Wormer, awaiting execution for murdering their uncle, Peter Hallenbeck, two years ago. The men are all under 30 years of age. Five jurors, representing eleven of the men who convicted the Van Wormers, appeared in opposition to the appeal, and a minister argued for the infliction of the death penalty. A petition signed by 263 residents of Columbia county, urged that the Governor show no clemency. The petition was taken under consideration.

BUSINESS.

Record-breaking was the total of local bank clearings for the week ended yesterday, $7,362,201.97—the remarkable average of almost a million and a quarter dollars for the last six business days. Comapred with the showing for the corresponding period of last year, $5,124,049.33, an increase of 41.7 per cent. is noted. For the same period in 1901 the figures were $2,868,046.73.

The crop situation took second place to the steel issues on the New York stock Exchange yesterday. There was further heaviness in steel common, which established a new low record of 18½. Growing belief that the crop has suffered little, caused weakness in wheat on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Packing house demands made a weak provision market firm.

SAVE THE PUBLIC LANDS.

On the first day of the session of the National Irrigation Congress it was announced that there was a strong lobby present, to fight the indorsement of a proposition for the repeal of the Desert Land Act—and that a resolution favoring such a change could only be put through after a hard fight. Yesterday's dispatches confirm this statement, stating that the fight over the proposition to commit the National Irrigation Congress in favor of a repeal of existing land laws, including the Desert Land Act, and the Timber and Stone Act and commutation clause of the Homestead Act will be a very close one.

This is quite in line with the experience of the past. The land grabbers and cattle barons have been indefatigably working to defeat national irrigation, and having failed in that, are now trying to divert the benefits to be derived from national irrigation to their own pockets. The headquarters of these people is in Wyoming, and they are aided and abetted by Elwood Mead, an employé of the Agricultural Department. It is astonishing how subtle and widespread are the efforts of these people, and how they "bob up serenely" in all sorts of unexpected places. For instance, in the North American Review for August appeared an article on "Aggressive Forest Reservation," by James P. Kimball, who has large range interests in the region of the Yellowstone forest reserve, in Wyoming. It might be regarded as somewhat curious that a prominent and conservative journal like the North American Review, which pretends to be devoted to "the discussion of the world's great questions," should devote so much of its valuable space to an article of this kind. However, Forestry and Irrigation throws some light on the subject, as follows:

"The editor of the North American Review is at the head of a well-known publishing house, and he directs several other publications, notably Harper's Weekly. He is backed by, and owes allegiance to, large moneyed interests that are hostile to President Roosevelt. Under pretended friendly guise his publications have been carrying on a very contemptible campaign, trying to arouse feeling against the President. Any person who knows the situation and has read Harper's Weekly the past few months understands this fully."

It appears that even in Wyoming, the center of anti-irrigation and State cession, there are some who see the question in the right light. Here is some sensible advice, given by the Saratoga, Wyo., Sun, one of the best edited papers in the Northwest:

"Gentlemen, when you get done howling over the forest reserve question, suppose you take up something else just for a change. The forest reserves will, no doubt, be modified and made to comply as nearly as may be with the timbered area, for really the government is not interested with anything else. When that is done, and done properly, rest assured that the forest reserve is there to stay. And you can rest assured of another thing—that the government is not going to allow the reserves to be turned into pasture lands for the benefit of stockmen. The government is setting aside these reserves for the purpose of preserving the timber on them, in order to hold the snow to make water for irrigation purposes, to carry out the great plan inaugurated when the irrigation bill was passed. The government (and every sane person) recognizes the fact that it is the man who builds ditches and plants alfalfa, grain, and vegetables that is the bone and sinew of the country, and it is for the home-maker that all of this forest reserve and irrigation work is being done, and not for the man who travels in a sheep wagon here and there over the country or roams the land with a round-up wagon and a band of cowboys. Howl as much as you have a mind to, but you will find in the end that the President knows exactly what he is doing and why he is doing it."

It is, of course, highly desirable that an important body like the Irrigation Congress should adopt proper resolutions on this subject, but whether it does or not, the people of the country at large will demand and insist that the operations of this beneficent act shall not be nullified by a lot of greedy and conscienceless land grabbers. As a writer on the subject said recently: "No power on earth except the power of an aroused and indignant public opinion can save the arid region from falling prey to the speculators who are alive to their opportunity while the people are asleep."

In his last message the President recommended the repeal of the Desert Land Act, of the commutation clause of the Homestead Act, and of the Timber and Stone Act. These are the provisions of existing statutes under which absolutely the most valuable property now owned by the American people is being systematically absorbed into private ownership by those who cannot use it, but who propose to sell it, at enormous profit, to real homeseekers, when the nation shall have multiplied its value a hundredfold, by means of irrigation.

Again, in the first address delivered by the President, on his arrival in California, at Redlands, on the seventh of May, while enlarging on the great importance of preserving the forests, he declared: "We have passed the time when we can afford to let any man skin the country and loot it."

It is now for the people of the United States to make plainly known to their representatives in Congress that they realize the vast importance of this question, and that they demand a faithful carrying out of the policy outlined by the President. Fortunately for the country, they have a bold, fearless and tireless advocate in the National Irrigation Association, whose leading representative is now making a gallant fight for the right at Ogden.

A QUESTION OF FREE SPEECH.

An alleged organization calling itself the Free Speech League, at an alleged meeting said to have been held recently, is alleged to have adopted resolutions protesting against an ordinance recently adopted by the City Council, requiring that a permit shall be obtained for the holding of public meetings in the streets or in the parks, before such meetings will be allowed. The alleged resolutions said to have been adopted at the alleged meeting of the so-called Free Speech League are alleged to recite that "the right of free speech is guaranteed by both the State and national constitutions;" that "free speech with free assemblage belongs to all American citizens, and the same is inalienable;" that the ordinance in question "is unconstitutional and contrary to the genius of democratic institutions, because it deprives the people of their rights of free speech and free assemblage, to consult for the common good." Wherefore, the alleged Free Speech League "demands the immediate repeal of such ordinance, and further demands that all city officers uphold and protect the people in the orderly and decent exercise of their right to freely assemble to consult for the common good." A further demand is made for "the fullest liberty for every citizen to discuss on our streets any and all public questions;" and for all good citizens to rally "in the defense of our blood-bought and sacred rights as freemen." Disgust is expressed for "a law that forces a man to beg for a permit, so he can think aloud in behalf of our common humanity."

This bombastic outgiving is designed to appeal, and to some extent will appeal, to men of superficial thought, as well as to those who seldom take the trouble to think, with any degree of accuracy, for themselves. Those who do take this trouble will have no difficulty in perceiving that the ordinance referred to has nothing whatever to do with the question of free speech and free assemblage. It does not even touch upon that question. There is not a line nor a word in the ordinance that prohibits free speech or free assemblage. The attempt to drag this great fundamental question into a petty controversy over a street regulation is supremely ridiculous.

The right of free speech and free assemblage is guaranteed both by organic and statutory law. It is guaranteed by something which is higher and more potent than either organic or statutory law, since it can make and unmake both at pleasure. This right is guaranteed by public opinion. If it had not been so guaranteed it could never have been incorporated into our constitutions and statutes. But it is not possible to find anywhere, in constitution or statute, a provision to the effect that the public streets and parks of our cities may be used indiscriminately, by whomsoever sees fit so to use them for purposes of public assemblage, "to consult for the common good," to proselyte in behalf of any religious sect or denomination, to advocate any particular reform, or for any purpose save that for which the public streets are dedicated and maintained—the purposes of ordinary, legitimate traffic.

The streets belong to the public—to all the people—and are maintained for the use of all, for the purposes of intercourse and traffic. Such being the case, no individual citizen, nor association of individuals, can have the right to use the streets for any purpose that may interfere with the legitimate use thereof. If the authorities were to permit the streets to be used indiscriminately for purposes of public assemblage, a great wrong might thereby be done to the public at large, who own the streets, and who have an indefeasible right at all times to the free and unhampered use of their property, for the purposes for which it is maintained, and for no other purpose whatsoever. If the use of the streets is to be permitted for any other purpose, such use is clearly within the discretion of the authorities who are responsible for the maintenance of the streets in proper condition for their legitimate use. No one can have a "right" to use them in any but the legitimate way.

No one is prohibited from using the streets for legitimate purposes. The members of the so-called Free Speech League have no proper grievance in this respect, for they have precisely the same rights in the streets as other citizens enjoy. They have also the right of free assemblage and free speech, provided they hire a hall, or assemble on private property, or hold their meetings anywhere and at any time so as not to make them a public nuisance. Nobody has the least desire to hamper or restrict the full and free exercise of the rights of free speech and free assemblage. The patriots and statesmen of the alleged Free Speech League may "consult for the common good" as often as they see fit, and no one will molest them if they do not interfere with the rights of others, which are equally as sacred and indefeasible as their own. The trouble is that they insist upon their "right" to interfere with the guaranteed rights of other people. This contention, of course, cannot be sustained; for it is the sworn duty of our public officials to uphold and protect the rights of all citizens. The ordinance is undoubtedly valid.

The recent storms destroyed more than fifty lives along the Atlantic Coast, and yet, when an earthquake shakes off a patch of plaster in California no bigger than a baby's hand, those easterners make twice as much fuss about it as they will regarding the dead that are strung out along the sands from Florida to Maine. It is worth while to note that one windstorm of this week in the vicinity of Manhattan Island killed more people than have been destroyed by earthquakes in California since the pioneers came the plains across, or the Horn around. As compared with those simoons that sweep the seas over yonder, we would certainly much prefer the earthquake in ours.

MY LADY.

She walks unnoticed in the street;
The casual eye
Sees nothing in her, fair or sweet;
The world goes by,
Unconscious that an angel's feet
Are passing nigh.

She little has of beauty's wealth;
Truth will allow
Only her priceless youth and health,
Her broad white brow;
Yet grows she on the heart by stealth,
I scarce know how.

She does a thousand kindly things
That no one knows;
A loving woman's heart she brings
To human woes;
And to her face the sunlight clings
Where'er she goes.

And so she walks her quiet ways
With that content
That only comes to sinless days
And innocent;
A life devoid of fame or praise,
Yet nobly spent.

THE FINAL ANSWER.

There is a little boy at school

But somehow never seems to get

What gives its color to the rose?
What bids the seed to grow?
The wisest man must blush at last
And say, "I do not know."

MERGING OF GOVERNMENTS.

Steps Taken to Bring Together City and County.

Bill Drafted to Introduce In Next Legislature.

As Amended the Measure Will Be Adopted by Both the Committees.

Consolidation of county and city governments, in part, at least, has at last asumed tangible form.

At the meeting of the Consolidation Committee last night in the Council Chamber the Legislative Committee presented a draft of a bill which is to be presented to the State Legislature at its next session. The bill was adopted by the commission, but was referred back to the Legislative Committee with instructions to add a title and fix the compensation of the various officials.

Aside from the changes the bill will go before the Legislature in exactly the form adopted last night. The draft of the bill was taken up section by section and each proposition was carefully considered.

After considerable debate it was decided to strike out the sections relating to the amalgamation of the County and City Treasurers' offices.

It was argued that consolidation would not decrease the cost of running the treasury department and that it might cause some inconvenience and delay in the transaction of business. This idea finally prevailed.

Thus the bill as adopted provides for the consolidation of the offices of County and City Tax and License Collector and County and City Assessor only.

In the opinion of most of the members of the commission the bill is reasonably sure of passage, as it is argued that San Francisco will not oppose the measure, as the scheme is already in operation there. The only opposition that is looked for is from the county delegates, and it is not thought they will oppose it if the proposition is rightly understood, for all of the members assert that consolidation of these offices will be especially beneficial to the country because of the increased proportion of the expense which the city will bear.

Walter Haas said: "The difficulties we have had to surmount in drafting this bill were not nearly so serious as the work done on the charter revision.

The Charter-revision Committee submitted a proposed amendment to the city charter providing for consolidation when the bill shall have been adopted by the Legislature. The vital clause in the document is as follows: "In case, by ordinance, all the duties of an officer of the city are devolved upon an officer of the county, then upon the taking effect of such ordinance, such office shall be suspended while such ordinance remains in effect, and, if by such ordinance, only a part of the duties of an officer are so devolved, then the remaining duties thereof shall be performed by such officer as may be designated for that purpose."

The report was not adopted last night, but it was the general consensus of opinion that it would be accepted at the next meeting of the commission.

In the absence of Hon. J. D. Works, chairman of the commission, Frank G. Finlayson, Esq., presided. All the other members were present.

PROPOSED LAW
FOR CONSOLIDATION.

I.

Any city, organized and existing under the general laws of the State, may provide by ordinance duly passed and adopted by its Common Council, Board of Trustees, or other governing body, that the assessment of property within such city, as made and equalized from time to time for the purposes of State and county taxations, shall be the assessment of the same property for the purposes of city taxation, and thereupon the County Assessor of such county shall become, and remain, ex-officio assessor for such city, and do and perform all the duties of assessor therefor, on the terms and conditions hereinafter provided; and when he collects a tax or estimated tax for State and county purposes shall at the same time collect the city tax or estimated tax on the same property, giving one receipt for both taxes. The city tax when collected as an estimated tax shall be estimated according to the last preceding levy made in the same city for city taxes. For city taxes so collected, the assessor shall account monthly on the first day of every month to the person performing the duties of treasurer of such city. When such ordinance takes effect the duties and powers of any board of equalization in said city shall cease and the office of city assessor in such city shall cease to exist, and the city clerk shall take charge of all the records, books and papers pertaining to the assessor's office. The repeal of such ordinance shall revive said duties and powers of such board and said office of assessor and said office shall be filled in the manner provided by law for filling vacancies in said office.

II.

When the ordinance mentioned in section one hereof shall be in force in a city the county auditor shall upon demand of the city clerk of such city make and certify a copy of so much of the assessment book of the county for the current year as will show a complete transcript of the assessment as equalized of all and any property whatever taxable by such city.

III.

Any such city may, in like manner, at the time of adopting the ordinances mentioned in section one hereof, or at any time while such ordinance remains in force, dispense with the services of or abolish the office of tax collector or tax and license collector or any other officer whose duty it is to collect the property taxes of such city, and provide by ordinance that all such city taxes thereafter levied shall be paid at the time and place of paying the State and county taxes on the same property, and impose the collection of such taxes upon the county tax collector or other officer of the county in which the city is situated, whose duty it is to collect the taxes of such county, and thereupon such county officer shall become and remain ex-officio the tax collector of such city, and perform all the duties imposed upon him by law as such ex-officio collector of the city, on the terms and conditions hereinafter provided. The ordinance provided for in this section shall remain in force only so long as the ordinance provided for in section one hereof shall remain in force in the same city.

IV.

While such ordinance as is mentioned in section three hereof remains in force, all city taxes collected as in this act provided, shall be collected at the same time and place in by the same officer as the county taxes are collected, and a single receipt shall be given therefor, and neither the city nor county taxes shall be received or receipted for by such officer unless both the city and county taxes on the same property are paid.

V.

When the ordinance provided for in section three hereof shall go into effect the city clerk of such city shall take possession of all records, books and papers pertaining to the office of city tax collector, when such office exists as a separate office, and shall thereupon be ex-officio license collector, when such office exists as a separate office, and perform all the duties of such office not otherwise herein provided for; and the office of tax and license collector as a separate office and department of the city government shall cease. But the repeal of such ordinance shall revive such office, and the same shall be filled in the manner provided in the general laws for filling vacancies in said office.

VI.

The clerk of any city that shall have provided for the collection of its taxes by the county officers, as above provided, shall annually, before the time for extending the county taxes on the assessment book as provided by law, certify to the auditor of the county wherein such city is situated the rate of tax levied by the city for the current year, and if, in any case, a different rate is levied on property situated within a certain district, the clerk shall so certify the fact that such tax may be properly extended upon the assessment books, and it shall be the duty of the auditor of such county, upon receipt of such certificate, to extend and enter in a separate column of the assessment book, against each item of property taxable by such city, the total city tax so levied, and the county auditor shall, in the performance of such duties, on behalf of such city, be ex-officio city auditor thereof. It shall be the duty of the officer authorized to collect the State and county taxes to collect and receipt for all city taxes shown upon such book delivered to him for collection, but separate receipts for city taxes shall not be given and he shall not receive payment on any State and county taxes on any item of property unless the city tax shown thereon by such book is also paid.

VII.

While the ordinance mentioned in section three hereof remains in force in a city the assessor elected therein shall not be elected in such city, but the auditor shall upon demand of the city clerk certify the total assessed value of property taxable by such city, as shown by the assessment of the county as equalized for the current year, and also the total value of property in any district of such city on which it is desired by the city to levy a different rate from that levied on other property.

VIII.

When property is sold for delinquent State and county taxes by any officer acting ex-officio for such city, as in this act authorized, and against the same property there appears on the county assessment book any unpaid city tax upon such property, such property shall be sold for the entire amount of unpaid tax including State, county and city, together with interest and penalties thereon and such other charges as may be provided by law, the interest, and where the penalty is determined by the amount of the tax, the penalty also, to be estimated upon the total amount of tax due, including State, county and city; and when property so sold is redeemed, the officer receiving the money so paid for redemption shall account to the proper officer of the city for the amount of the city tax, with a ratable share of the interest and penalty, if any, accrued on account of the city tax, estimated according to the amount of such tax. Interest and penalties shall be estimated on such delinquent city taxes at the same rate and in the same manner as provided by law for delinquent State and county taxes, and redemption from the sale for delinquent city taxes shall be made at the same time and within the same time as provided by law for the redemption from the sale for delinquent State and county taxes. In all cases where property has been sold to the State for delinquent city, county and State taxes as hereinabove provided, and has not been redeemed within the time provided by law for the redemption from the sale of property to the State for delinquent State and county taxes, a deed of such property shall be made to the State of California in the manner provided by law, and the State of California shall to the extent of the delinquent city taxes, including interest and penalties, for which such property shall have been sold, together with all accruing city taxes, interest and penalties thereon, be deemed to hold the title thereto in trust for such city, and upon a sale of such property by the State of California, such proportion of the price obtained therefor as the delinquent city tax for which said property shall have been sold, including interest and penalty thereon, accrued taxes with interest and penalty, bears to the State and county tax for which the same has been sold, including interest and penalty on such State and county tax, and accrued State and county tax with interest and penalty, shall be accounted for to the proper officer of the city for the delinquent tax of which such property has been sold, and shall be paid to such city.

IX.

All county officers who shall become ex-officio city officers for any city, for any purpose provided for in this act, shall be liable on their official bonds for failure or misfeasance in performing the duties imposed upon them by such cities, under the provisions of this act, the same as though they were elected or appointed to such office by such cities, and such bonds shall stand as security for the performance of such duties and to indemnify any cities suffering loss from any such failure or misfeasance.

X.

When any ordinances authorized by this act to be passed into effect, a copy thereof, duly certified by the city clerk, shall be filed in the office of the officer upon whom the duty of acting for such city is imposed thereby, and such certified copy shall constitute the authority of such officer to act ex-officio as the officer of such city, as herein provided, and he and his successors in office shall continue so to act from that time until discharged by act of such city as hereinafter provided.

XI.

No ordinance, whereby any such city shall elect to have county officers perform for it any of the duties herein provided to be performed by such county officers, shall take effect until it shall have been submitted for ratification by the voters of such city at a general municipal or special election and ratified by a majority of all votes cast on the question of such ratification. No such ordinance shall be repealed or annulled until the repealing for amending ordinance shall have been submitted for ratification to the voters

Secret Service Agent Takes Up Klage's Find.

Two of the Old Italian Gang Are Located in the City.

Cilli Tells How He Was Drawn Into the Counterfeiting Scheme.

The unearthing of a large quantity of counterfeit coins, dollars and five-dollar pieces, at the Henry Klages ranch, just outside the city limits, as reported in The Times yesterday, set the United States officers on a fresh trail, and, in connection with the fact that spurious coins have been passed recently in various sections of the city of late, much public interest has been aroused in the history of the "counterfeit gang."

It was stated yesterday, these four men who were sentenced to State's prison for eight years, have served but sentences, and are again at liberty. They made records for good behavior during their terms of imprisonment, and thus cut down the time of their actual incarceration.

Two of the once famous gang are now residing in this city, it is ascertained, and a third member of the quartette left Los Angeles only a few weeks ago for some point in the north. The other member is located in San Francisco.

CILLI'S STORY.

In a little cottage, with a shoe shop on the corner of the lot, at No. 1010 Aurora street, Biago Cilli makes his home. He was seen yesterday afternoon at his shop, and talked freely of the counterfeit money affair. He expressed a lively interest in the incidents of the find of yesterday, and told of his connection with the gang as follows:

"Ya da finda our mon, yes? Now I tella you all about it. I work da pick and da shovel many year here, and I get me $200, maybe more, in good mony. Then de fella da come from up north of me, Cilli, you fool, why you work so hard? Come with us an' maka de mon easy. We have make much of it, and it is good mon,—gold, yes, five dol. ay dat and twent dol, just like store mon. Like da dam fool, I listen to it, and da say da hava no thing to buy and to fix up with; so I take my $200, and we buy machines and stuff to work and I just pass $15 before we get into da trouble."

He says the gang heard that the police were looking for them, and on a Sunday night they went out and buried the spurious money which was counted day before yesterday. On the following Sunday night, while the four men were asleep, the officers broke in the door, and when they awoke they found guns pointed in their faces. "I was five years and eight months in dat da fool of me," said Cilli. "Now I'm an' now I maka da good shoemake. No more counterfeit. I try now to live da, what is right, respectfully. Da mon come so easy, but it's gooda mon, all right."

Cilli says he came back to Los Angeles three years ago, and felt that he was not strong enough to take up his old-time work again, so he opened a shoe shop, and has since worked strictly at his trade. He was much interested in the report of the finding of the coins that had long buried, and said he would like to have seen the graders as they scrambled for the money.

THE OTHERS.

Michael Elungo is also in Los Angeles, says Cilli, and is located somewhere on Buena Vista street. John Dingilemo was here about three months ago, he says, but left then for San Francisco, and the location of the fourth man he does not know.

These four fellows have probably spent many hours cursing the name of Police Captain Aubie, then a detective. This was the case in which Aubie came up to the top of a big pepper tree and watched them unearth and count out their den.

The detectives worked on the case for days, they were finally landed. Benjamin, Moffatt and Hawley, in addition to Aubie.

At the time of their arrest, some $400 in counterfeit dollars were found. Some time after that two hundred more were dug up. This makes $600 in all, which. The brains of the gang was in the cranium of the little fellow standing second from the left of the line.

CRONIN WENT OUT.

The stock of counterfeit coins was turned over to the office of the United States District Attorney. Chief of the Secret Service George W. Hasen of San Francisco was present and exhibited much interest in the find. He was here to testify in another counterfeiting case.

Special Agent Cronin of the secret service went out to Prospect Park yesterday and looked over the premises where the coins were found, and made a search for more, but was unsuccessful. It is said that this is the third time he has turned up at various times since the gang was captured.

RECALLS OLD HISTORY.

The capture of the Trigianni gang occurred in 1894. In 1897 two other counterfeiters were captured in the same territory. They were located at a point not far from the end of the old Temple-street cable road, and the frequent trips of the men after night aroused the curiosity of the car men, who reported the case. The men went under the names of Clark and Hemming, the latter being an Italian. They were tried in the local court, convicted and sentenced to five years each. On their way to prison, while passing from San Francisco to Oakland the men made a break for liberty. Clark was retaken, but the Italian got away by mingling with the large crowd that happened to be on the ferry landing, and to this day has never been recaptured.

A POINTER FOR LABOR UNIONS.

[San Francisco News Letter:] J. J. Thornton of Chicago, a van and warehouse proprietor, has learned a lesson. The wretch, although he employs none but union men, does not himself belong to a union. Still, he had the indecency to load a lot of guests into one of his vans and drive them out to see the labor parade—and without a union card. Mr. Thornton has recovered consciousness by this time, and it is slowly dawning upon him that an employer has no rights on earth—that he does not own his business nor the tools thereof; that the union owns him body and soul. The union men had to beat Mr. Thornton severely in order to impress this fact upon him. This is a pointer for our local unions. They have never gone quite so far—probably because it has not occurred to them. They can make up for their remissness by beating a few employers just for fun.

CARD PRIZES

Now that vacation time is past and conditions have resumed their usual routine at home, some form of evening entertainment will be in order. For recreation as well as mental development nothing equals cards. To stimulate the interest a few prizes of nominal value will prove a great incentive.

Our collection need only be brought to your notice—for it is well known that our 25c, 50c, 75c and $1 assortments are now used largely. They have merit and are useful.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY.

Young Man Accused of Attacking Young Woman Whom He Was Escorting Home from a Dance.

Sylvester H. Rideout, a young man who lives with his widowed mother at No. 1318 West Twenty-third street, was arrested yesterday morning at 4 o'clock near Chutes Park on complaint of a young woman, who said that Rideout, while escorting her home from the Mexican ball at Turner's Hall had suddenly turned on her, knocked her down and robbed her of her purse and gold watch.

Patrolmen Allen and Horton apprehended Rideout and sent him to the Police Station, where he was booked on suspicion. The watch and purse were in his pockets. He gave the name of Richard Smith, but the young woman swore to a complaint yesterday charging Rideout with robbery and identified the prisoner as her assailant.

LOOLOOS WIN WITH A RUSH.

Gen. Lee Signally Routed in First Assault.

Forces Under Gen. Newton Open Terrific Bombardment.

Several Ineffective Sorties Made by Enemy to Regain Lost Honors.

Looloos, 10; Oakland, 3.
Batteries—Newton and Hurlburt; Lee and Lohman.

Features—Terrific bombardment and successful storming of Gen. Lee's position by the Looloos in the first.

The forces of Gens. Newton and Lee clashed early yesterday afternoon at Chutes Park, and in one short but fierce assault, the division under Newton completely routed the enemy. Lee's position was stormed under cover of a general bombardment all along the Looloo line, and the slaughter was greater than in any battle of the same length fought during the present war. Too late to save the lost laurels of the day a hurried order from Commander-in-Chief Don Pietro Lohman hurried reinforcements to the scene, but the first fierce rush of Gen. Newton and his men had carried the day, and they lay intrenched beyond any possibility of dislodgment. Repeated attempts by small parties of Lee's men resulted in driving in the Looloo line widely separated points, but the gains were only temporary, as Gen. Newton's plans for the battle made in advance had carefully considered every weak point and he lost no time in making the new position impregnable.

It was just 2:30 when a brisk sortie from the intrenchments by Corp. O'Hara and Privates Devereaux and Schwartz was turned by a series of flank and wing movements by Gen. Newton, and taking these as the signal for a general advance all along the line, the word was passed to attack Lee's works on the left, right and center simultaneously and endeavor to take them by storm. Capt. George Wheeler, Corps. Judson Smith and William E. Hoy were directed to see that the artillery was unlimbered for action, and were ordered to commence a tremendous bombardment upon every visible portion of Lee's works. This order they carried out to the letter and to their efficiency is literally obeying it is due much credit for the signal victory.

Corp. Hoy opened fire on the left at 2:43, and Wheeler was passed through the lines to the first station on the right. Another terrific report from the battery under Corp. Smith's supervision denoted that the order to open fire had been given in that quarter, and the two doubles got a run. Count von Spies brought up the Dutch battery at the double quick, but his first shot was wild, going plump into Lee's works at second, where it could do no harm. The lively firing disconcerted Lee and a wild shot of his went completely over the Looloo lines, passing in Wheeler. Private Clarence Cravath, a promising young gunner, exploded a shell in the center, creating havoc and bringing Corp. Smith in with congratulations. Commander-in-Chief Frank E. Dillon on the side lines could not resist a few words of satisfaction at the successful shot. Privates Arthur Ross and James J. Toman followed with equally successful hits, gunnery, putting their efforts just where they hurt the most and bringing in two more runs. Private Hurlburt put another into the earthworks at second, doing some execution. Ross scoring. Gen. Newton came down to sight a gun himself, fired a successful shot directly through Gen. Lee's position and got another tally. Corp. Hoy stepped up to try his hand again, this time picked out a spot on the right wing and nailed it fairly. Capt. Wheeler's aim was true and to the same place. Corp. Smith evaluted himself of a pass through the lines, and as the Dutch battery prepared to open fire again the signal to cease was sounded with eight successful shots through the enemy's ranks and seven Looloos having made the circuit of his works.

In the third a little carelessness on the part of Corporal Hoy in leaving his position unguarded at a moment allowed Private "Moose" Baxter to make a successful sortie as far as third base on a long shot into Hoy's territory, which was misjudged, and Corporal O'Hara brought him in with a single into the same place. Private William Devereaux now made a sneak as far as first base with no better passport than a bunt, but was not detected in time by the corporal of the guard. Smith, and the rush netted another regained post for the forces of Lee. In the fifth they made a last attempt to regain their honors, when Corporal O'Hara doubled into center, Devereaux walked and Schwartz shot to left, but further efforts were hurled back by the stone wall defense of Gen. Newton and his support.

As punishment for their temerity, the Newtonites reopened fire on Fort Lee again in the fifth, the Dutch battery under Count Von Spies taking the initiative. The Count trained a gun to center and fired it successfully. Private Cravath overcame Baxter at third and beat a short shot. Private Ross bravely sacrificed his chances to his country to help the common cause, and Private Toman volunteered to do likewise, but the enemy were too magnanimous to have it so, and Gen. Lee deliberately fired at the ground, scoring two runs.

In the sixth to keep th enemy in a proper state of subjection, Capt. Wheeler cast loose another gun and opened fire on left center for two bags. Corporal Judson Smith assaulted Devereaux's position successfully. Count Von Spies, while sighing for further execution was struck down by a chance shot of Lee's, and was sent to first to recuperate. He and Corporal Smith successfully negotiated a double steal. Private Cravath created a diversion in Smith's favor with a long fly, and the long corporal scored the final run.

It was certainly the hottest engagement of the season while it lasted. Such details as are lacking above may be found below:

Notes of the Game.

Hoy, who has been doing splendid batting lately had the enviable record of a double and a single in the first inning. Spies and Hurlburt are the only two who did not connect safely during the getting of those seven runs.

Newton's pitching was as much of a puzzle to the visitors as ever. The big southpaw had the visitors at his mercy. O'Hara, Devereaux and Messerly solved the combination at times, Wild Bill getting three hits. The Toreador has been making good with the stick ever since his recent lay off. Nobody is more welcome to the swats than Devereaux. He needs them, and is well liked here for an honest, hard-working player wherever placed. Some of his remarks on the coaching line yesterday made Dummy Hoy laugh. Even he could appreciate Bill's expressive pantomime. Devereaux is the Arlie Latham of the California League.

Two doubles and a single in four times at bat will help Ross some. He, too, is a rare hitter for a little fellow.

Hurlburt surprised the talent by dumping a sacrifice in the sixth.

Kruger robbed Hoy of another two-bagger in the sixth by taking a low line fly in deep left after a hard run. Hoy had the ball started right, and it certainly looked every bit a hit.

Smith, in the third, hit a liner a mile a minute, and squarely at Bill Devereaux, who assimilated it with a wild yell and without moving out of his tracks.

Spies is no slouch at first base. He can give any of them pointers on the short flies, plays deep and goes after all the pop-ups that usually get away from the outfielders, relying on the pitchers to cover first for throws. Heinle covers considerable ground on bounders, and gets throws with regularity, but shines especially on the flies, being sure death to everything that pops up within a long run's reach of him. Not having the big Cap's reach he cannot go out and meet the throws as Dillon does, but in other parts of the work big Frank with all his skill is not missed in fielding. His bat is, however. Spies played many a game at first base for Louisville last year when big John Ganzel was laid up.

Toman figured in a pair of fast double plays yesterday, and made several brilliant stops.

SOME PROSPECT OF NEW ATHLETIC CLUB.

HARRY STUART PROMINENT IN VENTURE OF THE SORT.

New Organization is to Close Its Lease Some Time Today if Plans do Not go Amiss—Location to be Central, and a Spacious Amphitheater is Planned.

If a certain lease should be signed today there is a fair prospect that the Century Athletic Club will have a rival in the local boxing field within the next two months. Plans have already been drawn and accepted for an amphitheater, to be erected upon a piece of ground quite centrally located, a stock company has been formed with seven members and capital fixed at $50,000 and much of the preliminary work to forming such an organization has been done. The matter is as yet in a somewhat embryonic state, but the promoters say they mean business from the start, and promise to build an amphitheater which will accommodate any crowd that may care to witness a boxing contest in this city.

Harry H. Stuart, the well-known and popular boxing referee, is a leading promoter of the scheme and states that there are six members in it besides himself. Stuart is not able to divulge his backers' names as yet, there being a possibility the scheme may fall through, but admits that they are half a dozen of the best known and wealthiest sport loving men in Los Angeles, abundantly able to carry out any deal which they undertake. They have subscribed $20,000 of the $50,000 capital stock already, he says.

Mr. Stuart is to be the matchmaker and official referee of the prospective club, of course. He stated last night in response to rather pointed questioning that no match had been considered by the club as yet, but that it hoped to open its doors with one of the best attractions seen here in some time. The amphitheater plans call for a structure almost identical with the new Colma Athletic Club of which Jud Gibbs of San Francisco is manager, and which is situated near that city. The sloping rows of seats of the typical Roman style are contemplated as this architecture has proved the most economical of room and most satisfactory to spectators in the past.

"The men interested in the new project are all of sound financial and political standing as well as widely known, and the personnel of the new club's directorate will be a source of strength to it," stated Mr. Stuart last night. "At present I can not [illegible] say the matter will go through, but thus far there has been no hitch and we have no reason to anticipate any. The lease for the ground is to be closed tomorrow, and our grounds will be every bit as accessible as Hazard's Pavilion where the bouts are now held. We mean to book the best attractions we can get, and will endeavor to keep the game up to its present standard."

A match game of ball will be played at San Pedro Sunday afternoon between the Trilbys of Los Angeles and the Harbor City team. The line-up will be as follows:

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Jansen Again.

Christian Jansen, arrested several months ago on the charge of sending an obscene letter through the mails to a woman in San Diego, and later re-arrested on a charge of intimidating a witness in connection with the case, was on trial before Judge Wellborn yesterday on the latter charge. He is out on bail.

Frenchmen Found Guilty.

The jury in the case of Emile Bruder and Duchesne Clement, the Frenchmen who have been on trial in the United States District Court for having in their possession counterfeiting molds, yesterday brought in a verdict of guilty as charged, with the recommendation that the court deal leniently with the prisoners. Judge Wellborn reserved sentence for a few days. The men will be tried on a second charge of making and having in their possession counterfeit coins.

Miller's House Burned.

The new residence of W. C. Millar in the Bell Tract, on the Salt Lake road, just south of the city limits, was burned yesterday. The fire was caused by a gasoline stove. Loss, $1500, partly insured. Mr. Miller is one of the proprietors of a linotype printing establishment on West First street, and had just reached his office yesterday morning when he received a telephone message requesting him to return home immediately. When he arrived there, half an hour later, he found his home in ashes.

Death of Andrew Hay.

After a brief illness, Andrew Hay died Wednesday at his late residence, No. 1522 Cambria street. Mr. Hay was well known in Southern California, where he has resided since 1882. He was the owner of considerable property adjacent to the city, especially at Hollywood. Hay was born in London, Can., but later moved to Saginaw, Mich., where he successfully engaged in the lumber business. From Michigan he came to Los Angeles, where he has since made his home. His widow, who survives him, is a daughter of Hon. J. G. Sutherland, one of Utah's best known jurists. He also leaves two daughters.

Iroquois Club.

On a resolution introduced by A. S. Petterson the Iroquois Club of Los Angeles last night endorsed Grover Cleveland for the nomination for President of the United States by the National Democratic Convention in 1904. The question of the proposed consolidation of the city and county government was taken up, and it was finally resolved "that the Iroquois Club favors a consolidated city and county government, comprising the present city of Los Angeles, the town of San Pedro, and sufficient contiguous territory for the purpose of city and county government with one set of officers with full control of San Pedro Harbor." It was further resolved that the question was not considered a political one, and its consideration was recommended to the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, and all persons interested in a more economical form of government. The resolution was signed by A. S. Petterson, Frank Garrett and M. K. Young.

Tempora Mutantur.

Sunday morning.

The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst is driving leisurely to church.

He is not revolving his text in his mind.

There is no need.

He has his sermon in his pocket, all written out.

One of his prominent parishioners passes him in an automobile.

"Brother Shumake," calls out the pastor, "I am sorry to see you riding out in a thing like that today."

"Why so, doctor?" responds Brother Shumake, checking his speed.

"Because it is a violation of the fourth commandment."

"Begging your pardon, doctor, it does not so occur to me. I am not working. Neither am I working any domestic animal, while you are, contrary to one of the specifications in the fourth commandment in such cases made and provided."

"But," urges the pastor, in the controversial tone he sometimes adopts, "I am going to church."

"So am I, doctor; so am I," rejoins Brother Shumake, "and I shall probably beat the preacher there."

Here the prominent parishioner lets his machine out another notch and proceeds on his way.

FRED EATON IS DIVORCED.

Former Mayor Gets a Decree for "Incompatibility."

No Contest Made by Wife, Who Says Liquor Caused Trouble.

Attempt to Hush Up the Affair Fails—Division of the Property.

Ex-Mayor Frederick Eaton has secured a divorce from his wife, Helen L. Eaton (née Burdick) on the stated ground of general incompatibility.

This bit of information will surprise many in their large circle of acquaintances in this city and in Santa Monica, where they are now living—separately.

The decree was granted last Tuesday by Judge Smith in Department One of the Superior Court and so effectually was the affair hushed up that it did not leak out until yesterday.

According to a statement made by Mr. Eaton yesterday the divorce proceeding was agreed upon by himself and wife as the best way to avoid further domestic infelicity, and all the terms of the decree were mutually satisfactory. The division of the property, of very considerable value, was adjusted outside of court, and the legal custody of the children was awarded to the father. However, a contract was made whereby the father gives the children into the care of the mother so that she may have charge of their training and education.

Quite naturally Mr. Eaton was reluctant to discuss the divorce, as he had hoped it would pass without public mention. He declared emphatically, however, that there was nothing of a sensational nature in the complaint, and that incompatibility was the true cause of the separation. This statement was verified by his attorney, Charles McFarland, who secured the divorce, although F. B. Daley is the attorney of record in the case.

Fred Eaton is 47 years old and was born in this city. He was married when 19 years old to Miss Helen L. Burdick, and in this way came into possession of the Burdick Block on the northeast corner of Second and Spring streets, since sold to the Los Angeles Trust Company and by that company remodeled and enlarged into the present eight-story Trust building.

As an engineer Mr. Eaton achieved success, and he was for a long time connected with the Los Angeles City Water Company. In 1896 he was elected City Engineer and served two years. As the nominee of the Republican party Eaton defeated M. P. Snyder for the office of Mayor at the election in the fall of 1898, and served as Chief Executive of the city during 1899 and 1900.

During his political life he was somewhat addicted to the cup that cheers, but since retiring from office he is reputed to have led a very temperate life. Consequently the news of his divorce will come as a genuine surprise to the many who did not know of any family dissensions.

Helen, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eaton, married H. Y. Ridenbaugh, formerly a deputy in the Water Overseer's office. Their elopement a little over two years ago created quite a stir. Mr. and Mrs. Ridenbaugh are now living at the Melrose Hotel on South Grand avenue.

Mrs. Eaton is living in seclusion at the former home of her mother on Third street in Santa Monica. When approached last night by a Times reporter she was much distressed both in mind and body over the "troubles which have come all at once." Her mother died less than a month and a half ago, and this bereavement, with the subsequent divorce proceedings, has proven almost too much for her to bear.

When asked if the separation was by mutual agreement, she said: "Yes, it was, but I never would have agreed to it except to save my life, as it had become an existence which I could not sustain."

Mrs. Eaton was reluctant to speak of the matter, but from her point of view she said she could give but one word in explanation, "whisky." She professes to still love her husband. Her little boy and girl were with her. "My children," she said last night, "are the only friends I have in the world." The woman broke down under the burden of her sorrow and could say nothing more.

TALKS WITH TRAVELERS.

Andrew D. Barlow, United States Consul-General stationed in the City of Mexico, is a guest at the Van Nuys. On account of ill health he left his post in July last for a vacation, the first that he has enjoyed in three years, and has been spending his time in California.

Consul-General Barlow recently completed, upon the request of the Secretary of State of the United States, an exhaustive report on the amount of American capital at present invested in the republic of Mexico. This report, which has been published by the United States government, has been highly complimented for its thoroughness and general value, and copies have been requested by the Mexican government for its own use in the Treasury Department. The American representative labored arduously for a year and a half compiling the document, statistics for which were gathered from every corner of the republic, with the aid of all the American consular representatives and five British and five German consuls. The report shows that up to the present year $511,000,000 gold, United States currency, has been invested in Mexico by Americans.

Mr. Barlow, who is a comparatively young man, of pleasing address, was appointed to his present position from St. Louis by William McKinley in 1897, and is now serving his second term.

"This is my first vacation in three years," said Mr. Barlow at the hotel last night, "and I am enjoying it to the fullest here in California. It is my first visit to the State, and I am simply charmed with the country. As charming as Mexico City is in some respects, it cannot compare with this section in climate, because the altitude is too high, I think, for continued residence there.

"When I had completed my report to the United States government on the amount of American capital invested in Mexico, I was surprised even myself at the total figures, as many of the industries that are bringing in this capital seem to be simply in the infancy of their development yet. While a great deal of this money has gone into the great mining districts of the northern portion of the republic, it hardly overbalances the capital invested in pastoral and agricultural industries clear to the southern border. The culture of rubber trees is one that promises much, and American plantations of various sorts are constantly increasing."

EX-MAYOR FREDERICK EATON.

HEAD OF KINDERGARTEN DEPARTMENT OBJECTS.

SHOVING ASIDE WEE WORKERS CONSIDERED MISTAKE.

Miss Ledyard Upholds Kindergarten System as a Basic Principle of Successful Modern Education, and is Sorry Some Observers See Only Play in it.

Among the friends of the kindergarten system in the public schools of Los Angeles a great deal of disappointment has been caused by the decision of the Board of Education to turn out the little kindergarten pupils in the Olive-street and Sixth-street schools to make room for older scholars. Miss Mary F. Ledyard, kindergarten supervisor, believes that the basic principle of successful public school education is endangered by this action, which seems to imply that the kindergarten is the least important factor in the educational system.

Upon this subject Miss Ledyard said yesterday:

"At present the great hue and cry in the business world is that children are turned out of the schools unprepared to do anything—that they have no practical accomplishments. Now the kindergarten educates children by practical methods—it teaches them to do something. To the kindergarten is largely due the credit of starting the system of practical education whereby the child is taught to work out the thoughts of the brain with the hands. It teaches useful manual labor.

"The superficial observer seems to see only play in the kindergarten, and whenever a crisis arises in school affairs, kindergarten work is pushed aside to make room for other departments. Kindergarten work is basic, and is too important to trifle with."

TWO BULLETS IN HIS BODY.

Bakery Foreman is Shot and Another Baker Accused.

Probabilities that Trautwein, the Victim, Will Recover.

Origin of the Trouble a Mystery. The Wounded Man's Declaration.

Twenty minutes after the shooting, Edward Wilhelm, a baker, working for the Meeks company, who Trautwein said fired the murderous bullets, was arrested in his room at No. 527½ East First street, and locked up in the City Jail with a "suspicion" entered against him.

Wilhelm was taken into the Receiving Hospital, where the wounded baker was lying on the operating table gasping for life. He was just sinking into unconsciousness under the spell of morphine which had been administered.

When Wilhelm, pale and dishevelled, was led to the wounded man's side, Trautwein exclaimed: "That's the man that shot me!" He half raised and shook an accusing finger in Wilhelm's face.

"Why, Sam, why, Sam!" expostulated Wilhelm. "How can you say that, Sam! I never had any trouble with you, Sam, did I?" he asked.

Wilhelm had turned even paler and there was the look of desperate fear in his eyes as he pleaded with Trautwein in his agonized way.

"The man that shot me had a black hat," muttered the wounded man as he heaved over with a tremendous sigh, the spell of the morphine working.

"And a black tie," came faintly to the hearers around.

Wilhelm was wearing a light hat and a light-colored necktie.

As Trautwein fell into a deep slumber Wilhelm kept protesting. "Why," he said, with an agonized attempt at a smile, "Sam and I never had any trouble. I haven't seen Sam for a week. I shoot my friend!"

Closeted with detectives afterward, Wilhelm made a rambling denial of the charge. He failed, however, to establish a satisfactory alibi.

HOW IT OCCURRED.

There were no witnesses to the shooting. In the rear of the bakery there were eight or ten men at work and they all heard the shots, but did not reach the sidewalk until after the foreman's assailant had fled.

Trautwein was leaving the shop to go home, and had just stepped from the door to the sidewalk when the first shot was fired. Immediately afterward the second one was heard, but if there was any talking, either preceding the shooting or following, the nearest persons to the scene failed to hear it.

Trautwein was rushed to the Receiving Hospital, where, after a ten-minute wait, a surgeon appeared. The wounded man said in the hearing of several persons that Ed. Wilhelm had shot him.

He said that he did not know the motive for the assault; that there had been no quarrel between Wilhelm and himself.

WILHELM'S QUEER ACTIONS.

On receiving this information from Trautwein, Detective Shearon and Acting Detective Quinn went to Wilhelm's room. They found the door locked, and after six minutes of rapping and waiting were admitted.

"I vould haf let you in sooner," remarked Wilhelm, "but I vas undressing." The officers told him that he was wanted for shooting Trautwein, and he protested that he was innocent, but was willing to go to the Police Station.

When Wilhelm was arrested his heart was beating at a frightful pace, say the officers. He had evidently undressed in great haste. A black tie was found in the room, but there was no black hat.

The suspected man said, in answer to a question, that he had been in the parlor talking to another man. It was learned that this conversation took place an hour before the shooting.

FIGHTING BAKERS.

On August 20 Trautwein figured in a free-for-all fight with Charles Bousse and Peter Garbiser, two other bakers, in the shop on Gary street.

This trouble arose over the discharge of Bousse. In the fight one of the bakers wielded an iron bar, another a wooden dough mixer, and another a club. The melee was something terrific, and Trautwein was laid out by a blow on his head that left a broad scar he still wears.

Bousse was tried in the Police Court on a battery charge, and was fined $60. Garbiser was also fined, and Trautwein escaped with a reprimand.

Although the wounded baker's testimony against Wilhelm is considered as strong evidence, there is still no absolute certainty. For this reason the fight of a month ago is being considered, and especially Bousse's connection with it. If found he will probably be asked to tell of his whereabouts last night.

Trautwein is a German, 45 years of age, and lives with his wife and four children at No. 758 East Ninth street. Wilhelm is also a German, trim built, and about 30.

After performing an operation, in which both bullets were removed, Police Surgeon Smith said that Trautwein's chances for recovery are excellent.

EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

THE coming marriage is announced for the 22rd inst., of Col. John L. Clem, U.S.A., and Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, at San Antonio, Tex. Col. Clem is the famous "drummer boy of Chickamauga," who distinguished himself in battle there in 1863, when he was a mere lad of 13. After the War of the Rebellion he went into the regular army, where he has remained ever since, having risen step by step until now he is a colonel and chief quartermaster in the service. Congratulations are extended to the happy couple.

Southern Moss and Magnolias.

A simple, beautiful wedding was solemnized last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jefferson Gibbs, 446 Grand View street, when Mrs. Gibbs's guest, Miss Deetie Slack, a well known and charming girl of Houston, Tex., was married to Robin W. Vaughan, who has recently come here from the same place.

Mr. Vaughan is a brother of Mrs. Gibbs and is a man widely known and honored in the business world of Houston, where he has been manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company for a number of years.

Mr. Vaughan has been in Los Angeles only a few months and is prominently identified with the Western Union here.

The home of Mrs. Gibbs was redolent with flowers, great nodding bride's roses showing against the background of green plants, feathery fronds of asparagus plumosus, and above all against the soft green of the southern moss which had traveled all the way from Texas to garnish the home for this occasion. White and green reigned in the drawing-rooms, even the lights being shaded to simulate great snowy magnolias, red and green adorned the hall, and the dining-room, with its rosy lights, had La France roses and pink ribbons against the greenery.

Rev. Hugh K. Walker of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church pronounced the rite and the bride and bridegroom, who came in together, were preceded by Mrs. Gibbs, as matron of honor. Immediately after came Miss Edith Gibbs, the charming little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs, all in white and bearing the wedding ring within the golden heart of a great white magnolia. The graceful, fair-haired bride was exquisitely gowned in fluffy white organdie over white silk, and carried a bouquet of the bride's own flower, the rose, and the matron of honor wore a delicate cream gown of Paris novelty goods over white silk made in Paquin style.

The young couple slipped quietly away from the small circle of relatives and near friends who had been bidden to the wedding, and left immediately after for one of the near-by beaches, their mysterious disappearance being a great disappointment to divers small nephews and nieces, who stood prepared with rice and old shoes.

After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan will make their home for a time with Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs, and Mrs. Vaughan will receive with Mrs. Gibbs on the first and second Fridays.

PUT DIAMOND IN THE POT.

Arrest Growing Out of Game of Draw Poker.

Young Grider Had Borrowed Gem from Fair Lady's Hand.

Languid Gentleman from Arizona Got it in a Catalina Deal.

A bob-tail flush, three aces in the other man's hand, and his lady friend's diamond ring in the pot—that is the explanation of the arrest of ex-Councilman Grider's son yesterday.

Young Grider was brought back from Catalina and charged with embezzlement by Mrs. Marguerite Lawless, from whom he borrowed the ring. He gave $1000 bail and his preliminary examination was set for October 3.

Mrs. Lawless is a married woman and Grider knew her but casually. He put her ring on his finger one day, forgetting to take it off again. Thereafter, he lost it in a red-hot game of draw poker at Avalon.

Mrs. Lawless was staying with a Mrs. Newton and her sister, Mrs. Bishop, when Grider got the ring.

She came out here last spring with her husband from Ohio. Mrs. Bishop had a handsome diamond ring with which Mrs. Lawless fell in love at first sight. She wanted to sell it. Mr. Lawless went home to Ohio in June and sent out $250 like an obedient and faithful hubby for his wife to buy the ring from Mrs. Bishop.

Enter Grider.

Mrs. Bishop was negotiating with the Grider and Hamilton real estate firm in regard to the purchase of property. Harry Grider, the son of the ex-Councilman, was sent out to see the deal through. He called four or five times. One day he noticed Mrs. Lawless's illuminated finger. He spoke of the ring. Admired it. Asked to see it. Slipped it on his finger. Began to buss about real estate. Went away. Took ring. Never came back.

At the time, it was thought that he had carried away the ring merely by oversight. After waiting a day or so for him to return it, Mrs. Bishop wrote him a note. No answer. Another note. Same answer.

Mrs. Bishop wrote a third note. Said if the ring was not returned she could be prepared to meet a bunch of trouble.

This time he answered her note. He asked where he could meet her down town and talk it over. To Mrs. Bishop it didn't seem a very complicated matter requiring much discussion. She left a note at his father's office telling him to call. He didn't call.

She hired an attorney and young Grider finally did call to see him.

At first he was very haughty. He said he would return the ring "at the proper time."

He was persuaded by the lawyer not to be too severe about it and finally to tell the whole story, which he did in two or three different versions.

He said first that he was drugged in a game of poker at Catalina and so lost the ring. The lawyer requested him to try again. He did. He said he got in a game with an experienced gentleman named M. C. Thomas. Thomas was an Arizona man and he must have felt sorry for Grider at times. He was so easy it was hardly interesting. Once in a while Thomas would languidly come to and pull in the money that was lying around. Grider kept losing steadily.

When his money was all gone he pulled Mrs. Lawless's diamond ring off his finger and Thomas let him have $100 on it. This only gave Grider a fresh impetus down the slide. When the game finally broke up owing to the extreme ennui of Thomas, sportive Mr. Grider had mashed the ring for $250 to Thomas. He could not hope to get it back.

An officer went out with a search warrant to the house of Thomas in this city, for he has moved in from Arizona.

Thomas did not try to evade the summons. Thomas was "as mad as a wet hen." Thomas not only did not try to evade testifying, but he was eager to prosecute Grider himself. He thought something ought to be done to Grider for keeping him out all hours of the night, showing hands and feeding the kitty, to get a ring that didn't belong to him.

ETHICS OF LAW.

Disciples of Blackstone Decry Business-getting Methods Employed in Their Profession.

"The Ethics of the Profession" was the subject discussed at the Lawyers' Club dinner at Levy's last evening. Former Judge John D. Works made the principal address, and caustically paid his respects to some of the sins of latter-day law practice, as viewed by the profession.

He criticised severely the soliciting of business by lawyers, and their appearing as witnesses in cases where they have been retained as counsel. He mentioned the example set by ex-Judge Carter of Indiana. It becoming necessary for Carter to appear as a witness in a case wherein he was one of the counsel, Carter asked the court to permit him to withdraw as counsel.

A general informal discussion followed the speech by Judge Works.

FRED EATON IS DIVORCED.

Former Mayor Gets a Decree for "Incompatibility."

No Contest Made by Wife, Who Says Liquor Caused Trouble.

Attempt to Hush Up the Affair Fails—Division of the Property.

Ex-Mayor Frederick Eaton has secured a divorce from his wife, Helen L. Eaton (nee Burdick) on the stated ground of general incompatibility.

This bit of information will surprise many in their large circle of acquaintances in this city and in Santa Monica, where they are now living—separately.

The decree was granted last Tuesday by Judge Smith in Department One of the Superior Court and so effectually was the affair hushed up that it did not leak out until yesterday.

According to a statement made by Mr. Eaton yesterday the divorce proceeding was agreed upon by himself and wife as the best way to avoid further domestic infelicity, and all the terms of the decree were mutually satisfactory. The division of the property, of very considerable value, was adjusted outside of court, and the legal custody of the children was awarded to the father. However, a contract was made whereby the father gives the children into the care of the mother so that she may have charge of their training and education.

Quite naturally Mr. Eaton was reluctant to discuss the divorce, as he had hoped it would pass without public mention. He declared emphatically, however, that there was nothing of a sensational nature in the complaint, and that incompatibility was the true cause of the separation. This statement was verified by his attorney, Charles McFarland, who secured the divorce, although F. B. Daley is the attorney of record in the case.

Fred Eaton is 47 years old and was born in this city. He was married when 19 years old to Miss Helen L. Burdick, and in this way came into possession of the Burdick Block on the northeast corner of Second and Spring streets, since sold to the Los Angeles Trust Company and by that company remodeled and enlarged into the present eight-story Trust building.

As an engineer Mr. Eaton achieved success, and he was for a long time connected with the Los Angeles City Water Company. In 1886 he was elected City Engineer and served two years. As the nominee of the Republican party Eaton defeated M. P. Snyder for the office of Mayor at the election in the fall of 1898, and served as Chief Executive of the city during 1899 and 1900.

During his political life he was somewhat addicted to the cup that cheers, but since retiring from office he is reputed to have led a very temperate life. Consequently the news of his divorce will come as a genuine surprise to the many who did not know of any family dissensions.

Helen, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eaton, married H. Y. Ridenbaugh, formerly a deputy in the Water Overseer's office. Their elopement a little over two years ago created quite a stir. Mr. and Mrs. Ridenbaugh are now living at the Melrose Hotel on South Grand avenue.

Mrs. Eaton is living in seclusion at the former home of her mother on Third street in Santa Monica. When approached last night by a Times reporter she was much distressed both in mind and body over the "troubles which have come all at once." Her mother died less than a month and a half ago, and this bereavement, with the subsequent divorce proceedings, has proven almost too much for her to bear.

When asked if the separation was by mutual agreement, she said: "Yes, it was, but I never would have agreed to it except to save my life, as it had become an existence which I could not sustain."

Mrs. Eaton was reluctant to speak of the matter, but from her point of view she said she could give but one word in explanation, "whisky." She professes to still love her husband. Her little boy and girl were with her. "My children," she said last night, "are the only friends I have in the world." The woman broke down under the burden of her sorrow and could say nothing more.

TALKS WITH TRAVELERS.

Andrew D. Barlow, United States Consul-General stationed in the City of Mexico, is a guest at the Van Nuys. On account of ill health he left his post in July last for a vacation, the first that he has enjoyed in three years, and has been spending his time in California.

Consul-General Barlow recently completed, upon the request of the Secretary of State of the United States, an exhaustive report on the amount of American capital at present invested in the republic of Mexico. This report, which has been published by the United States government, has been highly complimented for its thoroughness and general value, and copies have been requested by the Mexican government for its own use in the Treasury Department. The American representative labored arduously for a year and a half compiling the document, statistics for which were gathered from every corner of the republic, with the aid of all the American consular representatives and five British and five German consuls. The report shows that up to the present year $511,000,000 gold, United States currency, has been invested in Mexico by Americans.

Mr. Barlow, who is a comparatively young man, of pleasing address, was appointed to his present position from St. Louis by William McKinley in 1897, and is now serving his second term.

"This is my first vacation in three years," said Mr. Barlow at the hotel last night, "and I am enjoying it to the fullest here in California. It is my first visit to the State, and I am simply charmed with the country. As charming as Mexico City is in some respects, it cannot compare with this section in climate, because the altitude is too high, I think, for continued residence there.

"When I had completed my report to the United States government on the amount of American capital invested in Mexico, I was surprised even myself at the total figures, as many of the industries that are bringing in this capital seem to be simply in the infancy of their development yet. While a great deal of this money has gone into the great mining districts of the northern portion of the republic, it hardly overbalances the capital invested in pastoral and agricultural industries clear to the southern border. The culture of rubber trees is one that promises much, and American plantations of various sorts are constantly increasing."

EX-MAYOR FREDERICK EATON.

HEAD OF KINDERGARTEN DEPARTMENT OBJECTS.

SHOVING ASIDE WEE WORKERS CONSIDERED MISTAKE.

Miss Ledyard Upholds Kindergarten System as a Basic Principle of Successful Modern Education, and is Sorry Some Observers See Only Play in it.

Among the friends of the kindergarten system in the public schools of Los Angeles a great deal of disappointment has been caused by the decision of the Board of Education to turn out the little kindergarten pupils in the Olive-street and Sixth-street schools to make room for older scholars. Miss Mary F. Ledyard, kindergarten supervisor, believes that the basic principle of successful public school education is endangered by this action, which seems to imply that the kindergarten is the least important factor in the educational system.

Upon this subject Miss Ledyard said yesterday:

"At present the great hue and cry in the business world is that children are turned out of the schools unprepared to do anything—that they have no practical accomplishments. Now the kindergarten educates children by practical methods—it teaches them to do something. To the kindergarten is largely due the credit of starting the system of practical education whereby the child is taught to work out the thoughts of the brain with the hands. It teaches useful manual labor.

"The superficial observer seems to see only play in the kindergarten, and whenever a crisis arises in school affairs, kindergarten work is pushed aside to make room for other departments. Kindergarten work is basic, and is too important to trifle with."

TWO BULLETS IN HIS BODY.

Bakery Foreman is Shot and Another Baker Accused.

Probabilities that Trautwein, the Victim, Will Recover.

Origin of the Trouble a Mystery. The Wounded Man's Declaration.

Twenty minutes after the shooting, Edward Wilhelm, a baker, working for the Meeks company, who Trautwein said fired the murderous bullets, was arrested in his room at No. 527½ East First street, and locked up in the City Jail with a "suspicion" entered against him.

Wilhelm was taken into the Receiving Hospital, where the wounded baker was lying on the operating table gasping for life. He was just sinking into unconsciousness under the spell of morphine which had been administered.

When Wilhelm, pale and dishevelled, was led to the wounded man's side, Trautwein exclaimed: "That's the man that shot me!" He half raised and shook an accusing finger in Wilhelm's face.

"Why, Sam, why, Sam!" expostulated Wilhelm. "How can you say that, Sam! I never had any trouble with you, Sam, did I?" he asked.

Wilhelm had turned even paler and there was the look of desperate fear in his eyes as he pleaded with Trautwein in his agonised way.

"The man that shot me had a black hat," muttered the wounded man as he heaved over with a tremendous sigh, the spell of the morphine working.

"And a black tie," came faintly to the hearers around.

As Trautwein fell into a deep slumber Wilhelm kept protesting. "Why," he said, with an agonised attempt at a smile, "Sam and I never had any trouble. I haven't seen Sam for a week. I shoot my friend!"

Closeted with detectives afterward, Wilhelm made a rambling denial of the charge. He failed, however, to establish a satisfactory alibi.

HOW IT OCCURRED.

There were no witnesses to the shooting. In the rear of the bakery there were eight or ten men at work and they all heard the shots, but did not reach the sidewalk until after the foreman's assailant had fled.

Trautwein was leaving the shop to go home, and had just stepped from the door to the sidewalk when the first shot was fired. Immediately afterward the second one was heard, but if there was any talking, either preceding the shooting or following, the nearest persons to the scene failed to hear it.

Trautwein was rushed to the Receiving Hospital, where, after a ten-minute wait, a surgeon appeared. The wounded man said in the hearing of several persons that Ed. Wilhelm had shot him.

He said that he did not know the motive for the assault; that there had been no quarrel between Wilhelm and himself.

WILHELM'S QUEER ACTIONS.

On receiving this information from Trautwein, Detective Shearon and Acting Detective Quinn went to Wilhelm's room. They found the door locked, and after six minutes of rapping and waiting were admitted.

"I vould haf let you in sooner," remarked Wilhelm, "but I vas undressing." The officers told him that he was wanted for shooting Trautwein, and he protested that he was innocent, but was willing to go to the Police Station.

When Wilhelm was arrested his heart was beating at a frightful pace, say the officers. He had evidently undressed in great haste. A black tie was found in the room, but there was no black hat.

The suspected man said, in answer to a question, that he had been in the parlor talking to another man. It was learned that this conversation took place an hour before the shooting.

FIGHTING BAKERS.

On August 20 Trautwein figured in a free-for-all fight with Charles Bousse and Peter Garbiser, two other bakers, in the shop on Gary street.

This trouble arose over the discharge of Bousse. In the fight one of the bakers wielded an iron bar, another a wooden dough mixer, and another a club. The melee was something terrific, and Trautwein was laid out by a blow on his head that left a broad scar he still wears.

Bousse was tried in the Police Court on a battery charge, and was fined $60. Garbiser was also fined, and Trautwein escaped with a reprimand.

Although the wounded baker's testimony against Wilhelm is considered as strong evidence, there is still no absolute certainty. For this reason the fight of a month ago is being considered, and especially Bousse's connection with it. If found he will probably be asked to tell of his whereabouts last night.

Trautwein is a German, 45 years of age, and lives with his wife and four children at No. 756 East Ninth street. Wilhelm is also a German, trim built, and about 26.

After performing an operation, in which both bullets were removed, Police Surgeon Smith said that Trautwein's chances for recovery are excellent.

EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

THE coming marriage is announced for the 23rd inst., of Col. John L. Clem, U.S.A., and Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, at San Antonio, Tex. Col. Clem is the famous "drummer boy of Chickamauga," who distinguished himself in battle there in 1863, when he was a mere lad of 13. After the War of the Rebellion he went into the regular army, where he has remained ever since, having risen step by step until now he is a colonel and chief quartermaster in the service. Congratulations are extended to the happy couple.

Southern Moss and Magnolias.

A simple, beautiful wedding was solemnized last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jefferson Gibbs, 446 Grand View street, when Mrs. Gibbs's guest, Miss Deetie Slack, a well known and charming girl of Houston, Tex., was married to Robin W. Vaughan, who has recently come here from the same place.

Mr. Vaughan is a brother of Mrs. Gibbs and is a man widely known and honored in the business world of Houston, where he has been manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company for a number of years.

Mr. Vaughan has been in Los Angeles only a few months and is prominently identified with the Western Union here.

The home of Mrs. Gibbs was redolent with flowers, great nodding bride's roses showing against the background of green plants, feathery fronds of asparagus plumosus, and above all against the soft green of the southern moss which had traveled all the way from Texas to garnish the home for this occasion. White and green reigned in the drawing-rooms, even the lights being shaded to simulate great snowy magnolias, red and green adorned the hall, and the dining-room, with its rosy lights, had La France roses and pink ribbons against the greenery.

Rev. Hugh K. Walker of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church pronounced the rite and the bride and bridegroom, who came in together, were preceded by Mrs. Gibbs, as matron of honor. Immediately after came Miss Edith Gibbs, the charming little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs, all in white and bearing the wedding ring within the golden heart of a great white magnolia. The graceful, fair-haired bride was exquisitely gowned in fluffy white organdie over white silk, and carried a bouquet of the bride's own flower, the rose, and the matron of honor wore a delicate cream gown of Paris novelty goods over white silk made in Paquin style.

The young couple slipped quietly away from the small circle of relatives and near friends who had been bidden to the wedding, and left immediately after for one of the near-by beaches, their mysterious disappearance being a great disappointment to divers small nephews and nieces, who stood prepared with rice and old shoes.

After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan will make their home for a time with Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs, and Mrs. Vaughan will receive with Mrs. Gibbs on the first and second Fridays.

PUBLIC SERVICE.—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

City Clerk Lelande has received a letter from a financial authority in New York stating that the action of the Secretary of the Treasury in deciding to loan $40,000,000 to banks upon deposit of municipal securities will create a demand for Los Angeles bonds.

The Board of Public Works' inspection trip proved a fizzle yesterday.

Meat Inspector Hughes condemned a carcass of immature veal and killed a cow afflicted with tuberculosis yesterday.

Mrs. "C. Hill's" house was searched by the officers yesterday, and a box of mysterious letters was found.

Another milk man was fined $100 yesterday by Justice Pierce for selling adulterated milk.

Frederick Hammond's ungrateful grandchildren may lose the property he deeded over to them. Investigation is being made, looking toward having the deed set aside.

AT THE CITY HALL.

PROMISE OF SALE FOR CITY'S SECURITIES.

ACTION OF SECRETARY SHAW WILL CREATE DEMAND.

Treasury Will Loan Millions of Dollars to Banks Upon Deposit of Municipal Bonds—City Authorities Trust that Offers for Unsold Issues Will be Made.

Just as the city authorities were about to despair of marketing the unsold issues of 3½ per cent. bonds, a ray of hope was sent across the continent from New York in the shape of a letter from the Daily Bond Buyer. This enterprising paper, which keeps a finger on the pulse of Wall street, all the time, believes a market for the Los Angeles bonds will be created by the action of Secretary Shaw of the Treasury in offering to loan upward of $40,000,000 to banks upon the deposit of municipal bonds.

The letter was received by City Clerk Lelande, and the data asked for were promptly forwarded by return mail yesterday. The letter is signed by William Rousseau Shanks, associate editor of the Daily Bond Buyer, and is as follows:

"Secretary Shaw of the Treasury has recently decided to loan about $40,000,000 to banks of various cities upon the deposit of any municipal bond which is a legal investment for New York savings banks. As the bonds of your city are legal for these banks, we propose to publish a complete list of the outstanding bonds of your city, if you can furnish us with the data. The action of the Secretary will naturally create a demand for the bonds of your city, and it is essential that the bankers should have this data at hand."

The true importance of having Los Angeles bonds made "legals" in New York State will be seen from this letter. The movement was started soon after the sale of the $2,000,000 water bonds in February of last year, and City Attorney Mathews was instrumental in securing the passage of a special enabling act by the New York Legislature in the face of some considerable opposition. He was assisted by the law firm of Dillon & Hubbard, which had been retained as special counsel in bond matters by the city and by the firm of Farson, Leach & Co., which purchased the water bonds.

Bonds that are classed as "legals" in New York State are regarded as gilt-edged by investors as a general rule. Only high-class securities are included in the list.

The city still has $1,600,000 of unsold bonds as follows: Sewer bonds, $1,000,000; storm-drain bonds, $400,000; Polytechnic High School bonds, $200,000.

Of the issues of bonds last authorized the $400,000 common school bonds were purchased by the State Board of Examiners, and the $100,000 issue of bridge bonds by the Los Angeles Trust Company.

It is believed that the action of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw will make the 3½ per cent. securities sufficiently tempting to elicit offers for the unsold issues very shortly.

INSPECTION TRIP.

IT PROVES A FIZZLE.

Places on the Board of Public Works may be at a discount after the regular weekly meeting this afternoon. When the Council organized at the beginning of the year nearly every one of the nine city dads wanted a place on the board. Now the members have discovered that it is not so much fun after all. And, in addition, at least one of the board triumvirate was exceedingly wroth yesterday at the remissness of a brother triumvir and things may be said today unless forgiveness is sought in a meek and contrite spirit.

It all happened yesterday morning. The board has before it about forty petitions relating to street work and it is customary to make a round of the city on Thursday in order to get intelligently at the session on Friday. This week the three members had agreed, in view of the large number of petitions requiring investigation, to begin their tour at 5 o'clock a.m. yesterday. Of course this proposition was broached in a bantering way by Davenport, who suggested 7 o'clock as the starting time. McAleer said he could be ready by 6 o'clock, and Nofsiger said he thought they should go at 5 o'clock. The other two agreed and stayed by the bluff until after the team had been ordered Wednesday afternoon. Then Davenport weakened. The time was then changed to 8 o'clock, all the members agreed and the team was ordered for that hour.

Yesterday morning Davenport and McAleer were on hand and with City Engineer Stafford waited for the appearance of Chairman Nofsiger. After half an hour a search was started to locate the missing member and the telephones in the committee room both got hot boxes from overwork at high pressure. Secretary Willard Goodwin called up all the principal business houses in the city from the big department stores down to the undertakers in the hope of finding him.

Another half-hour wore away and McAleer began to get angry. At the end of the third half-hour McAleer was pacing restlessly up and down the City Hall steps and Engineer Stafford had sent word to his clerk to change the time of his return from 11 to 1:30 o'clock.

When 10 o'clock came the team was sent back to the stable and the inspection was abandoned. McAleer wanted to start without Nofsiger, but Davenport would not consent to this. Recently Davenport and Nofsiger started away and left McAleer because he was twenty minutes late, but the latter could not get revenge yesterday owing to Davenport.

It was learned later that Nofsiger had gone to Redondo on a business call.

McAleer wasn't a bit pleased when he learned all the circumstances and he may have something to say at the session this afternoon. There are indications that minority reports from the Board of Public Works may be more frequent in the future.

"BOB" VEAL.

CARCASSES CONDEMNED.

Meat Inspector Hughes condemned the carcass of a calf discovered in the cooling box at the market of Frank Aloi, No. 416 North Main street, yesterday morning. Word reached the health authorities that Aloi was selling immature veal, and an inspection of the market was promptly made.

From the cooling box Aloi brought out the carcasses of two calves weighing respectively 47 and 41 pounds. The law provides that calves must be four weeks old, and must weigh at least sixty-five pounds before they can be sold as veal. The carcass weighing 47 pounds was condemned by the inspector as immature, the meat indicating that the calf was only a few days old when killed. The other carcass was passed, although much lighter than the law specifies. Inspector Hughes said that the calf was from a Jersey heifer and that it was simply undersized. He declared the meat was sufficiently mature for consumption.

It is the custom of inspectors to use considerable discretion in such cases. Inspector Hughes says he has condemned veal carcasses weighing over eighty pounds.

Something akin to a tragedy was enacted yesterday at No. 451 Boyle avenue. Mrs. B. W. Smith, an estimable lady, but very poor, resides at that number. She is over 60 years of age, and her sole support has been a faithful cow. Mrs. Smith lived chiefly on the cow's milk and eked out a subsistence from the sale of the lacteal fluid.

Inspector Hughes discovered that the cow was afflicted with tuberculosis, and according to the law in such cases, the animal was slaughtered yesterday by the health inspectors. The body of the cow was found to be in a frightful state and there was not the slightest question about the necessity of the action taken by the inspectors. Nevertheless Mrs. Smith has been deprived of the means of living and she was nearly heartbroken over it yesterday.

"In all theyears that I have been an inspector I never have done anything I dreaded so much as the killing of that cow," said Hughes last night. "Mrs. Smith is a deserving woman and it seems a shame that she should be deprived of her cow, but there was no other way out of it. Some public-spirited citizen might show a very practical benevolence by replacing Mrs. Smith's cow."

NO TEST CASE.

CONTRACTORS CONFIDENT.

The meeting of contractors and bondholders scheduled for 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the committee-room at the City Hall was not held in a formal way. A large number of those interested gathered in the committee-room at the appointed hour, and after a brief informal discussion dispersed.

All the bondholders and most of the contractors reported that they had consulted their attorneys, and that it was the universal opinion of the legal talent that the decision of the Supreme Court in the San Diego case does not apply to Los Angeles contracts.

It was therefore deemed unwise to expend any money in bringing a test case. All the contractors, including Charles Stansbury, who has the largest outstanding improvement contract for the grading of Sunset boulevard, declared that they would go right ahead with their work.

The panicky state into which the contractors and bondholders were thrown by the action of the Barber Asphalt Company in refusing to sign for the Hill-street contract, after the hard fight made to win it, because of the San Diego decision, has given way to renewed confidence.

Vrooman-act bonds issued under contracts containing the contested provision are still held at almost par. Unless some indignant citizen cares to expend the necessary money, it is now probable that the point will never come to a test in the courts.

Guarantee the Work.

The Highland Park Improvement Association has adopted resolutions assuring Tyron & Brain, the contractors on Pasadena avenue, which is being improved between Avenue 48 and Avenue 66, that the work will be paid for according to agreement, irrespective of legal quibbles. The association has also addressed a few remarks to the Los Angeles Railway Company, which has thus far failed to lower its tracks to the official grade.

Transfer of Books.

Next Monday the City Clerk will turn over to the Tax Collector the assessment roll for 1902. The total tax charged against the Tax Collector this year is $1,426,962.59, as compared with $943,082.99 last year.

LOT-CLEANING CAMPAIGN.

South Maple Avenue Improvement Association Starts Movement to Remove Rubbish from Vacant Lots.

An enthusiastic meeting of the South Maple-avenue Improvement Association was held last night, and several new members were received. The membership now numbers over fifty men.

An important movement was started for the cleaning up of all lots within the territory of the association. Each member pledged himself to look after his own premises, and see that they were at once put in first-class shape, and to induce all owners of vacant property, and non-resident owners to do likewise. In order that the work may be carried on thoroughly, the association proposes to superintend the work for any non-resident parties who are willing to join the movement; and for the payment of $1.50 per lot to the association it agrees to hire men to remove from such lots all weeds and rubbish, and to put the lot in presentable condition.

It was found by a canvass of the territory included in the association that there are 180 families without the service of the mail carriers, and this fact was incorporated in a petition to be presented to the Superintendent of Carriers of the Postoffice.

Another matter of much interest was the school question. It was found that there are 104 children in the district who have not proper school advantages and the association hopes to secure action from the School Board which will cause the moving of the old Harmony school building to some convenient point on Thirty-eighth or Thirty-ninth street for their use. Meanwhile it is hoped a temporary school may be installed in this district in some private house.

AT THE COURT HOUSE

MYSTERIOUS LETTERS OF "WIDOW HILL" CAPTURED.

"GET MY BOX IF YOU HAVE TO BREAK INTO THE HOUSE."

That Tragic Command Was Picked up by a Policeman With Good Ears. The Box Was Found in the House Yesterday.

When the 'steenth Widow Hill—Laura Grieste Hill—was arrested Wednesday, she whispered tragically to a woman who was with her, "Get that box of mine if you have to break in the house."

The policeman heard it, so the District Attorney got the box for her. Only he has forgotten to give it to her.

The house was raided yesterday morning by two deputy sheriffs armed with a search warrant. They looked through the house and found the box. It was turned over to Justice Pierce, in whose custody it is now. The box cannot be recovered by its owner or opened by any one without his order.

It is the plan to have it opened and the contents read today. It is supposed to contain letters revealing a plot to get the Hill money with bought testimony.

PARTICULAR FITS.

METED OUT TO MILKMAN.

H. B. Peabody got a dose of what is known as the "P. H." brand in Justice Pierce's court yesterday for selling adulterated milk.

"Whoever is convicted in my court of selling adulterated food, being cruel to animals, or abusing his family is going to catch particular hell," said Justice Pierce. Hence the "P. H." brand.

Peabody pleaded guilty and was fined $100.

In his own behalf he said that he had bought out another man in the milk business and continued his practice of using something to keep the milk sweet. He did not know that it was formaldehyde and had no idea that it was harmful.

UNGRATEFUL GRAND CHILDREN.

MAY LOSE PROPERTY.

The old man, Frederick Hammond, whose grandchildren got his money and turned him out, has gone to the poor farm.

W. S. Kennedy, who is now living in the flats given his wife by the old man, came to the Sheriff's home to see what they were going to do about it. One of the officers suggested that he take the old man home until the court could do something for him. He replied with a villianous oath that he would do nothing of the kind.

Finally big Deputy Sheriff Hutchinson picked the old man up in his arms like a baby and carried him to the train for the poor farm.

"You don't want to go back to them," he said.

"I would if they'd only let me," the old man said pitifully. "I would do just what they told me to. If they would only treat me right I should like to go."

"Dont' they treat you right?"

"Sometimes they do, but sometimes Mr. Kennedy said he would kick my head off."

The District Attorney's office has taken a private and official interest in the case on account of its pathetic features. An investigation is being made to see if the deed by which the old man gave away his valuable property to the ungrateful granddaughter cannot be set aside.

The Kennedys yesterday made the following statement:

"It is well known to our friends and neighbors that we have cared for Mr. Hammond to the best of our ability, since he has been unable to care for himself. Since July 1901, in addition to giving him good board and lodging, we have paid him $10 per month for his other expenses, and there is now in bank the sum of $1590 to provide for this monthly payment of $10. For the last two years his mental condition has been growing rapidly worse, and at various times he has threatened to take our lives, has attempted to commit suicide, and has made many threats that he would take his own life. His conduct has been so outrageous that it has become impossible to live in the house with him, and as he is certainly of unsound mind, we thought the best and safest place for him was the asylum."

LIQUOR DEALERS CONVICTED.

SOLD WITHOUT A LICENSE.

"Guilty as charged," was the verdict of the jury yesterday in Justice Young's court in the case of the People vs. Dobie & Harding. The offense of the defendants was selling liquor without a license, for which they were arrested several days ago.

POLICE COURT.

JUSTICE AUSTIN'S CASES.

M. N. Brandt was all right until he began monkeying with a microscope; then he began to see things.

In Justice Austin's court yesterday he was given a chance to tell all about it. It developed in the telling, that Brandt, who is fond of seeing things, relieved Dr. C. O. Dietsch of No. 415½ South Broadway of the glass while that gentleman was absent, and that after he tried to dispose of it at a second-hand store.

Brandt didn't tell it, but it was brought out in the testimony that he had also operated in Pasadena and Long Beach, and in each suburban city had gathered a souvenir.

As the microscope was valued at $150, Brandt was charged with grand larceny, and yesterday was held to answer to the Superior Court. His bail was fixed at $1500.

That little legal difference between Lawyers J. C. Cahaine and H. G. Pound was called for the second round in Justice Chamber's court. The argument began in front of the Hollenbeck Hotel a few days ago, and as a result Lawyer Pound was charged with battery by Lawyer Cahaine. The hearing will be continued today.

Walter Branch will have time to think over the motive that prompted him to carry off a bridle that did not belong to him. Yesterday he appeared before Justice Austin on a conviction of petty larceny, and was sentenced to 100 days in jail.

KEY-NIPPER BURGLAR BEGINS WINTER'S WORK.

ROBS PROMINENT CONTRACTOR OF QUITE A SUM OF MONEY.

Manner in Which Job Was Done Indicates That Nervy Thief Who Was so Successful Here Last Winter is Here Again.

The "key-nipper man" has returned to Los Angeles to spend the winter.

This is not a "personal," but it will serve as a notice of the presence here of that astute and pernicious individual whose entrance to a house is so silent-footed as to induce dreams of repose and quiet, whose awakening is to find a pair of your best trousers, that had the money in them, lying in your back yard.

Early yesterday morning the long respite from this accomplished burglar was broken by one of those peculiarly clever jobs that harks back to last winter, when his thefts were of almost nightly occurrence—sometimes thrice a night.

A. B. Nash, a contractor living at No. 915 West Washington street, was the victim, the first of the season.

When he awoke yesterday morning the suit of clothes which he was confidently expecting to get into, had disappeared. After a prolonged search he found the clothes in the back yard.

From the trousers $180 had been taken, and along with this sum bank checks of a greater amount.

But a fine gold watch in his vest pocket had not been touched, unless the key-nipper man looked at the time to see how quick a job he was doing.

The clothes were taken from the room in which Mr. Nash was sleeping; were, in fact, lying on a chair not five feet from his head. But so silent had been the burglar's operations that no sound was made to awaken him.

The police are confident that the key-nipper man announced his entry into Los Angeles in yesterday morning's job. That the burglar did not uphold his title by "nipping" a key, which is to turn it from the outside with an instrument made especially for the purpose, was because no such necessity existed; an insecure window happened to be the easiest way.

Of last season's criminals the key-nipper burglar—it is believed by the police that there was only one operator that counted much—was by far the cleverest. Scarcely a night passed for a period of four or five months that he didn't make his art manifest.

His thefts mounted into the thousands of dollars. Some nights he would do several jobs. He was the most baffling and elusive criminal that ever came to Los Angeles, say the police, every one of whom aspired to the glory of capturing him.

He was seen but once by a victim, or was supposed to have been, and that time he had a revolver between him and the man whose trousers he had. The key-nipper man nearly always takes the clothes that he is convinced contain money to some convenient spot for search, usually in the back yard.

In guarding against the key-nipper man it is well to padlock the key on the inside, or to lay for him with a gun.

One very simple safeguard, and one which he cannot overcome except by breaking into a house, is to twist a piece of stiff wire around the doorknob on the inside of the door, leaving the wire long enough to pass through the circular end of the key. Then by giving the key an extra turn after locking the door and slipping the wire through it, the key-nipper burglar cannot turn the key in the lock.

SNEAK THIEF JOBS.

A sneak thief got into J. M. Fellows's room in the Royal House on East First street yesterday morning, and stole a suit of clothes. Another of the same ilk ransacked M. H. Germich's room at No. 512 South Main street, and got away with a suit of clothes and a revolver.

BELL'S WILD LEAP.

Crazed With Liquor He Jumps from a Third Story Window and Sustains but Slight Injury.

In leaping from a third-story window last evening without sustaining serious injury, Charles Bell, a tourist, performed a feat that seems but little short of the miraculous.

Just what section of the "Down East" territory Bell hails from is unknown, but for several days he has been knocking about the beaches enjoying himself hilariously, essaying the role of "Gumpton Cute" in the consumption of hard liquor.

Yesterday morning Bell "blew" into Los Angeles possessed of an enormous jag that soon developed "D. T." tendencies. A considerate friend steered him into the Lindley Hospital on Sixth street, where he was taken in charge by Dr. Smith Walker. The inebriate was given a room on the third floor, with a nurse to care for him and administer such treatment as his case demanded.

Throughout the day Bell seemed to be fearful lest he should fall into the hands of the police, from whom, in his delirium, he feared maltreatment. Early in the evening the patient seemed much improved and talked rationally of his intended return East, purposing to take his departure today.

This improvement was but temporary, however, for shortly after 8 p.m. Bell became violent, and, breaking away from his nurse, ran screaming to an open window. Before he could be prevented the crazed man leaped out into space, taking a "header" to the yard below. In his descent Bell struck a lower porch, thus breaking his fall, a fact to which he probably owes his life. Although stunned, Bell was able to walk to the patrol wagon that had been called. At the Receiving Hospital the high jumper was examined, but was found to have sustained but a few bruises.

Rambler
W. K. COWAN.

THE SIMPLE ARE MULCTED.

Tickets Hawked by Scalpers Confiscated Daily.

Passengers of Bogus Paper Ejected from Trains.

Unfortunate Woman the Victim of Conscienceless Local Brokers.

All railroad headquarters report confiscation of scalpers' tickets at the rate of a dozen or more a day—which means that men, women and children are daily put off trains, out of Los Angeles, because of ineffectual attempts to ride on tickets that do not belong to them. Brokers and other unscrupulous speculators offer to sell railroad tickets to ignorant men and women, because they are cheaper and on the false pretense that "they are just as good as any."

The hardship often falls, as it did days ago, upon a penniless woman with five small children, who had to get off a Santa Fé overland train at Needles because she presented a ticket that was not hers. So moved the trainman by the hardship thus caused by the discharge of duty that he paid the woman's fare from Los Angeles, and, it is reported subsequently hunted up the man and had her the transportation and made him refund.

POOR WOMAN'S PLIGHT.

The train at the time was Dr. Geo. Gates, president of Pomona College, who discussed the matter yesterday in the hope of keeping other people out of similar trouble.

"It is," declared Dr. Gates, emphatically, "falsehood and forgery are the daily companions of any person or persons, who starts with a railroad ticket. Take the case of that woman with the five little children who boarded the train for the Needles the other day. The conductor came through and said:

"This is a case that touches me deeply. I have simply got to take this woman's ticket and put her off at the next station."

He told me before ever the train left Needles that technically he had no right to have anything to do with her in any way until she had paid fare to use the ticket, which would not alter the train started. I was present at her discomfiture and very great inconvenience. What was the matter with the ticket, the ticket was not hers at all. Asked to sign her name she refused to commit forgery, for which I suppose she could be prosecuted by the railroad company. The fact that the ticket was not hers. It was known as a G.A.R. ticket, which was sold from the East for less than one fare, under a contract between the railroads and the railroad that no one but the purchaser shall use the ticket. The purchaser had broken his word and made false representations, whether consciously or not I am not prepared—to this woman, who thought she had been informed by the agent who executed the ticket and bought it from him in the name to it at the joint office it would be all right with the railroad companies. Of course, there was nothing for this railway official to do but to take up the ticket, and with that courtesy he could show compatible with the circumstances.

"PITIFUL, HOW SHE LIED."

"Another case on the same train was that of an elderly woman whose son had bought two, scalped tickets, one for her and one for himself. In fact, I am sorry to say that the woman perjured herself repeatedly. She started in a dishonorable way, and carried it out with perfect consistency. It was pitiful, the way that she lied. Of course, she was found out, but in the hands of a shrewd official. She tangled herself up in a way which would have been impossible had it not been so sad. She was compelled to leave the train at a way station and her checked baggage put off at the same place. The story of many passengers I heard, some of whom, not understanding that the woman was being ejected terrific objurgations on the poor railway official, who dealt with the utmost possible consideration, simply doing his duty.

THE ROADS ARE RIGHT.

"My action with the railroad men in these instruments which all right-minded people will heartily share. One thing I regret we have in this matter is that we are unable to get at the guilty parties, the men who have deliberately sold tickets to these poor people.' Of course varying degrees of culpability to the purchaser, but there is no extenuating circumstance in the condemnation of the practice of selling such tickets, or the action of selling them to poor women. Of course there is a second reach. Pitiful as the weakness of such selling by these railway officials.

"The system is such now that it is practically impossible for it to be worked. The person who buys a ticket is pretty sure to be caught by the first conductor who sees it not by him, he is thrown off the train out on the desert. Any conductor can ask for a signature, and if the signature is forged there is detection. The railroads are not to blame in the least degree. They would be worthy if they fostered in any way this dishonesty. So long as there is detection in these cases the ticket broker cannot be induced to touch such tickets. He only knew how great the risk was and how great the profit. Certain methodically railroad people can count themselves fortunate, but utterly inexcusable, but utterly to undertake these frauds.

A FINANCIAL FOLLY TO TRY.

"By way of illustration. Some months ago one of these return-trip tickets was sold at a far East point to a party who were coming to California for permanent settlement. Without the station the agent learned their openly-declared purpose of selling the return portion of the ticket, in spite of the fact that by which they signed before they bought their tickets, that they would not sell, before these people left the premises of all those who are speculating on their journey they knew to the railway officials. Under such circumstances who are speculating to do nothing else but watch for such attempts at fraud, it would seem like colossal folly, to say nothing of the crime of it, to make such attempts at deception."

DESERTS ARE MADE TO BLOSSOM AS THE ROSE.

DEVELOPMENT OF WELD COUNTY, COLORADO.

Under Irrigation Barren Wastes Are Reclaimed and the Populous, Prosperous Town of Greeley Becomes an Important Commercial Center.

BY EDWARD B. LITTLE.
(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

GREELEY (Colo.) Sept. 11.—In 1859 while Horace Greeley was crossing Weld county, Colo., he observed its broad plains, studied its soil, and made up his mind that with water this broad stretch of land could be converted into one of the garden spots of the earth. It was a flat, desert appearing place then, unattractive in the extreme, but to Greeley's analytical mind it presented great possibilities.

When Greeley wrote: "Go West, young man, and grow up with the country," he undoubtedly had reference to Weld county, Colo. It was through Greeley's influence that, in 1870, N. C. Meeker, then agricultural editor of the New York Tribune, came here and as a result Union Colony was organized. Horace Greeley was the prime mover in the undertaking, drew up the papers and suggested necessary news. Meeker established himself here, and his widow and daughter are still here, living in the oldest house in the town. In time the town of Greeley materialized and Horace Greeley dominated it from his editorial office in the Tribune building, New York. One of the clauses in the articles of incorporation of the town was that if any lot owner permitted liquor to be sold upon his premises at any time, the title of the lot should revert to the town of Greeley. That provision stands today as one of the laws of the city of Greeley, which, by the way, now has a population of 4000 or more people, well-paved streets, good sewers, splendid school buildings and every other convenience of a much larger city. It has no jail.

There came to Greeley today a band of pilgrims from the East. They were on their way to the still farther West to investigate irrigation possibilities. In Weld county they were shown the land in its original condition, and in the township of Greeley wide stretches that had been under water. The contrast amazed the visitors.

There is not an acre within thirty miles of Greeley upon which a farm product of any kind will grow without irrigation. Yet within twenty-five miles from the center of the city there are five beet-sugar factories. These five beet-sugar factories furnish most of the 5,000,000 pounds of beet sugar turned out annually by the State of Colorado. Every beet that is put into this sugar, made in these five factories, is grown under irrigation, and only a very small part of the territory in the vicinity is used for the cultivation of sugar beets, because there are other crops that pay better. Some wheat and alfalfa are grown, but the farmers here find potatoes more profitable than any other crop. The most famous potatoes to be found anywhere are the Greeley potatoes—named for Horace Greeley and not for the town. Nearly every land holder having 160 acres of land has eighty acres of potatoes under irrigation every year. The yield is about one hundred and twenty-five bags to the acre, and this year are bringing $1 a bag, with $1.20 or $1.25 a bag assured a little later. But even at $1 a bag, the farmers are getting $125 per acre for one year's crop or a total of $10,000 from an eighty-acre potato patch. Irrigation does this.

From sugar beets the farmers around Greeley—that is the farmers doing business directly with this town—get an annual return of something like $1,800,000. This money is paid to them for sugar beets on delivery and has no reference to the amounts the sugar factories receive for the finished product. The potatoes shipped from Greeley by railroad bring in an annual revenue of more than $2,000,000. Only about $300,000 worth of wheat is shipped out of the town every year. This makes an annual revenue of about $4,000,000 for this little town and the people who live in the vicinity.

The farmers of this section do but little manual labor. They all have splendid houses, with a telephone in every house for miles and miles around. From the center of the town telephone wires run in every direction, as they do from the center of a great commercial center in the East. The farmer in this section take at least one long pleasure trip each year. They go to California, to New York and very many have taken their families to Europe.

Considering that this is the accomplishment of private enterprise and capital on the American desert for a period of but a few years, the wonder is what will the next thirty years witness with the Federal government behind great irrigation projects

If you read these Carrara paint ads, you'll notice that we say "work guaranteed for five years WHEN done by the CONTRACTORS WE RECOMMEND." We make this provision for the simple reason that there are a great many painters who WILL NOT do justice to Carrara Paint because it lasts too long. It's a well known fact that a painter can dilute good paint so that it does not affect the first appearance of the paint but it tells in the wearing. Come directly to us, let us furnish estimates and recommend painters who we know will do the work honestly and we will guarantee your work for five years.

HAVE been treated by Dr. Schiffman for years. I have tried all his different methods and can say unhesitatingly no dentist or physician has ever operated with such success or skill. In extracting my teeth he did it without any pain to me. It is a great pleasure to me to recommend him and his method of treatment. MILO M. POTTER,
Prop. Van Nuys Hotel and Hotel Potter, Santa Barbara.

Ten years ago a reputable D. D. S. of Va. told me that a certain molar tooth could not be satisfactorily saved and that it would probably not be of service for one year. It has not only served me for ten years, as Dr. Schiffman saved and crowned it, and comparatively speaking without pain. I sing his praise.
L. M. ANDREWS, Pastor M. E. Church, South, Cor. 6th and Mateo Streets.

On account of some unfortunate experience I had in the extraction of my teeth I became a great coward in this respect. Today Dr. Schiffman extracted one of my very refractory teeth without causing me one particle of pain. D. K. TRASK, Judge Superior Court, Los Angeles.

Dr. Schiffman extracted a tooth for me absolutely without pain. His advertising phrase, "Didn't Hurt a Bit," is literally true.
R. D. HOLABIRD, Pacific Electrical Works, Under Nadeau, First St.

EVERAL years ago Dr. Schiffman did some crown and bridge work for me which has proved entirely satisfactory. The work was done painlessly and with great skill. It gives me great pleasure to recommend him.
IRVING R. SMITH, L. A. Times.

Dr. Schiffman has put in almost an entire upper bridge for me. The bridge is perfect in every respect, and I can use it as well as my natural teeth. The work was promptly and painlessly done. J. F. WILL, 901 West Twelfth.

Dr. Schiffman pulled two of my wisdom teeth, and it didn't hurt a bit; on the contrary, the sensation was pleasant. GUY L. HARRISON, Vice-Pres. Herald Pub. Co.

It is with pleasure that I state that I have had several teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman, and that he filled and extracted the nerve and filled the root of one of my teeth and put on a porcelain crown, which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain. JUDSON R. RUSH,
Of Davis & Rush, Attorneys, 3 Rogers Blk.

I have had porcelain crown work and some filling done, also had ten teeth and roots extracted by Dr. Schiffman, and take great pleasure in recommending his method to anyone wishing dental work done without pain. MRS. C. T. W. SCHRAMM,
Mother of Paloma Schramm, Cor. Austin and Wadsworth.

Dr. Schiffman has put in a very satisfactory piece of bridge work for me and I cheerfully recommend him to anyone in need of dentistry. F. FLORENTINE, 1351 North Main St. County and City Criminal Photographer.

About a year ago I had a solid gold bridge put in by Dr. Schiffman. The work was absolutely painless, and has proved entirely satisfactory, and I cannot say too much in praise of the doctor. GUS BASLER, 215 W. First St.

Dr. Schiffman extracted my teeth and replaced same by bridge work. He also treated and filled two teeth, which I thought were too far gone to save. The above work was all done painlessly and is perfectly satisfactory. E. A. POLLARD, 717 Central Ave.

This is to certify that Dr. Schiffman did some crown work for me seven years ago and the work is as good today as it was when he finished the job.
S. J. McKENZIE, Police Officer, 1423 Essex St.

I have had fourteen teeth extracted positively without pain by Dr. Schiffman.
L. B. OSBORN, Ocean Park Postmaster.

Have just had a large back tooth extracted by Dr. Schiffman; had been bothering, but it was only a trifle and gave no pain. FRED A. DAY, Deputy City Assessor.

Varicocele, Rupture and Rectal Diseases.

Varicocele, piles and rupture are the principal causes of vital failure and organic weakness annoying men. We have found by actual experience and facts that ninety cases of vital weakness in every hundred have some degree of varicocele, rupture or rectal trouble, and that when the diseased condition is cured the vital power is restored, thus proving to a certainty the three most common causes of so-called weakness. I have been giving my time for twenty years to this subject and speak from the facts found by treating many thousands of cases. I have been in Los Angeles 10 years and can show abundance of evidence of my success. Any man who has Varicocele or Rupture or any rectal disease can satisfy himself by calling at my offices, where he can get a strictly free examination; he can also get the names and addresses of plenty of prominent, reliable business men here in the city who have been cured by my treatment. They will be glad to talk to you if you earnestly desire to be cured. No man seeking relief from such conditions should employ any doctor without seeing a good number of his cured cases. Any pretender can advertise, but only the successful, genuine specialist can show you the indisputable cured cases. Don't give your money or time to any man who does not show you the proof of his success by plenty of actual cured cases. My time for a permanent cure of varicocele or piles is one week, and for rupture two weeks. I never treat these cases by mail. I must have the patient under my personal supervision for the time named above. He can then be discharged forever cured. I ask no man to pay a dollar until he knows for a certainty that he is permanently cured. I furnish room and board in a first class sanitarium, with graduated nurses in all cases requiring same, free of extra charge. My prices are only what the patient is able to pay.

I Accomplish
MORE IN ONE WEEK
Than Can Ever be Accomplished by Guessing Through the Mail.

Many men are treated for conditions that do not exist, guessing through the mail is the direct cause for many chronic conditions. Good results cannot be had by such unreliable methods. An effective treatment cannot be given when guessing is resorted to. The exact cause and condition cannot be removed, with any degree of certainty, without personal attention. Certainty of a cure is what you want and you may know just what you can depend upon under my method of treatment.

Functional Decline.
Termed Weakness By Some.

My method of treatment for this condition is the only effective means yet known whereby functional activity may be restored, without resorting to drastic stimulants which derange the functions of the stomach. I remove the EXACT CAUSE responsible for the disorder and you may know just what you can depend upon.

VARICOCELE. I cure the most aggravated cases in 4 to 6 days. The cure is absolute and permanent. Normal circulation is quickly restored, which brings health and tone to every part affected. Certainty of a cure is what you want.

STRICTURE. 10 TO 15 days is usually sufficient with my method to cure the worst case. I am able to say this through the many that have found a cure in my treatment that have been disappointed by many. I remove the exact cause by a painless method.

Contracted Diseases.

Chronic or acute. I am confident my treatment is the quickest and most effective ever used for the removal of these local disorders; chronic conditions are the result of caustic and painful remedies, causing inflammation, ulceration and stricture. I cure without resorting to such measures. It is the most cleanly and perfect treatment known.

CURTAIN DRAWN ON THE BOOK CONCERN

Bishop Declines to Let A. J. Wallace Reply to Dr. Mains—Lively Day at the Southern California Methodist Conference.

THE Southern California Conference was a little slow gathering at the First Methodist Church yesterday morning, but not so Bishop Earl Cranston. He had arrived in the city late on the previous night, and sustained his reputation as a "business bishop" by being among the first to appear at the church. There were not more than wo dozen preachers in sight when he walked onto the platform and took his seat.

In appearance and action Bishop Cranston has the air of a lawyer. He is the first one in a number of years to appear here with a tuft of whiskers on his chin. He is dignified and has a blunt directness that enables him to dispose of the business of the conference quickly, diplomatically and without jar. He is a good story teller, but has not the great flow of humor that characterizes Bishop Hamilton, not the possy of McCabe, not the fatherly mien of Joyce.

BISHOP'S FIRST TALK.

"The idea of reconciliation should underlie the motive of every minister of the gospel," said the bishop, speaking from the words of St. Paul, and undoubtedly having in mind the Hammond case and the other Book Concern troubles. "A minister should not be a promoter of discord, but a peacemaker between God and man, and between man and man."

H. J. WALLACE.

Between these words he had read from the scripture of the blamelessness, the patience, the love, that should characterise the minister's life.

"Now look at the other side," he said, "what is the worst thing that can happen to a minister of this conference? Why, a poor appointment."

Then the bishop read of foolishness, and said: "No chance to hide anything away till the last day and then spring it on the conference as a surprise, as is sometimes done." Then he read of pureness, and said, "No chance for trading votes."

"No, no; that's so," came from a number of delegates.

"It is nothing against a man that he may be in your way. I have known some men to be outrageously wronged because they were in somebody's way..

"I have not often read this scripture before a conference, and I do it now not because I think it specially fits here, but because it fits everywhere.

"Gossip is getting to be the curse of every annual conference, especially during a canvass for votes for delegates to the General Conference. I have sometimes thought that the air was a little bluer about the lobby of an annual conference than anywhere else; but that may be putting it a little strong. There'll not be a single appointment made on the curbstone, at this conference.

"I don't know how it is with you, but I think I would wear out quicker from unjust and foolish criticism than from hard work. There must be a little contention among you; it would not be human to ask that all laid aside; but let the rivalry be high-minded and honest and fair."

MAINS HAS HIS SAY.

Dr. George P. Mains of New York was introduced to talk of the affairs of the New York Book Concern. The text of Dr. Mains was the recent newspaper reports with reference to the Book Concern, of which he and Dr. Homer Eaton are the agents.

Dr. Mains was agitated and was very severe in his castigation of the press, inasmuch as he admitted what has been charged by the papers. He made it appear that the press had imputed dishonesty or dishonest motives to Eaton and Mains and vehemently declared:

"There is not an iota of truth in it all; from core to rim, from crown to heel, it is an entire falsehood.

"The figures as given were exactly correct, but as you know the Methodist publishing house is the oldest in America, and we have accumulated a great deal of dead stock. For instance, the plates for Strong's Concordance cost between $15,000 and $20,000, but we have never been able to sell enough of the books to pay for the plates, and they are charged up to old junk, though they lie in our establishment in perfect condition. The plates for our hymnal and other books have been treated in the same way.

"We have four depositories, at Boston, Detroit, Pittsburgh and San Francisco, and unfortunately these depositories have proceeded on the theory that they were general book stores, and I was the first to suggest that we go out of the general book business.

"It is true we did at the beginning of this quadrennium charge off the enormous sum of $629,000. It does—one section of it—include losses. We were compelled to sell off those superannuated stocks of books at lump sums, and these you may very properly call 'losses.' Any man can be wise after a thing has happened, and I am utterly opposed to doing any business in a subscription-book department. I thought, when I went in, that this was the most flourishing department, but in it we lost a great deal of money in the selling out of these departments.

"I think that about 40 per cent. of this $629,000 ought to be charged to real losses."

WALLACE'S TURN TO TALK.

Dr. S. A. Thompson arose at the close of the talk of Dr. Mains and asked the privilege of the floor for A. J. Wallace, who wished to speak of the San Francisco bookhouse.

The bishop was cautious. He had seen in The Times that Wallace was to make reply to Dr. Mains, and he wanted no controversy, and placed the responsibility with the conference by taking a vote, the understatnding being that Wallace was to confine himself to the San Francisco end. He began as follows:

"I didn't bribe Dr. Mains to say a good word for the San Francisco committee, unless a dinner taken at my house last night was bribery."

Mr. Wallace all of a sudden took a turn, and waded into the management of the New York Book Concern, showing that the Southern California Conference had in the last three years received about $1500, while for the corresponding three years in the former decade it had received $3200.

"If the New York house is so prosperous, why is it that your dividends are but half of what they were ten years ago?" he asked. He then quoted the figures to prove that the dividends paid to the superannuates by the New York house were but threee-fourths of 1 per cent.

At this juncture Dr. Thompson, who had asked the privilege of the floor for Wallace, jumped to his feet and said:

"We do not want to hear about that; we want to hear about the San Francisco commission. We have heard all this once before."

The bishop said it was all entirely wrong. Rev. A. Inwood rose and objected; and another brother got up and said he wished to raise a point of order against the speaker. Things looked lively, and Wallace said:

"Well, I'll let that alone," and took up the other matter. He showed that under the management of the commission the Coast establishment had been [illegible]ous, and gave the credit [illegible]ely to Rolla Watt of San [illegible]

Dr. J. B. Green reported that Mrs. A. M. Hough had placed in his hands $2000 in good securities, for the superannuated fund, and that Mrs. Hough also turned over to the fund entire control and benefit of the 402-acre eucalyptus grove which was ceded to the conference one year ago:

BOVARD'S REPORT.

In concluding his report of the Los Angeles district, Dr. Bovard said:

"In conclusion permit me to say that I am deeply conscious of my own imperfections and limitations. I am therefore, exceedingly grateful to Almighty God for his abundant grace, so freely bestowed upon the churches during my administration of six years. In 1897 there were thirty-six charges within the bounds of the present Los Angeles district. I now leave it with fifty-two charges. The church membership and number of Sunday-school scholars have increased about 50 per cent.

"Our contributions to the missionary cause have each year been far in excess of the apportionment. Last year it reached the high-water mark and placed our conference at the head of all conferences in its per capita contributions to missions. The twentieth century offering of the Los Angeles district was more than $240,000. Fourteen churches and seventeen parsonages have been built at an aggregate cost of more than $200,000."

Presiding Elders Sterling and Green also read their reports.

THE ELECTION.

A motion was adopted making the election of delegates to the General Conference the regular order for 11 o'clock this morning.

The following committee was appointed to receive and report upon memorials to the General Conference at 9 o'clock this morning: J. L. Pitner, H. J. Crist, B. C. Covy, H. W. Peck, F. D. Mather.

IN THE BISHOP'S SHOES.

APPLAUSE FOR DR. BOVARD.

When Dr. George P. Mains began his talk to the conference yesterday Bishop Cranston sat in the chair and without the speaker noticing it the bishop had retired and called Dr. Bovard to the chair. Mains kept on addressing "the bishop" somewhat to the amusement of the assembled preachers, until he finally turned around and said:

"Oh, ah, I beg your pardon, I thought the bishop sat there." [Great applause.]

Then from the audience came a number of exclamations, such as "He's going to be there;" "That's the place for him." Then the applause was renewed and long-continued.

The incident was a marked compliment to Dr. Bovard and the applause was general all over the house.

The feeling for Dr. Bovard was still further and more fully expressed later on in the session, when his ministerial friends of the Los Angeles district presented to him a handsome silver tea service. The presentation speech was made by Dr. J. L. Pitner, pastor of the Westlake Church, who expressed the admiration of himself and brothers for the retiring Presiding Elder in the choicest language. He finally said:

"As a token of our highest regard I present you with this which will soon be in range of your vision," as it was being carried under cover to the platform. "If it is a teapot I trust it will be large enough to encompass all the tempest that may ever come into your life."

Amid great applause Dr. Bovard stepped forward and expressed his surprise and "sincere gratitude for this kindly expression of your regard." The applause was then renewed and all joined in singing "Blest be the tie that binds," which was started by some preacher in the body of the house.

Dr. E. A. Healey, pastor of University Methodist Church, said that there appeared to be a mistake in saying that Dr. Bovard had stepped down from anything.

"I submit," he said, "that with all the facility of Dr. Bovard for stepping, his step from the presiding eldership to the presidency of the University of Southern California is stepping up and it is the longest step he ever took."

"There's a longer one coming," called out a brother amid the applause that followed the remark of Dr. Healey. There is a general desire to see Dr. Bovard advanced to the bishopric and every opportunity is taken to give it some expression.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

EVENING SESSION.

The missionary meeting last night was the most largely attended of the evening sessions thus far.

Rev. George B. Smythe, D.D., gave a very entertaining fifteen-minute talk. He paid a glowing tribute to the work Southern California is doing in the missionary field, declaring that the increase in donations from this section led every conference in Methodism last year.

Rev. A. B. Leonard, D.D., of New York also spoke. He occupied the platform for nearly an hour and a half and gave a long dissertation on missionary history and progress. He commenced with the birth of the Christian religion and traced it through every stage of development to the present day.

The railroad building throughout the world was described at great length, and he argued that they were avenues for transporting the gospel to all lands. The press and telegraph were also declared to be agencies of great usefulness in scattering broadcast the word of God. He bitterly denounced the Catholic church.

Rev. B. S. Haywood of Riverside presided.

MINES AND MINING.

LOOKS BAD IN MOJAVE CAMP.

Randsburg's Outcasts Trying to Make Trouble There.

Secret Service Men Watching the Valuable Mining Plants.

Driven Out of Old Nests, Loafers and Desperadoes Seek New Snap.

Driven from the Randsburg district and other desert camps, where operators refused to accede to their unreasonable demands, walking delegates, bullies and breeders of discord have selected a new field to pollute with their presence. Mojave is the unfortunate site.

The desert town has become a hotbed of union labor unrest, and it is with much concern that residents have been watching the alarming influx of the element representing the very worst product of union labor folly. Since it has become evident that the Randsburg Miners' Union had been hopelessly routed in its silly effort to dictate, Mojave has become the Mecca for dissatisfied and disgruntled loafers. Around the headquarters of their outcast organization threats have been heard that put operators who have large sums invested on their guard. The air is charged with trouble.

Los Angeles owners of desert mining plants have received threats of violence, and that they may better protect their properties from the attacks of fanatics, the services of secret service men have been engaged, and extra deputy sheriffs have been instructed to be on the alert. The Sheriff of Kern county has made Randsburg his headquarters for some time past.

These fears are not groundless, and the watchfulness of those who have large amounts of capital invested in extensive mining enterprises is justifiable, when it is considered that the element with which they have to deal is the most irresponsible.

A striking evidence of the unreasonableness of the miners' unions in the desert country is found in the demands made by the Randsburg and Mojave unions of the operators in their respective sections. The Randsburg union struck several months ago for an increase of 50 cents a day for the pay of muckers, demanding that $3 a day be fixed as the wage. Although the Mojave operators were at that time paying the wage demanded in the Randsburg camp, the Mojave union was not satisfied, and an announcement was made that an increase of 50 cents, or $3.50, for all sinking and uprise work would be required. As conditions in both camps are practically the same, both being dry mines, and the rock easy to work, the injustice of their claim is apparent.

It is on this point of increase that the situation now hangs fire in the Mojave district. Three months ago the demand for an increase was made, and since that time operators have religiously kept from developing their properties where it would be necessary to resort to sinking or uprising. The situation has, however, reached a crisis, and a complete tie-up of the mines in that section may be announced any day. Operators have decided to stand together, and will simply close up their properties rather than yield.

Just how the miners will stand in case of a "show down" is not certain. For the most part they are steady, reliable workmen, well satisfied with conditions, but they are now being schooled by the worst set of loafers that can be found out of jail. The outcasts of other camps are posing as champions for the rights of workmen, hoping to get their jobs later.

THIEVES IN UNION.

The Miners' Union at Mojave, classified as No. 51, has a very unsavory odor. It was organized three years ago by Frank Stevenson, a loud-mouthed agitator, who preached union doctrines whenever the occasion offered, and when not so engaged he made the most of his opportunities by robbing people. He never worked until he was sent to San Quentin a few months ago to serve a term for burglary. He is now doing time.

The office of treasurer has a unique history all in itself. Under ordinary circumstances it might be said to be hoodooed. It is, however, a position that is much sought after.

Less than a year ago J. P. McFarland was elected to the position. McFarland never had worked before, but he was persuaded to try his hand at caring for the union's funds. His inexperience in the field of labor soon made itself felt; in less than a week he reported he had been robbed. At any rate, the union was a loser $100 by the transaction, and a new treasurer was elected.

S. I. Davis held the snap three months, and during that time earned a reputation as a plunger at the gaming board. His career as treasurer ended one morning when he came into camp with a story of having been held up by "a short man and a tall man" and robbed of $200 of his trust money. He told his tale to the Sheriff, but fellow members of the union could not believe it and had him arrested. About a month ago his case was heard before the justice court at Mojave and he was bound over to answer to the Superior Court.

A new treasurer has been elected, but as the union treasury is at present rather flat, nothing of a startling nature has developed.

Free fights and drunken brawls are common occurrences among the "fraternity" at Mojave, and with the influx of more bad blood it would not be surprising if the gravest fears of operators were realized.

The importance of the industry in the Mojave mining district can be judged from the fact that 170 men are employed in the properties about that camp, and that if allowed to carry out their plans as outlined the operators will soon be able to make room for many others.

At the Exposed Treasure fifty men are on the pay roll, while Thompson & Boyle of this city are giving employment to about forty. The Echo Mining Company, another local concern, has twenty-five men at work, and on the Karma nearly thirty men are now employed. With the exception of the last named, mills are in operation on all the properties, and the camp is just beginning to get on its feet. On the Karma a twenty-stamp mill is being erected, the frame for the building being already in place.

Should the union's walking loafers succeed in convincing the workers that they are not being treated as they should be, all these properties will be closed down.

YELLOW ASTER WINNING.

Further evidence of the strength of the Yellow Aster Mining Company's position was furnished in a telegram received from Randsburg yesterday by Mrs. Burcham, in which it was stated that a shipment of twenty-four mules arrived there on the morning train. These men came from Missouri. It is also learned that all of the men recently imported have sent for their families.

At the Yellow Aster 140 men are now on the pay roll, and more are expected. The mill is still grinding with fifty stamps, and arrangements are being made to start up fifty more within the next few days.

CHILD STUDY CIRCLE.

Reception Tendered Teachers and Parents of Rosedale District—Meeting Called for Formation of Civic League.

The reception tendered by the Rosedale Child Study Circle to the teachers and fathers of the district Wednesday evening proved a great success and was largely attended. The programme was varied and inspiring. R. W. Burnham, a prominent member of the Municipal League, told how that body was working to improve conditions, following the reading of a paper by Mrs. Charmers Smith, chairman of the Outdoor Art Committee of the Rosedale district, who is also a member of the Civic League. Rev. Mr. Boller, pastor of Olivet Congregational Church, spoke feelingly of the work the circle was doing in its efforts to bring teachers and mothers into closer sympathy, as well as extending their influence to the issue of civic improvements. Mr. Van der Lhoe was heartily thanked for his continuous efforts on behalf of the Rosedale district, which has been greatly benefited through his persistent and energetic work. Mrs. W. W. Murphy, president of the State Congress of Mothers and guest of honor of the evening, outlined the work the Child Study Circle is striving to accomplish.

The result of this effort has been a call to the people of the district for next Tuesday evening, when a mass meeting will be held at Olivet Church for the purpose of forming a Civic Improvement League. If the residents will take an interest in the movement that part of Los Angeles will become a garden spot, and as Miss Anderson, principal of the Rosedale (Washington street) school, remarked, in a reply to an address of welcome by the president, "It will become, in very truth, Rosedale."

Following the speech-making were mandolin solos by Master Herbert Freeman, a piano duet by Miss Vorwick and Mrs. Trinkeller and a recitation by Mrs. Marie Madison, after which refreshments were served.

Malaria and Mosquitoes.

Some time ago Maj. Fenton, the medical officer of the Soudan, wrote to Maj. Ronald Ross for advice relative to the extermination of mosquitoes and as the result of carrying out the instructions received, a most gratifying improvement has been experienced in the section operated upon. Maj. Fenton recently made a report in a letter to Maj. Ross, in which he said that Ismailia had been practically freed from the pests, while at one time the air was literally swarming with them. It is now possible to sleep in comfort without the use of nets, which, the Major said, he had done for the purpose of experiment, and during the nights in question he had sustained but a few bites. This result had been accomplished largely by the abolition of two large marshes in the northeastern part of the city which had been filled in with sand, and the work of draining a third is about to be commenced.

It is a very remarkable and significant fact that the present season is freer from fever than any one of which there is any record. During the period from January to July in one hospital there were only thee cases of malaria, while during the same time of the previous year the total number was fifty-two, Maj. Fenton says that malarial fever will be entirely when the [illegible] ing the marshes is completed.—[Philadelphia

MONEY IN CIRCULATION. The amount of money in circulation in the United States is now $3,382,000,000—the largest sum in the history of the country. In 1896 the figures were $1,500,000,000. During the last seven years, accordingly, the money in circulation has increased over 50 per cent. Though population has increased rapidly, the circulation per capita now stands close to $30, an increase of more than $8 since 1896.

The per capita circulation in the United States is larger than in any other country with the single exception of France, where the circulation per capita is $37.38. In Germany the circulation is about $20 per capita, in Great Britain about $19, and in Russia only $8.50. The explanation of the high per capita circulation of France is the habit of French peasants to hoard gold. It would be impossible to estimate the amount of gold which French peasants have hidden away, but are extremely conservative and often unwilling to invest their money even in government securities. They prefer to hoard it and lose the interest which would be secured by investing it in securities. The result is that many millions of dollars, if not hundreds of millions, are withdrawn from the channels of commerce. While the enormous amount of gold is really not in circulation it is included in the money in circulation. This is the explanation of the large per capita circulation of France.—[New York Commercial.

The scarcity of labor this season and the shortage of cars tended to limit the pack, and will be the smallest carry-over in ten years. Dried fruits also be in greater demand, for the above causes, and the have already been affected. Prices almost out of first hands and packers have over-sold. Purchases are now in the hands of extra standard peaches and apricots on orders which they have

MORE TOBACCO. The tax on chewing and smoking tobacco paid in the collection for the month of July, 1903, was 1,000,000 pounds, as against 800,000 pounds for July, 1902. This makes for the month of the quantity of nearly 4,000,000 pounds. The use of the cigarette production is on the wane for several months, a decrease now once more, having passed 228,279,042 were made against 250,503,085 for the year 1902, an increase of nearly 10 per cent. Progress is made in cigars and snuff. With the exception for the manufacturers of cigarettes is given that the actual demand for material will are long stocks of southern leaf tobacco (N. C.) HER LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY WHEELS OF WAGON.

FATAL RUNAWAY ACCIDENT ON A RIVERSIDE STREET.

Eleven-year-old Girl Killed Before Her Father's Eyes—Foundry and Machine Works Change Hands—Wolfskill Held to Answer.

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 17.—A sad accident occurred here this morning along the Gage canal, just north of Eighth street, resulting in the instant death of Ruth Twogood, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson H. Twogood of Highgrove. The father started out for work with a two-horse team, taking the little girl along for company. At the bridge where Eighth street crosses the canal, Twogood alighted to fill a barrel with water, leaving his daughter on the high seat holding the reins.

Something startled the team, and they ran away. They had not gone far before the terrified child was thrown from the seat over the whiffletree. The heavy wheels passed over her, crushing her chest and killing her instantly. A physician was summoned by telephone, but the child was beyond the reach of medical aid.

MACHINE WORKS SOLD.

An important business deal has just been consummated whereby Theo. D. Hewitt comes into possession of the Riverside Foundry and Machine Works, purchasing the entire interests of H. A. Landrwehr and others. Mr. Hewitt has had long practical experience in the iron business. The plant will be enlarged from time to time as occasion arises.

PICK-UPS.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Haldeman and children have returned from a week's stay at Ocean Park, where they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair Ormsby. A fishing trip to Harrison's landing, on which occasion a record-breaking catch was made, was a pleasant feature of the outing. So well pleased with Ocean Park was Mr. Haldeman that he purchased a cottage there on the ocean front.

The members of the Riverside Concordia Society will go to Los Angeles Sunday to participate in the festivities attending the fourth annual saengerfest of the California Sangerbund. Special cars have been secured over the Santa Fé road, leaving here at 8:30 a.m.

SAN JACINTO.

INDIAN FIESTA OPENS.

SAN JACINTO, Sept. 17.—The big Indian fiesta now in progress on the Soboba Indian Reservation, two miles east of here, opened at midnight Wednesday with heavy anvil firing, which was continued at intervals until morning. For two days the road leading to Soboba has been one long line of dust, so great has been the travel. Some of the main features of the fiesta will be a series of baseball games between neighboring tribes, foot and horseback races, and chicken-pulling, a race on horses for the buried poultry. Dancing will continue every evening during the fiesta, which lasts until Sunday, when it will close and reopen for another week on some reservation south of here.

DEMAND FOR FENCE POSTS.

Last year the Native Lumber Company could not supply their customers with cedar fence posts, and this year the company, through Manager Hannahs, has acquired a large tract of cedar forest in the San Jacinto Mountains, where a large force of axmen will be at work. Should the snowfall hold off for two months, and the present demand continue, the company will put out fully 100,000 posts.

FEAR EARLY RAINS.

The recent cloudy days caused much uneasiness among the large grain farmers. From the present outlook much grain will be damaged by early rains, as, in all probability, the entire grain crop cannot be thrashed before November 1. One thrashing outfit, that of Warner & Son, has over 1000 settings yet to thrash before they turn their attention to their own grain field of 1600 acres. To have done justice to the large crop, and harvested it in season, there should have been no less than twenty large harvesters in the valley. Plowing will be long in progress before thrashing is over.

SAN BERNARDINO.

CAUGHT WRONG MAN.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 17.—A man supposed to be W. B. Maynard, alias Henry B. Service, one of the most clever forgers in the country, was arrested yesterday by the city officers and locked up in jail. The fellow was arrested at the Santa Fé station as he was about to board a train, and he was later "positively identified" by an electric line foreman, who knew him while he was working at Fullerton. But today an officer came from Fullerton and a glance at the prisoner was sufficient to show that the man taken into custody was neither Maynard nor Service, although there were some points of resemblance between the two men.

The cost of the new Home Telephone building to be erected at Fourth and E streets will be $16,000.

The Modern Woodmen of America of San Bernardino and Riverside counties held their third annual picnic at Urbita Springs today. There was an interesting programme of sports and literary exercises.

REDLANDS.

CABINS FOR BARTON FLATS.

REDLANDS, Sept. 17.—Barton Flats, the place in one of the higher reaches of the Santa Ana Cañon which is the goal of many short tramps by amateur mountaineers, is to have a combination of renaissance and boom. The one lone tumble-down log cabin will cease to be a landmark, and about the icy spring which bubbles out on the pine forest bench hard by is to be a log-cabin city.

Work on the construction of the cabins is to commence at once. A tract of 640 acres about the place has been purchased and the new camp will be under the same management as Seven Oaks, the resort farther down the cañon. The cabins will be built in various sizes for the accommodation of families and others who wish to do their own housekeeping. The telephone line running to Seven Oaks will be extended to the camp. In place of the trail which hitherto was the means of transit between the two places a road has been built.

The present season at Seven Oaks will close tomorrow. The number of visitors is said to have been larger than in any past year.

SLAYS SON-IN-LAW WHO TAUNTED HIM.

TERRIBLE GUN PLAY OF SAN LUIS OBISPO RANCHER.

J. C. Wilson, a Veteran of the Mexican War, Angered at Charles B. Stark, Who Calls Him a Coward, Fatally Shoots the Latter.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Sept. 17.—Angered by the taunt of Charles B. Stark, who called him a coward and dared him to shoot, John C. Wilson, a Mexican war veteran, this morning shot and killed Stark. Wilson was Stark's father-in-law. The tragedy took place at Wilson's ranch in the Pilitas country, about twenty miles northeast of this city.

After the slaying Wilson surrendered himself. Both Wilson and Stark have borne good reputations.

CAYUCOS.

NORTH COAST NOTES.

CAYUCOS, Sept. 17.—The Cosmopolitan Hotel has been leased by E. Minetti and Mrs. Mary Ramonetti and will be opened October 1.

John Greening, aged 78, and Mrs. Cynthia Jane Kingery, aged 60, were married yesterday at the bride's residence on Old Creek. They have been residents of this section since 1872 and 1867, respectively, and each has raised a large family.

Miss Ida Ashley has accepted a position as stenographer with the San Luis Obispo Abstract and Title Company.

All the Japanese divers and fishermen connected with the abalone cannery have removed from Cayucos. The cannery is closed indefinitely.

The proposition of the citizens of Cambria to erect a wharf near that town, abutting from lands owned by Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, has virtually been defeated by the purchase of the [illegible] by an agent of Mrs. Hearst. Cambria must still make their steamer shipments by way of the San Simeon wharf, ten miles away, which is owned and controlled by the Hearst estate.

The Cayucos Oste Improvement Club, which has for its purpose the purchase of a free picnic and camping ground, has increased its membership to eighty-seven. The club gave a dance, which was a great success, socially and financially.

The celebration of Swiss independence day at Cambria has been postponed to September 24.

The contract of Capt. A. A. Polhamus of San Diego on the Port Harford breakwater will be completed in a couple of weeks. A barge load of rock is taken daily from Morrow quarries.

BAKERSFIELD.

LARGE NEW ICE PLANT.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Sept. 17.—The new plant of the United Ice SCompany will have an additional storage warehouse adjoining the present structure, which will make the total capacity 5000 tons. The new building will be 110 feet long and 60x25 in the other dimensions. S. B. Toby, vice-president and general manager of the company, accompanied by Architect Havens, arrived here yesterday and met General Superintendent Williams, and arrangements were made to enlarge the ice plant in this city.

A new 30-ton ice-making machine will be installed in the present building, and large refrigerating pipes will be placed in the new warehouse. The improvements will cost $30,000 and will be in operation early next spring.

Mr. Toby says the company was induced to make improvements in this city because the water is the best in the State. An analysis of Bakersfield water has demonstrated that it is even purer than the Spring Valley water in San Francisco.

SANTA BARBARA.

ROBBERY STILL A MYSTERY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 17.—The mystery of the Wells-Fargo safe robbery still remains unsolved, and as yet the police have been unable to fasten suspicion on any one. Every member of the office force has satisfactorily answered the most searching cross-questioning.

P. B. Yates, the regular agent here, returned late last night from Los Angeles, after a six weeks' vacation spent in the southern part of the State, and although he has made vigorous inquiries since his return, he has met with no more success in his investigation than did acting Agent Adams. Mr. Yates stated this afternoon that there were no developments, and that in all probability nothing would be done for a day or so.

The robbery is one of the most puzzling which has happened in Santa Barbara for some time. All the facts indicate that the job was done by some one thoroughly familiar with the customs of the office.

BURNED WITH GASOLINE.

J. J. Byerholm of Lompoc, who was seriously injured by a gasoline explosion a few days ago, is slowly recovering and is now thought to be out of danger. Byerholm, who conducts a blacksmith business, refuses to tell just how the accident occurred, but the general theory is that in filling his tank with gasoline he allowed some to escape and that coming in with a light some time afterward he ignited the fumes.

ALL FINDING JOBS.

By twos and threes and half dozens non-union mechanics are coming to Santa Barbara, and as they arrive are snapped up by the contractors, who have non-unionized their work, and who have been running short handed for the last few weeks rather than take back the union strikers. It is certain that all competent non-union men of whatever trades can find steady employment here for some time to come. The most serious inconvenience to the citizens has been caused by the lack of plumbers, owing to the strike of the Ott Company's men, and the lockout of the men employed by the other firms, but sufficient non-union plumbers have now been secured to carry on a portion of the work.

DEATH OF PIONEER.

Mrs. Trinidad Ortega De la Guerra, one of the oldest and most respected residents of Santa Barbara, died here today. Four daughters, Mariana Taylor, Olympia Arellanes, Juaquinia de la Guerra, and Paulina de la Guerra, and two sons, Gaspar and Leon, survive her. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the parochial church.

VENTURA.

STRONG FIGHT FOR FREEDOM.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, Sept. 17.—Manuel Sepulveda, who was recently brought back from El Paso, Tex., to answer a charge of an assault to commit murder in Oxnard on the night of July 4, is in Oxnard to be arraigned, but is without an attorney. Yesterday Sepulveda, who had retained Horace Appel of Los Angeles to defend him, also desired to retain a Ventura attorney in his case, and accordingly sent for W. E. Shepherd of this city to call upon him at the jail. Mr. Shepherd called as requested, but the Sheriff would not permit the attorney to see Sepulveda except in the presence of the Sheriff or some of his deputies, and Shepherd immediately declined to have anything to do with the case. He said if the prisoner was not allowed the same privileges regarding the consulting of an attorney as other prisoners were and always had been he did not care to have anything to do with the case.

There is some feeling between the Sheriff's office and the attorney, springing out of the Favella case. Favella was a pal of Sepulveda and was mixed up with him in the Fourth of July row in Oxnard. Favella was recently tried and convicted. It is expected that the case of Sepulveda will be even more bitterly contested. The prisoner is said to have wealthy friends, who have already raised a considerable fund for his defense.

Shepherd says that the Sheriff has exceeded his authority and blames the District Attorney with advising the Sheriff not to admit Shepherd to see Sepulveda alone. He says he asked the Sheriff if the District Attorney had so advised him and the Sheriff told him to get the permission of the District Attorney and then call on him (the Sheriff.) The attorney called on the District Attorney, but did not see him, and in consequence did not get his permit and so Sepulveda is so far unrepresented. Sepulveda's father is a resident of Los Angeles, where the boy was born and where, it is claimed, he has good family connections.

DIED OF HEMORRHAGE.

Miss Louise Everett, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnatus Everett of Montalvo, died suddenly this morning at the residence of Mrs. E. J. Shaw, where she boarded while attending the High School here. The young lady was taken with a hemorrhage of the lungs while preparing to go to school and died almost immediately. The sudden death came as a great shock to her friends, as she was in her usual good health immediately before being stricken, and yesterday attended school as usual with no outward sign that the end would come so quickly. She was a young lady of many excellent traits of character and very popular in the junior class, of which she was a member. She was 16 years of age. Deceased was born at Montalvo, in this county and was a great favorite in all circles where known. She was a niece of Mrs. J. S. Collins and Edmund Geory of this place.

Merely Curiosity.

Mr. Podgkins, the prosperous grocer of Perkins Junction, had transacted the business that brought him to the big city, and still had two or three hours at his disposal before train time.

Whereupon he proceeded to hunt up a former friend, and, with the aid of a city directory and a policeman, he found him at last in a swell downtown business office.

He went in and inquired for the proprietor.

After waiting half an hour he was admitted to the presence of a portly, dignified personage seated in an arm chair, to whom he addressed himself.

"Is this Jake Skadwell?" he asked.

"My name is Skadwell," replied the personage.

"Well, I'm Sam Podgkins of Perkins Junction. Remember me."

"Podgkins? Podgkins? Seems to me I do remember the name. To what am I indebted for the honor of this—"

"O, nothin' in particular. Thought I'd run in and see if livin' in the city hadn't made you kind o' fat and squatty like. I see it has. Good day."—[Chicago Tribune.

...SPECTACLE.

... men of advanced ... of whisky from one ... wonderfully regulat...ed "buffet" grogshops, created a shameful spectacle in front of the band stand yesterday afternoon, frightening children, filling women with disgust and causing more than one man to regret that he had chosen Santa Monica as the pleasantest place and safest beach to bring his family for an outing.

The old man who, with two cronies, was celebrating on pension money, became so obnoxious to the holiday throng on the bluff that finally he was laced under arrest. That made him wild, and he fought with fists, feet and filthy oaths. The arresting officer succeeded in throwing the old man to the ground and then dragged him—fighting and cursing at every step—through dust and dirt to the far side street, away from the picnickers. A passing express wagon was stopped and converted into a patrol wagon, and the officer, seated on the old fellow's chest, got his prisoner to jail.

JOTTED DOWN.

City Tax Collector Barretto is preparing notices and receipts for the annual collection of municipal taxes, which will be begun October 5. The first installment will become delinquent November 30.

The ninety-third anniversary of Mexican independence was celebrated yesterday by a picnic and barbecue at Santa Monica Cañon, about 100 Mexicans attending.

Dr. J. H. Crawford, who recently purchased the spacious Jennens house and grounds on the northeast corner of Sixth street and Oregon avenue, is erecting an office building on the grounds.

The establishment of study classes was discussed and determined upon tonight at a meeting of the Educational Committee of the Y.M.C.A.

Half a hundred students of St. Vincent's Academy, Los Angeles, spent yesterday afternoon picnicking on North Beach. They were in charge of members of the faculty.

W. Lee Chambers will build a five-story dwelling on Eleventh street near Nevada avenue, which he will occupy.

Mrs. Thomas Stone, who has been spending several weeks with friends here, yesterday returned to her home in Pasadena.

A son was born today to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwartz of Riverside, who are spending a season here.

Among the guests registered at the Hotel Arcadia are H. L. Seward, Mr. and Mrs. George R. James, Robert C. Gillis, C. L. Bundy, Miss Vail, S. C. Pardee, C. A. Barnes, J. E. Brady, Los Angeles; George F Doty, Santa Monica; Mr. and Mrs. George Babbitt and children, Flagstaff, Ariz.; Mrs Rand, New York; A. L. Edwards, San Francisco; George Fuller, San Diego; F. W. Mathiason, Pasadena.

CLAREMONT.

COLLEGE TOWN NEWS.

CLAREMONT, Sept. 17.—Theodore Cadwalader, who was elected captain of the 'varsity baseball team for the approaching season, has decided to go East and attend the preparatory school at Annapolis.

Miss Marie Hagins, who for two seasons past has played a star forward on the girls' 'varsity basketball team, has arrived in town, preparatory to another year at Pomona College. During the greater part of the summer she has been the guest of Miss Elva Huntley of Pasadena.

N. R. Richardson, for years the manager of Poston's branch store in this place, has been elected a director of a Long Beach hardware company, with a capitalization of $25,000.

SAWTELLE.

Martin Corps, W.R.C., will attend in a body by courtesy.

Besides the improvements being placed in the interior of the school building, the trustees are having the grounds improved with suitable partition and division fences.

OCEAN PARK.

FIXING BOUNDARY LINES.

OCEAN PARK, Sept. 17.—The work of surveying boundary lines for the incorporation of the new Ocean Park has been begun, and the obtaining of signatures to the petition for charter will be taken up the first of next week. The proposed boundaries are the ocean, a line taking in Short Line Beaches nos. 1 and 2, a line taking in the first tier of lots east of the L. A.-P. tracks, and the center of Marine street.

One odd incident dependent on the proposed incorporation of Ocean Park is that in the event of incorporation Capt. Donahue will own a lot one-fourth of which will lie within the corporate limits of the fifth-class city of Santa Monica, and the other three-fourths within the corporate limits of the sixth-class city of Ocean Park. At present one-fourth of the captain's property lies in Santa Monica and three-fourths in the county of Los Angeles. The owner is being flooded with facetious advice as to profitable lawn-grading purposes to which the land might be put.

NEWS NOTES.

Five hundred invitations were issued today for the Country Club's mask ball of Saturday night, September 26, which is to be the social event of the year. Scores of Los Angeles people have been bidden. The tennis courts will be carpeted with waxed canvas for out-door dancing, and from the club-house balcony colored lights will be thrown on the merry mummers. The clubhouse and grounds will be brilliantly and beautifully illuminated.

By long odds the most charming and interesting member of the younger set of Ocean Park's visiting society is Miss Phyllis Burks, who is now at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Burks. Miss Phyllis is of the brown-eyed, black-haired and fair-skinned type of beauty, and is immensely popular in her circle. She will be two weeks old tomorrow.

President T. H. Dudley of the Board of City Trustees has received a letter from Carl Schader of Los Angeles, his mining partner, saying that the latter has arrived in Calulcan, Mex., and will start thence inland this week to inspect certain mining properties.

Few or none of the residents here felt Tuesday night's earthquake.

POMONA.

WILL LAY CORNER-STONE.

POMONA, Sept. 17.—Great preparations for the laying of the corner-stone of the new $55,000 High School building by the grand lodge of California, here on next Monday, are being made. J. R. Garthside, E. H. Welch and A. M. Dole of the Committee of Arrangements from Pomona Lodge, F. and A.M., conferred with G. A. Steffa, president of the Board of Education, and Supervising Principal P. W. Kauffman of the city schools today and completed the programme. The procession will form at Odd Fellows' Hall and will be composed of the grand marshal and aides, Pomona Band, Co. D, N.G.C., High School cadets, members of the Board of Education and Board of City Trustees in carriages, Southern California Commandery of Knights Templar, acting escort to Pomona Lodge, visiting masons and grand lodge officers. The line of march will be up Second street to Garey, thence to Holt avenue, then to Gibbs street, and north to the school grounds. President George W. Gates of Pomona College will deliver an address. Prof. P. W. Kauffman will also speak. Past Grand Master James A. Foshay of Los Angeles will officiate as Acting Grand Master, and W. R. Hervey of Los Angeles will be the Acting Grand Orator. LONG BEACH.

INTERURBAN COURTESIES.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 17.—The orange, the prune and the apricot shook hands with the wave crest today, when a generous representation of the business interests of Pomona and vicinity came to the seashore where courtesies were received from the people of this town by the ocean-side.

Those who came in the excursion from Pomona were members of the Pomona Board of Trade and their friends. They numbered about 250. The excursion was by special train. The Long Beach Marine Band, members of the Long Beach Board of Trade, members of the Board of City Trustees and others of Long Beach met the visitors at Bell station and extended a royal welcome.

The "annual" dip in the sea was the first thing in order when the special had deposited its load of visitors. Each of them was presented a bleeding-tooth shell. The shells were worn by the Pomonans and were retained by them as souvenirs.

All of the visitors who desired to do so were entertained on boating trips to San Pedro breakwater. At noon hot coffee was served in the pavilion under the auspices of the Long Beach Board of Trade, which was in charge generally of the arrangements for the pleasure of the people who live up by the foot of Old Baldy. The members of the Pomona Band, which accompanied the excursion, were entertained at luncheon at the Delaware.

Today's visitation was a return of the municipal call made by the Long Beach people when they visited Pomona in a body soon after the opening of the Salt Lake Railroad. It was by that line that the visitors came today.

LUDDEN-NEWKIRK.

The marriage of Jerome A. Ludden and Miss Minnie Alta Newkirk took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Wingard at Lime avenue and First street. The wedding marches were played by Miss Hertha Pahl of Los Angeles. A few relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Ludden will make their home on California street in Los Angeles.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 16.—The main celebration within Arizona of the anniversary of Mexican independnece consisted of a programme calling for patriotic exercises and of sports filling three days. Hundreds came here from Tucson and other outside towns. The streets are thronged with Mexicans, despite the fact that Phoenix has a somewhat smaller percentage of Mexican residents than any other town in Southern Arizona. The official celebration began yesterday morning in a reception at the home of Mexican Consul Augustin Pina, chairman of the Committee on Arrangements. Brief addresses were made and telegrams of congratulation dispatched to President Diaz, on the occasion of his birthday. Last night and this afternoon public exercises were held in an open square on East Washington street. This afternoon was an elaborate parade that passed through business streets gayly decorated with the Mexican national colors, invariably associated, however, with the Stars and Stripes. At Phoenix Park were cowboy sports. Fast time was made by the steer tyers, but fasted by the amateur bullfighters in their flights over the fence before a bull that proved too "bravo" to handle. The bullfight was advertised as a burlesque one. So it was. One of the bulls had evidently been a family pet, while the other chased every man from the pen and then kept them out. Guards had been provided for the bull's horns, but were lost in the first charge. So the honors of the day rested with el toro.

SOMEBODY BLUNDERED.

Some one from New Mexico lately filled up a reporter of the Washington Post with statements that the people of New Mexico and Arizona viewed their proposed union with complacency, and that ex-Delegate M. A. Smith and Delegate J. F. Wilson of Arizona were even in favor of the measure of union. There was trouble in the Arizona air for both when the report arrived here. Both gentlemen were wired to, one being in Kntucky and the other in Prescott. The replies were not dissimilar. Smith telegraphed: "It is an unqualified lie. I am intensely opposed to joint Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico." Wilson's answer was: "The statement that I and Smith are in favor of joint Statehood is a lie of the roughest sort. I have so written to the Washington Post."

WILL COMPLETE THE DAM.

It is told that, encouraged by the near construction of the Tonto Basin dam, capital has been secured for the completion of the Agua Fria dam. This scheme is one that seeks to irrigate about 50,000 acres of excellent land on the plain twenty-five miles northwest of Phoenix, near the line of the Santa Fé, Prescott and Phoenix Railway. The diversion dam, of dressed stone and cement, was practically completed at the time the last great financial panic withdrew support of eastern capitalists from the enterprise. This dam is now to be finished and a larger storage dam constructed farther up stream in a narrow cañon of the Agua Fria River. Will H. Beardsley, president of the Agua Fria Reservoir Company, has kept doggedly at work on the scheme for two years, and now announces success.

NEW SURVEYOR-GENERAL.

Maj. F. W. Ingalls of Yuma, the new appointee to the office of Surveyor-General of Arizona, has arrived in Phoenix, and is making arrangements for taking charge at an early date. Maj. Ingalls has been a deputy surveyor attached to the office, and is well acquainted with its duties. He was second choice at the time of Price's appointment, and is related by marriage with Land Commissioner Richards. It followed that his appointment came so close upon the heels of Surveyor-General Price's removal that nothing save telegraphic indorsements from Arizona had time to reach Washington. Mr. Price has been a very sick man for more than a year. He is still in San Francisco under medical care, but is expected to return to Phoenix soon.

FENCED IN THE TOWN.

The existence of the town of Sidney appears to be threatened, according to a suit that will be heard at the coming term of the District Court. The town was laid off by the late Capt. W. O. O'Neill. It is the chief settlement of the agricultural community under the Buckeye Canal, thirty-five miles west of Phoenix. It was laid off on broad and metropolitan plans. Now James R. Thorpe, manager of the company that has succeeded to ownership of canal and townsite, has fenced in some of the avenues and paper-planned public parks and proposes to turn them back into farmning land. So the collective population of the embryotic city, possibly twenty in number, have petitioned for a permanent injunction against Thorpe. They allege that as lot owners they have acquired a vested right in the streets and alleys, a right which may not be infringed upon by the townsite company.

YOUTHFUL HEROINE.

At the swimming baths at Phoenix Park a few days ago, Ellen Ely, aged 14, displayed the qualities of a true heroine. Her chum, Fannie Lount, aged 12, jumped into the water above her depth and sank at once, as she was unable to swim. Little Miss Ely, an excellent swimmer, hardly waiting to call for assistance, dived to the rescue at once. The drowning child caught her around the neck and nearly strangled her rescuer before she could be hauled to safety at the edge of the pool.

TERRITORIAL BRIEFS.

The Territorial Auditor's office during August turned into the Treasurer's office the sum of $2349, making a total of $15,158 received from incorporation fees from the time the Legislature passed the act turning the fees from the Secretary's office to the Territory. The business adds about $100 a day to the Territorial revenues.

The olive growers of the Salt River Valley have organized an association to secure more satisfactory conditions in the marketing of the product of oil. The industry is a prosperous one, and the oil produced is generally considered as comparing favorably with the best Italian.

The whole art of managing fire with a gas cookstove consists of these two parts:

(1) Keep the mixer right.

(2) Turn down your gas about half as soon as your cooking begins, for two reasons—better save the gas; slow fire is enough.

The mixer mixes air with the gas; it is as easy to work as gas light is.

You touch the mixer, perhaps, once a week or month. The adjustment is rough; about like turning on gas for light.

SCRATCH! SCRATCH!!

TOTAL COST $2.25.

"I take pleasure in letting you know how much Cuticura Remedies have done for me and my father, and two brothers. In the fall of '95 I began to be afflicted with an itching rash under my chin. It kept spreading until it was all over my body. I could not sleep, but was compelled to lie awake and scratch all the time. My father and two brothers were afflicted with the same thing at the same time. We all suffered terribly for a year and a half, trying in the mean time all the remedies we could find, but received no benefit. I happened to see Cuticura Remedies advertised and how they had cured others from itching skin diseases, and we thought we would try them. I bought three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and they cured the four of us completely. Any person doubting the truth of this statement can write me."

RICHARD ANDERSON, Feb. 22, 1898. Geneva, Utah.

CURES PERMANENT.

Mr. Anderson writes, Feb. 25, 1903, That Disease Has Not Returned.

"I am glad to write and let you know that your Cuticura Remedies cured us and the disease has not returned, and we all praise the Cuticura Remedies and would be glad to have you use our names. Would be willing to answer any letters from any person wishing to know about these Remedies."

Cuticura Ointment is beyond question the most successful curative for torturing, disfiguring humours of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed in the severer cases, by a dose of Cuticura Resolvent, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humours, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all other remedies fail.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Remedies are the form of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. Price of Cuticura Soap, 25c. Cuticura Ointment, 50c. Cuticura Pills, 25c. per vial. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Send for "How to Cure Skin Troubles," 64 pp.
